Captain Dawson predicts wet weather for the Fourth. That is what this old and pretty reliable weather prophet wrote several days ago, and by the look of the weather yesterday and this morning it certainly does not look inviting for the Fourth.
The Glenora House, on the Wilson River Road, is half way across the mountains. Good fishing and hunting, free camp grounds, fried chicken, fresh butter, abundance of cream, strawberries and other fruit in their seasons, are on the menu at the Glenora House. Try it.
We wish to call attention to the concert to be given next Wednesday by Mr. Geo. Anderson, assisted by local talent. This will be an entertainment where high class music will predominate, and those who appreciate that have a treat awaiting them next week, while other features will be just as attractive.
Go to McIntosh & McNair's when you want farm implements, for they are the local agents for the Plano Manufacturing Company, carrying in stock the celebrated Jones' Mowers and Tedders, recognized the best implements made in the United States; also agents for the Olds' Wagons, manufactured at Fort Wayne, Ind., which are made of the finest material that can be procured. You will save money by buying your farm implements at McIntosh & McNair's.
Because the Headlight took such an aggressive stand in the recent county election, several people have told us this week that those who we opposed intend making it tropical for the editor. There is such a thing as the smiters getting smitten where they least expect it, but as some people never can bury the hatchet after an election, all we can say is, come on, ye gallants, and we'll have a battle royal which will surprise the community.
Mrs. N. P. Olson and son Edwin and Mamie Anderson, of San Francisco, are visiting friends in this city and are stopping at the Allen. Mrs. Olson's husband took passage in the steamer Elmore for Alaska, where he has large mining interest, and when it became reported that that vessel with several others had been lost going north, this caused Mrs. Olson and her relatives considerable anxiety. A telegram the first part of the week saying that the vessel was safe allayed all anxiety. It will be seen by the news reports on another page that the Portland was caught in the ice pack, and was 80 miles north of Cape Prince of Wales, which is well up in the Arctic Ocean.
The steamer Geo. R. Vosburg was disabled on Sunday. She was taking an excursion party down the slough for the purpose of going outside to shoot sea lions on the rocks off Cape Meares lighthouse, but when near the jetty at Dry-stocking, the steamer went over a water soaked log, and the propeller striking it threw it out of the water, but in doing so the main shaft was broken in two and the propeller went to the bottom. The steamer had to be taken on the mud flats and the shaft removed, which was taken to Astoria to be repaired. Captain Loll expects to return with it on the next trip of the Elmore. Should they not be able to recover the propeller, they have an extra one at Hobsonville.
Grace Keeher, one of the girls attending college, whose home is on Wilson River, started Friday to walk from Gales City across the mountains to her home, a distance of 26 miles, says the Forest Grove Times. There is not one human habitation along the road. Mrs. Stokes had a letter from her yesterday, saying she only had to walk 10 miles when she met her brother coming after her with a horse. He had been delayed in starting, but Grace was bound to get home. A gentleman coming this way said he met her well up on the mountain road, carrying her birdcage and a couple of bundles, and walking as lightly as if she were on a picnic, and faster than any team could climb those hills. That is the kind of spirit that animates our Oregon girls.

A serious altercation occurred in the South part of the county on Sunday between W. N. Bays and M. A. Cady at Blaine, which came near killing the former. From what we can learn the two men got into a dispute over a fence and a warfare of words ensued, which was followed by Bays slapping Cady in the face. Having a hammer in his hand, Cady struck Bays in the face with the handle of it, which greatly exasperated the latter, and taking a knife from his pocket went for Cady, cutting the sleeve of his shirt. The battle royal was ended by Cady striking Bays on the cranium with the hammer, fracturing the skull and pressing the bone on the brain, making a wound two inches square. Dr. Wiley was sent for to attend the injured man, and although the wound is a serious one, it is a little premature to predict whether he will recover.
If you are wanting to know what kind of weather they are getting in Illinois at present, read this: "All weather records in Central Illinois are being broken this year. Rain has fallen steadily for 24 hours approaching a cloudless and extensive times. At intervals on Friday night snow fell, while the temperature dropped to 45 degrees, and but for the rain there would have been frost." We should not be surprised to read in a few weeks that the temperature is away up to 100 degrees and as hot as blazes in that state. Tillamookers never trouble about being froze up in winter nor burned up in the summer, and for that reason we can all be thankful for the beautiful, cool and refreshing summer weather that we have in this county and feel sorry for those who have to endure Old Sol's scorching rays.
"It won't take long for me to run Baker out," was the remark that Bro. Watson made soon after the editor took charge of the Headlight. But let us tell him something, the more he cussed and abused us, the more we prospered and more friends rallied around us. When the Headlight exposed the railroad boom, Bro. Watson, so as to be on the side of popular opinion, published that Baker had given the county a black eye, and a large number of our citizens honestly believed we had, but times don't come only vindicate us. Those who became hot in the collar at the time now realize that the Headlight's predictions came too true, but Bro. Watson never showed any disposition to make amends for cussing the Headlight when it was in the right, but kept on cussing more and more. As to being run out, froze out, why, Bro. Watson was a poor judge of human nature, for he never took into consideration the tenacity with which we take hold of a thing, and if he will return to Tillamook in another ten years he will find his friend, Bro. Baker, still editor of the Headlight, pursuing the same aggressive and independent tone. Wherever Bro. Watson may locate we wish him well.

Growth of Rural Free Delivery.
Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith was presented Saturday, by many of his former subordinates, with a massive silver punch bowl in recognition of his work in installing the rural free postal delivery system. The facts regarding the growth of the system under the administration of the Postoffice department by M. Smith are interesting. When he took charge there were but 130 routes in operation and the number established or provided for when he retired was 7,000. In 1898 the appropriation for this service was $50,000, while for the current year it is $8,000,000. At the time Mr. Smith became postmaster general, in April, 1898, rural free delivery was an experiment. It had become a permanent part of the postal service when he retired from the cabinet in January last. The very great progress made in developing the system during this period of four years was largely due to the earnest and energetic efforts of Hon. Charles Emory Smith and it is something of which any man might be proud.
Speaking of the work Mr. Smith said its value cannot well be over estimated. "The conception which plans the actual delivery of the mail every day at every door throughout the entire eligible portion of the country, covering over a million square miles of territory, and thus puts every home in touch with the world activities, is one of the striking illustrations of the prodigious energies and wonderful achievements of the American people. No other country in the world undertakes such colossal service. The only countries where universal house delivery is tried are countries of limited area and compact population. In only two years of our advance we covered a territory greater than the area of all England." Mr. Smith expressed the opinion that at the estimated rate of progress the whole available portion of the country will be embraced in this service in three or four more years.

STOP THAT COUGH.

A good many people have thought that a cough didn't amount to much—most excellent people whose friends were sorry to lose them. Now don't make this mistake—a cough is the first step toward serious and often fatal sickness; stop it right there.

Our Syrup, Tolu Tar and Wild Cherry, 25c., 50c., and $1.00 bottles, has proved a marvelous cough stopper. If you've just begun to cough, the 25c. size will fix you; if it's an old cough, try a larger bottle. It always relieves, and except in the most desperate cases it always cures.

And everything a well-stocked drug store ought to have, we have.
