Editor Weatherly favored the editor of the Headlight with a fraternal call on Friday while he was in the city on business from Woods. We hope our readers will not think for one moment that the two pencil pushers were concocting some devious plot. Our brother from the south part of the county is too much of a gentleman for that, for it is only when bad men get hold of editors that they go wrong and are thought to be bad men also. No insinuations, of course, out, please call again, Bro.

Although there was an exodus of people to the beach and mountains on Sunday, a good number witnessed the ball games on Sunday. There appears to be considerable more interest taken in the game than in previous years, probably because some of the prominent citizens have interested themselves, with the result there is some good-tempered rivalry between the different teams which have been organized and which are competing for the championship, which takes with it a pennant. The game Sunday morning was between Mr. J. E. Sibley's and Mr. Claude Thayer's teams, in which the former won with a score of 11 to 2. The school and academy teams were competitors on the diamond in the afternoon, when the school won the game with a score of 31 to 15.

At a meeting of the school directors on Tuesday, for the purpose of opening bids for the new school building, painting the old building and for school warrants, the only bid for building the school was that of S. A. Broadhead, which is for a four-roomed building with a large assembly room on the second floor, was $4333.00. The board has awarded the contract to Mr. Broadhead. The bids for painting the old building were H. G. Cox, $170; M. H. & Powell, $205; Vance Nodine, $300. If Cox is a responsible bidder, the contract will be awarded to him today. Quite a number of bids were in for the school warrants, most of which were about par and a little over, but that of C. & E. Thayer was the highest, being $1.05%, which will be a premium of $254.37, or enough to pay the expenses of renovating the old building. C. & E. Thayer were awarding the school warrants, and were given into today to see that everything was carried out according to law, when the whole matter will be disposed of.

"Kid" Eagens and two of his pals, well-known confidence operators and sure-thing men, are paying Tillamook a visit. A few nights ago they "took in" a "21" game for about $140 by the "crimp" or "card" system. They started play at another game, but were quietly given notice that they were known and had best not play.—Telegram. How awfully inconsistent. Tillamook City soaked it to the banker doctor for operating in the city but sure-thing gamblers are not molested and allowed to operate day and night. Oh, yes, if some little innocent child fails to dismount a bicycle when within thirty feet of a pedes (man, the poor "kid" is threatened to be pulled and fined. But these "Kid" gamblers, why, they are given the freedom of the city, they are allowed to violate the law with impunity. Our city officials are actually brae men when it comes to threatening "kid" bicyclists who violate the law, but oh how cowardly when it comes to arresting "kid" gamblers. Don't the logic call for a law? That is the kind of record Tillamook City is getting.

Wrecked on Nehalem Beach.

The lumber schooner C. H. Merchant, which went into Nehalem last week to load lumber at the Nehalem Lumber Co.'s saw mill, while being towed to sea late Monday afternoon by the tug Geo. R. Vosburg, went ashore inside Nehalem bay, on the South spit of Nehalem bar, near where McMillan's house previously stood. It appears that when Captain Loll, of the tug Geo. R. Vosburg, had reached the bay with the schooner, he found the bar too rough and the weather too foggy to cross out, so it was decided to put back. The vessels were in the narrow channel at the time, where there is not much room to turn. In doing so, however, and at a time when the tug had no control over the schooner, a strong southwest wind struck her and she went aground, stern on. Harder the tug pulled at her, faster she seemed to cling to the shore. Fortunately the head of the schooner was pointing out to sea, and when the breakers struck her the position of the vessel broke their force, for had she gone broad side on she would have lost her deck load and would have bumped to pieces in a very short time, as she is considered a very old vessel. As soon as the Merchant struck the second mate jumped overboard with a line, and every time he came up in the breakers he called out to the crew to play out, until all the rope was played out and he was free and at the mercy of the breakers. Fortunately for him the tide was right at the time and he battled through the breakers and succeeded in reaching the shore. The remainder of the crew remained on deck, being drenched with every sea that broke over the vessel. It was twelve o'clock at night before the crew managed to get off, and the only accident that occurred was one of the crew had several fingers broken. The tug managed to keep the schooner's head to the sea, for had she gone broad side on it is more than probable some of the crew would have been drowned.

The Merchant had 250,000 feet of lumber on board, and it remained on the beach until an effort is being made to save it. Her keel has come ashore and the vessel is gradually sinking in the sand, where, no doubt, she will become a total wreck.

Another Sad Drowning.

We have to record another drowning in Tillamook county, which occurred last Thursday afternoon in the slough near the Elmore ranch. It appears that Leo Norton, the 12-year old son of P. E. Norton, and George Biggs, the 13-year old son of Al. Biggs, decided to go swimming about three o'clock the afternoon. The tide was in at the time. After getting into the water it seems that Biggs decided to swim across the slough, but Norton advised him not to, as he was not a very good swimmer. Biggs said he could make it, but when out of his depth Norton saw that Biggs was in distress by the manner he was struggling in the water. Norton swam to him and caught him by the arm, when Biggs grabbed at Norton with his other hand and both began to sink. Norton broke away from Biggs and swam to shore, which was only a short distance, as the bank goes off steep where the boys were swimming. Finding that Biggs was still struggling in the water Norton again swam to him to help him out, and succeeded in getting hold of Biggs' arm, when the latter again grabbed Norton and they both commenced sinking. Norton managed to get away and swim to shore, and when there broke off some sticks and threw them to the drowning boy. As soon as Norton saw that Biggs was drowned he became scared, and dressing himself, gathered up the cows and went home, not mentioning to his parents until the next morning what had happened. The body of Biggs was found the same evening, in about a foot of water by the Tomilson's while in a boat and Coroner Reynolds had the body brought to this city. As Biggs had a bruise under the left eye, his father thought the boys had got into some kind of a tussle and his boy had been struck, and as Norton had failed to say anything about the drowning seems to have conveyed the impression to Mr. Biggs' mind that there had been some trouble between the boys. Coroner Reynolds, after closely questioning Norton on Friday, came to the conclusion that the drowning was accidental, that the boys were the best of friends, and that it was on account of being scared for fear of being blamed that Norton did not tell what had happened, and on that account did not think it advisable to hold an inquest. It is a wonder that both boys were not drowned. The body of Biggs was buried on Friday, the service being held in the M. E. church.

Big Bargain in Dairy Farms.

This is an opportunity seldom met with to buy two fine dairy farms at a bargain, both situated at Blaine, in the South part of Tillamook county:

Dairy farm, 150 acres, 15 acres in meadow, which cut 20 tons of hay this summer, rest in timber and brush, small house, barn and orchard. To be sold for $700; or $300 down and $400 on mortgage.

Fine Dairy Farm, 100 acres of rich bottom land, 40 acres of which in meadow and about 40 acres in timber, good house, three barns and orchard. To be sold for $3,000, or $1,800 down and $1,200 on mortgage.

This is a snap for the money and seldom met with in Tillamook county, as the owner is only putting it in the market for the reason he has to go south. There is about $800 worth of barberry bark on the place. Near good school and only one mile from creamery.

If you mean business and want to buy this snap, call at the Headlight office.

STOP THAT COUGH.

A good many people have thought that a cough didn't amount to much—most excellent people whose friends were sorry to lose them. Now don't make this mistake—a cough is the first step toward serious and often fatal sickness; stop it right there.

Our Syrup, Tolu Tar and Wild Cherry, 25c., 50c., and $1.00 bottles, has proved a marvellous cough stopper. If you've just begun to cough, the 25c. size will fix you; if it's an old cough, try a larger bottle. It always relieves, and except in the most desperate cases it always cures.

And everything a well-stocked drug store ought to have, we have.
