So many have gone into the contest business, we move that the Tillamookers who filed on timber claims but are being deprived of them, so as to make it interesting, go into the contest business as well and make it an endless chain affair.

It is surprising to see so many farmers from the outside, who drive to Tillamook to rusticate in the mountains or camp on the beach, who have narrow tired wagons. When will the farmers of the "outside" take a tumble to themselves and discard them?

The fifth annual commencement of St. Alphonsus Academy will take place tomorrow (Friday) evening at the academy, when another pleasing entertainment is in store for the citizens who make it a point to attend. The commencement exercises in previous years have proved such enjoyable affairs, that for to-morrow evening is sure to be largely patronized.

Tillamook City will have a big celebration on the Fourth, the biggest in the history of the county, with plenty of attractions and amusement for the entire day, but all that is wanted to make it a success is for the ladies to throw good eyes at Old Sol and ask that luminary to smile down on the garden spot of Oregon on the national holiday.

After several weeks of bright, warm weather, the refreshing patter of the rain was heard again on Monday and at a time when it was required. Copious showers of rain in the Summer and Fall other parts of Oregon are deprived of, but not in Tillamook, where every thing is kept green and fresh, while Old Bossy does the rest and puts value into dairy lands.

Mr. Robert Crawford returned Saturday, having been on a visit to his daughters in California. He is one of the early settlers of Tillamook county, having located at Nehalem some 32 years ago, where he made one of the best dairy farms in the county after years of hard work, and where he raised a large family, consequently his visit to California after being in Tillamook so many years was quite an enjoyable outing. He has partly disposed of his fine bottom land farm at Nehalem, where he was considered one of the best and industrious citizens of that section. Mr. Crawford will continue to make his home in this county during the summer.

The board of school directors decided to call another meeting of the district to reconsider the question of putting an addition on the old building, and July 20 is the date fixed for holding the meeting. The meeting is for the purpose of authorizing the directors to put up a new building and giving them the authority to borrow money for that purpose and to repair the old building.

The competition between the Pacific Navigation Co. and the Nehalem Transportation Co. is still on, and the end of quick trips and low freight and passenger rates are not in sight yet. It is seen that since the competition with the steamers began the passengers crossing the mountains on the stage are very few, which will not be very satisfactory for the new contractors next month.

Two boys by the name of Vernon Olds and William Sippy stole two bicycles last week and rode off with them. They were arrested and brought back, but had previously returned the bicycles. They were brought before Judge Sappington on Monday, and after their parents had agreed to look after the boys and the judge had given them a good talking to, they were allowed to go this time.

Mr. Geo. Anderson, the expert piano tuner and tone regulator, is in the city. He is a representative of the Eilers Piano House, Portland, and those in need of piano or organ tuning, etc., would do well to place their instruments in Mr. Anderson's care. Anyone contemplating buying a piano or organ would do well to figure with Mr. Anderson, of the Eilers House. Orders left in care of the Allen house will receive prompt attention.

The committee appointed at the school meeting to audit the financial report of the clerk reports as follows: "Your committee to whom was referred the financial report of the clerk of this district for the year ending June 16, 1902, respectfully report that we have carefully examined the same, and after correcting a few minor errors, we find the balance on hand to be $545.11." The report is signed by T. B. Handley, P. McIntosh and J. S. Stephens.

Powers, Newton Gun Co., S.F.; A. J. McDaniel, Segler Milling Co., Portland.

You will save money by buying your farm implements at McIntosh & McNair's.

Eight additional contests against the contestees in the famous Hava contest cases were filed in the United States Land Office Monday by Attorney John W. Draper. The contestant in the cases is William J. Law, who filed 37 similar cases in the land office last Friday, and he now has junior contest pending against 45 entries. The eight contestees are Oak Nolan, Henry Himes, Blanche Newman, G. W. Hadley, A. G. West, M. H. Larsen, J. W. Hunt and Maude Sturgeon. The contestant's affidavits in the eight cases are the same as in the 37 cases, and allege fraud on the part of the entrants, and also on the part of Hays, contestant, G. O. N. In junior contestant.

It is reported that the recent spell of dry weather in the Willamette valley is going to cause some of the crops to be short this year. Tillamook dairymen read about dry weather and poor crops, but the oldest settler in the county has never experienced that in Tillamook, and to the young people who were born and raised here, they have a poor conception of a country which experiences crop failures and the hard times which follows. Tillamook county is noted for no crop failures, no business failures, for if a person cannot make a living and something to spare dairying in Tillamook he is a failure, no matter what part of the country he may be in.

The big fire in Portland on Saturday is a loss also to Tillamook, inasmuch as it destroyed two boats and one schooner which J. H. Johnson was building for the Wheeler Lumber Company. It will be remembered that the schooner was launched a few weeks ago, and she was practically completed with masts and all other appliances on board, and she would have been turned over to the Wheeler Lumber Company had she not been destroyed by the fire in that city in a week. The schooner was to have borne the name of "Pro Bono Publico" and was to be abandoned at sea in a storm after the hawser had parted while being towed to San Francisco by the tug Geo. R. Vosburg, and which came ashore and was wrecked at Yaquina.

Who is the Burglar?

The county authorities investigated a case of attempted burglary on Monday, which occurred on the previous night at John Maroff's place, South of this city. According to the statement of Sid Lowry, who was looking after the place in the absence of Mr. Maroff, he was woken up on Sunday night, sometime after nine o'clock by someone in his bedroom opening the lid of a box. He sprang out of bed and encountered a man with a mask on. In the tussel which follow Lowry claims he struck the intruder in the face, grabbed a chair to defend himself, which was wrenched away from him, and then seizing a jack knife began slashing right and left with it in the dark. He believed he struck his assailant in the back with the knife, when Lowry was knocked over the head and rendered unconscious. On recovering he was in a dazed condition, and on getting a light saw that one of the chairs had been broken and a number of drops of blood were on the floor. This was traced down the stairs and out to an old milk house, where a number of drops of blood were seen on straw. Lowry's knuckles were skinned, the side of his face had a slight scarse and his shirt was smeared with blood on the front. Lowry claims that sometime ago he heard parties coming up the stairs one night, but being awake at the time he scared them off.

Guilty or Not Guilty?

Mr. C. W. Talmage handed us the following letter, asking us to publish it:

McMinnville, Oregon, June 16th, 1902.

[TO THE EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT]

DEAR SIR: I have made a diligent inquiry into the supposed authorship of the communications that appeared in the Telephone-Register during the late campaign, emanating from Tillamook, over the name de plume of "Pro Bono Publico" and the "Che Chaco" and "Puritan," and am now convinced beyond a doubt that Mr. C. W. Talmage had nothing whatever to do with the writing or publication of these communications, or either of them. I ask you to kindly publish this statement, for the reason we do not wish any injustice done to Mr. Talmage through a former communication published in your paper from the McMinnville News, suggesting him as the probable author of these articles.

Very truly yours,
W. J. VINTON,
Chairman Republican County Committee for Yamhill Co.

The editor of the Headlight does not care to resurrect the recent political controversy, but if Mr. Talmage was not the writer of these letters, had nothing to do with them in any shape or form, nor does not know who were, then he is entitled to be heard on the subject, and the proper way for him to do this is under his own signature denying any connection, finger in the pie, or knowledge of who were, also with a statement from the editor of the Telephone-Register to a like effect. When Mr. Talmage does this then the letter of Mr. W. T. Vinton will be perfectly in order and proper, for we wish to point out that Mr. Talmage has not himself publicly denied being the author or being mixed up in connecting the libelous matter and getting it into the McMinnville newspaper. As far as we are concerned the Headlight has buried the hatchet over the election, and if the controversy should be started again and terminates in libel suits against the Ocean Wave and the defunct Independent, we wish to state that we do not wish to be held responsible.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our sincere and heart felt thanks to our many friends who gave us their aid and showed us so much kindness and sympathy during the sickness of our husband and father, whom we are glad to say is recovering very rapidly.

Mrs. Geo. W. PHELPS AND FAMILY.

Oleo Men's Device.

The oleo manufacturers, it is reported, are already preparing to evade the law recently passed requiring them to pay a tax of 10 cents a pound on oleo colored to look like butter by coloring substances. They think they can work in enough real yellow butter to make the oleo look like butter and sell for butter, and that will, in fact, be in small part butter, yet mostly oleo. This trick is not likely to succeed very well, and if it does the law can easily be amended so as to make a standard below which stuff is not butter but oleo. There is no objection to the oleo being manufactured, put on the market and sold. Congress recognized it as a legitimate article of commerce and food by imposing a tax of only 1/4 of a cent on uncolored oleo; but what is demanded is that it shall be sold for what it is, and not for butter; that consumers shall not be imposed upon and swindled by these coloring tricks; and this is the business of Congress, the executive officers and the courts, to accomplish, if it takes all of several summers.—Telegram.

The cow, for economy, is the one that from a given amount of feed will produce the most and best milk or butter. She should not be any larger than is necessary to do her work and when giving milk will not store up a lot of fat that will be of no particular use to her owner. While she will eat much more than a wasteful cow, she will give a larger per cent of returns. The difference between keeping a herd of economical cows and a herd of wasteful cows may be the difference between profit and loss and certainly will be a difference in the margin of profit. For profitable dairy work along we must look to the individuality of each cow.

STOP THAT COUGH.

A good many people have thought that a cough didn't amount to much—most excellent people whose friends were sorry to lose them. Now don't make this mistake—a cough is the first step toward serious and often fatal sickness; stop it right there.

Our Syrup, Tolu Tar and Wild Cherry, 25c., and $1.00 bottles, has proved a marvellous cough stopper. If you've just begun to cough, the 25c. size will fix you; if it's an old cough, try a larger bottle. It always relieves, and except in the most desperate cases it always cures.

And everything a well-stocked drug store ought to have, we have.
