While here Grant has converted the telephone line between this city and Forest Grove into a telegraph line, which will be the first line of that description in Tillamook county. The line will continue to be used as a telephone line, and to make the system more complete a new switch board has been put in at Tuttle's office.
Justice Alley had a replevin case before him on Monday which was tried by a jury. The action grew out of a horse trade between John Hathaway and W. B. Alderman, in which George Grayson figured in a three corner trade, but after it had been made, Alderman refused to consummate it. Hathaway had given his horse up, and in the meantime Alderman's horse died. The jury gave Hathaway a verdict against Alderman for $45, $1 damages and costs.
Mr. Alfred Holman, a very prominent Oregonian and one of the principle writers on the editorial staff of the Oregonian, came in via the Willson River route upon an inspecting tour of the County. He will go to Nehalem and examine the coal and timber resources there and it is hoped will go out by way of Nestucca and Woods. His visit is something of an event to the County. During his stay in the city he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thayer.
The steamer Sue H. Elmore came in on Saturday with freight and passengers and left again on Monday. Those who came in on her were A. Watt, H. Watt and son, Waymon, Tombur, C. E. Klondick, A. Edwards and wife, Mrs. M. E. Hoxter.
Writing about railroads in Oregon, the Oregonian says: "A little line of road is being actively pushed into the Nehalem country from Columbia City, a point on the Columbia River some thirty miles below Portland. Another line is planned to connect Portland with the Lower Nehalem and the long neglected Tillamook country." The Headlight thinks the writer should have said, "And the Tillamook country, so long and foolishly neglected by Portland."

There is a disposition on the part of those who are interested in base ball to form a league for Tillamook county. As this is the proper thing to do, for in the formation of a good organization it will be better for all concerned. It may be a little late in the season to start a league, but probably this is as good a time as any when there is some interest taken in the national game. We believe there are enough enthusiasts to take hold and make a success of it, and when they do this then the general public will be assured they are going to see some good ball games, which they would be glad to pay admission if the league had enclosed grounds.
As the board of equalization will meet in October the matter of the assessment of timber claims should not be overlooked. We have several times referred to this. The Telegram says: "Since timber claims have become so very valuable, why should they not be taxed accordingly? That they are mostly owned by nonresident capitalists and speculators is no reason for assessing timber lands at one-tenth or even one-quarter their value. The various assessors in the timbered counties of Oregon ought in future to study into this matter, and make these people, who are growing rich through Oregon timber, pay their full share of taxes."
Real estate agents are somewhat disappointed this summer because there is little demand for real estate, there being but few persons inquiring for dairy farms or town property, and from the present outlook it does not look as though there is likely to be any great rush for estate in Tillamook this year. This is to be regretted, for there is not a better county in Oregon where new comers can find as profitable an industry as in Tillamook. Probably this will cause somewhat of a slump in farm and city property where it is held too high. Let us hope, however, that Tillamook will obtain some of the immigration which is coming to Oregon this fall, and if it does, it may put more life in the real estate business.
Assistant Commissioner W. A. Richards, of the General Land Office has rejected the appeal of Charles E. Hays, in 10 of his contests. The contests against whom Hays had contested are: Shelley M. Bayley, William E. Martin, Henry Crenshaw, Annie Tone, Millie A. Coles, Alma Barker, Erick Erickson, William E. Eason, John E. Embum and William Baker. When these cases were set for hearing Hays appeared and asked for a continuance on the ground that a stipulation existed between the contestant and contestee, that the testimony adducted in the case of Charles E. Hays vs. Egbert D. Severance should be understood as given in the rest of the contests. The local officials denied the motion of Hays and dismissed the contest, and Hays appealed to the department.

Wants to Rent a Dairy Farm.

Wanted, to rent, a stock or dairy farm, would take stock on shares. Write at once, stating terms.—O. A. Kruse, Salem, Oregon.

Big Bargain in Dairy Farms.

This is an opportunity seldom met with to buy two fine dairy farms at a bargain, both situated at Blaine, in the South part of Tillamook county:

Dairy farm, 159 acres, 15 acres in meadow, which cut 20 tons of hay this summer, rest in timber and brush, small house, barn and orchard. To be sold for $700; or $300 down and $400 on mortgage.

Fine Dairy Farm, 100 acres of rich bottom land, 40 acres of which in meadow and about 40 acres in timber, good house, three barns and orchard. To be sold for $3,000, or $1,800 down and $1,200 on mortgage.

This is a snap for the money and seldom met with in Tillamook county, as the own is only putting it in the market for the reason he has to go south. There is about $800 worth of barberry bark on the places. Near good school and only one mile from creamery. If you mean business and want to buy this snap, call at the Headlight office.

School Supplies.

I am representing the Century School Supply Company of Chicago, and am in a position to furnish the supplies at half price. Samples of maps, charts, etc., on hand for inspection.

STOP THAT COUGH.

A good many people have thought that a cough didn't amount to much—most excellent people whose friends were sorry to lose them. Now don't make this mistake—a cough is the first step toward serious and often fatal sickness; stop it right there.

Our Syrup, Tolu Tar and Wild Cherry, 25c., 50c., and $1.00 bottles, has proved a marvellous cough stopper. If you've just begun to cough, the 25c. size will fix you; if it's an old cough, try a larger bottle. It always relieves, and except in the most desperate cases it always cures.

And everything a well-stocked drug store ought to have, we have.
