SLAIN BY A MANIAC. Youth Murders Four Members of His Family.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 10.—While laboring under mental aberration, the result of strain of perfecting an appliance for patent on an airbrake which is now pending in Washington, Charles Cowley, 17 years of age, of Homestead, Pa., early today killed his mother and one sister and fatally injured four other children. He also tried to kill his two older brothers, but was detected, overpowered and turned over to the police. Two of the children died tonight, making four dead.

The weapon used by the fiend was an ax, with which he crushed and hacked his victims beyond recognition.

The dead: Mrs. Hannah Cowley, aged about 40 years, head and upper portion of her body almost pounded to jelly.

Belle Crawley, aged 12, head frightfully crushed.

Raymond Cowley, aged 6.

Adeline Cowley, aged 6, twin of Raymond.

The fatally injured are: Josephine, the baby of the family, aged 15 months, head and chest battered; Agnes, aged 10, head crushed.

The Cowleys lived in a neat six-room house in Homestead. Last night all the members retired about 10 o'clock. Mrs. Cowley and Belle occupied one bed, while Josephine, Adeline, Raymond and Agnes occupied another bed and cribs in the same room. Charles, the murderer, his brother James, aged 20, and Harry, aged 14, occupied the front room, adjoining their mother's room.

About 3 o'clock this morning Charles quietly arose and dressing himself, but not putting on his shoes, crept down to the cellar and secured an ax. Coming up stairs, he went to his mother's room where the victims were sleeping. After turning up the light the maniac approached his mother's bedside, swung the ax with such a force that the skull was crushed. The mother evidently never knew what struck her, but the crazed son, thinking that the first blow did not do its work, pounded the dead mother's head almost to jelly. Belle, the oldest daughter, slept throughout the time. The dull sound of the ax on her mother's head did not arouse her. Charles hurried to her side of the bed and struck her with the ax. It is thought that the first blow slipped and awoke the girl, but the next blow killed her. The fiend then struck each of the smaller children over the head with the bloody weapon.

Believing that he had dispatched them all, Charles started for his brother's room, but James, the eldest, had been awakened by the groans of his mother's room, and as Charles entered he seized a heavy rocking chair and after a fierce struggle overpowered him and turned him over to the police. On the way to the station he fought furiously, but after being placed in a cell he calmed down and did not seem to realize what he had done.

After a thorough examination by the coroner's jury, it was reported that Cowley did the deed in a fit of insanity.

Cowley was lodged in the county jail here at 10 o'clock. He failed to recognize his brother James. For two years he has been working on a device for a combined air and powerbrake. It is said to be a wonderful invention, and that men who have seen it marveled at the mechanical ability of the inventor, in view of his years. He was of a kindly disposition, and was said to have been very fond of his mother and brothers and sisters. Recently, he has been unusually quiet and while his actions were a trifle queer, no attention was paid to him. When questioned later today, Cowley denied emphatically that he committed the deed. He tells a fairly connected story in which he reiterates his innocence. He says he was awakened at an early hour by sounds on the first floor and went down to investigate. Returning upstairs, he states, he found his sister lying across the bed, covered with blood and fled to give the alarm.

Dr. Wise, the dentist, is now at his office, and will remain as long as busy. Those wishing to see him, please call early.
