Died at Woods, on Tuesday, Mr. Lester Ray, father of Mr. Charles Ray, of Cloverdale. Deceased came to this county in 1882, and was one of the respected residents of the south end of the county. The funeral takes place today, and being a Mason, will be buried with Masonic honors, a number of members from the lodge in this city having left this morning.

We wish to mention, for the benefit of the traveling public, and especially those who have business and wish to visit San Francisco and other California points, that the new schooner Redondo has been put on the run from Hobsonville to San Francisco, and she is fitted up with comfortable accommodation for fifty passengers. By this route it is quite a convenience and a large saving to those who want to get to California from Tillamook.

This is the evening for the grand opening ball to be given at the Tillamook opera house. It will, beyond doubt, be the swellest affair of its kind that has ever been given in this city. Large crowds are reported to be coming from all parts of the county. The hall is bedecked with the bright colors of the season, namely, purple and gold. Everybody is cordially invited. Secure your tickets in time and get an early number. Tickets on sale at the usual place.

Died, on the 21st inst., at Nestocton, Tillamook county, Or., Mr. Peter Schild, aged 51 years. Deceased was born in Switzerland, and came to this country a little over five years ago, and after a stay of a few months in Portland, came to Tillamook with his wife and family and located at Nestocton. He had nine children, one having died before they left the old country and another died in this county two years since, leaving a wife and seven children to mourn their loss. The funeral took place on Friday, the religious services being held in the Adventist church, conducted by Rev. J. Looser, of the German Reformed church, and the interment in the Oddfellows' cemetery, which was attended by a number of sympathizing friends.

There was a large congregation at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, the occasion being Rev. C. P. Metzler's last sermon and giving up the pastorate of that church. Out of respect for Mr. Metzler, the other churches in the city attended the services. He preached an able and enthusiastic sermon on foreign missions, after which Revs. G. Sykes and W. N. Blodgett spoke, and in doing so paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Metzler, Mr. Sykes remarking that he was glad he was going from Tillamook, for it was

Western ideas, thought and energy that the Orient was looking for. He also stated that each of the churches in this city could keep a minister at home and send another to the foreign mission field, or nearly so, if the people contributed as liberally of their incomes as did the Jews of old.

The 34th anniversary of the A.O.U.W. was observed in this city on Monday evening, when the ladies belonging to the Degree of Honor gave a social and butterfly supper in Todd's hall, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The hall was well filled, and the social was a success in every way. Vocal and instrumental music and recitations took up part of the evening. Mrs. Davis made the opening address, when the following program was gone through: Song, "Beneath that low thatched roof," Mrs. W. C. Tahange; instrumental duet, "Railroad gallop," Misses Selma Allen and Frankie Drew; instrumental solo, Miss Grace Hyatt; recitation, "Don't," Miss Ethel Todd; song, "Dreamland Faces," Miss Lily Baker; instrumental duet, Mrs. Wm. Stephens and Miss S. Allen; song, "Hello, Central, give me heaven," Miss Fay Todd; piano solo, "Then you'll remember me," Mrs. W. Stephens; song, "Teaching McFadden to dance," Mrs. Talmage; cake walk, Miss Margarita Bowen. Hot cakes and coffee was then served, after which a few dances were indulged in. The ladies of the Degree of Honor who had the management of the social were Mesdames Myers, A. Todd, Hyatt, Davis, Allen and Sappington, and the manner in which they arranged it is deserving of credit. The ladies extend their thanks to those who kindly took part and assisted in the program.

Card of Thanks.

The wife and family of the late Peter Schild wishes to thank the many friends who showed so much kindness and sympathy during their bereavement in the loss of a loving husband and father.

Dead Easy, Sir.

A correspondent in the south part of the county asks this question: "Please tell us what law on the statute book is enforced?" That is dead easy. When taxpaying time comes round the law is certainly enforced and you're up against it if you refuse to pungle up.

Thoughts About a Man.

When a man is 20 he talks about the girls, hunting and base ball.
When he's 30 he talks about babies.
When he is 40 he talks about business.
At 50 his mind turns to religion.
From 60 to 100 he twitters about "pretty women."

Held Up and Robbed.

Having been held up and robbed, I ask those who are indebted to me to call and settle at once, either by cash or note secured.
Being in need of ready cash, and must have it, special prices will be made for a short time only. Call and see me and inspect my work. None better in the city.

Ignorance of Age no Defense to Liquor-Sellers.

SALEM, Oct. 27.—The Supreme Court today handed down decisions in six appealed cases, in five of which the lower court was affirmed. The most important case from a public standpoint was that of State vs. Gully, in which it is held that a saloonkeeper who sells liquor to a minor cannot escape conviction under a defense that he believes the purchaser to be of age.

State of Oregon, respondent, vs. James Gully, appellant, from Linn County, George H. Burnett Judge; affirmed. Opinion by Chief Justice Moore.

Defendant was charged with selling liquor to a minor and having pleaded not guilty was tried and found guilty. At the trial the court instructed the jury over the objection of defendant, that defendant's ignorance of the fact of the person being a minor is no defense. The verdict of the jury contained the findings that (1) the defendant sold whiskey and intoxicating liquor, to Hreinhold Zimmerman, receiving $3.75; (2) that Zimmerman was then only 19 years of age; (3) that before selling the whiskey Gully asked Zimmerman his age and the latter replied that he was 21 years old; (4) that Gully honestly believed that Zimmerman was of age.

The conviction was had under section 1913 of Hill's Annotated Laws, which provides that if any person shall sell any intoxicating liquor to any minor in this state such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished, etc.

The Supreme Court cites authorities showing that there is an irreconcilable conflict on the question whether a mistake of fact regarding a person's age constitutes a defense, but this court is committed to the doctrine that "the vendor's belief, however honestly entertained, that a purchaser of intoxicating liquor is of lawful age, constitutes no defense. As statutes of this character bind the party to know the facts and to keep them at his peril, neither the motive nor the intent of the defendant can relieve him."

It is also held that the act of 1891, making it a crime for a minor over 16 years of age to deceive in order to secure liquor does not relieve a vendor of the consequences of a mistake he may make respecting the age of the purchaser.

To Burn Oil.

An official report says the Southern Pacific saves now $30,000 a month by burning oil instead of coal in 500 engines on the western or Oakland division. When all engines on this division are burning oil the saving will be $75,000 a month, and when all engines on the entire system are converted into oil burners no less than $150,000 a month or $1,800,000 annually will be saved. The official report says $5,000,000 has been spent in converting the 500 out of 1,400 locomotives into oil burners and in arranging for the future supply of oil. It is estimated there will be no coal burning locomotives on the system in 14 months.
