Hill as a Prophet.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—"As labor unions killed industrial England, so are they destined to bring about a grave financial reverse in the United States, and the country is swiftly approaching that crisis. It may come in a year. It may be deferred till the Presidential year, but it is bound to come."
So says James J. Hill. He denies that the United States is the leading manufacturing nation of the world and is rapidly gathering to its bosom the markets of the world.
"The truth is," says he, "this country is losing ground in a manufacturing way, and we will do very well to hold our own markets. Our competitors are sweeping us aside, because of the high cost of production here. This high cost of production is due to the growth of labor unionism. We can't meet the price of German and English manufacturers and pay the wages the unions compel. So long as the tariff is maintained, we may hold our own markets, but some day the people of the West will kick over and demand that the tariff be lowered. This sentiment increases the farther West one goes."
He says Germany now leads the world in manufactures and is making swifter progress than any other country, because her laborers work cheaply and spend 66 hours a week in the factory, whereas our laborers work but 44. Furthermore, German mechanics are superior. Before we can compete with Germany, we must lower the cost of production and elevate the quality of our products.

SWEPT TO DEATH.

Thousand Lives Lost in South Sea Islands.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8.—News of a fearful loss of life in a destructive sand storm that swept over the South Sea Islands last month, reached here today on the steamer Mariposa direct from Tahiti. The loss of life is estimated at 1000 souls.
On January 13 last a huge tidal wave accompanied by a terrific hurricane attacked the Society Islands and the Tuamotu group with fearful force, causing deaths and devastation never before equalled in a land of dreaded storms. The storm reigned several days, reaching its maximum strength between January 14 and January 16. From the meager advices received at Tahiti up to the time of the sailing of the Mariposa it is estimated that at least 1000 of the island inhabitants lost their lives. It is feared that later advices will add to the long list.
The first news of the disaster arrived at Papeete, Tahiti, January 26, on the schooner Eimeo. The captain of the schooner placed the fatalities at 500. The steamer Excelsior arrived at Papeete the following day with 400 destitute survivors. The captain of the Excelsior estimated the loss of life to be 800. These figures comprised only the deaths on the three islands of Hao, Hikuera and Makoua, whose ordinary population is 1800. On Hikuera Island, where 1000 inhabitants were engaged in pearl diving, nearly one half were drowned. On an adjacent island 100 more were washed out to sea. Makekau and Hao are depopulated.
Conservative estimates at Tahiti place the number of islands visited by the tidal wave and hurricane at 80. All of them are under the control of the French Governor at Tahiti. The surviving inhabitants are left destitute of food, shelter and clothing, all having been swept away by the storm.
The French Government, upon receipt of news of the disaster, took prompt measure to relieve the distressed district and dispatched two warships, the Duranee and Zelee, with fresh water and provisions. The Italian man-of-war Calabria, accompanied the two French vessels on their errand of mercy. As the supply of fresh water and provisions was totally exhausted by the storm it is feared that many lives will be lost before the relief ships arrive.
As far as is known eight white people were among the drowned. Included among these were: Alexander Brander, N. P. Plunkett, of Oakland; T. Donnelly formerly a fireman on the steamship Australia, and the local agent of C. Copenrath, a merchant of Papeete. Added to this number is an unknown woman, who committed suicide from fright.

As the Islands were barely 20 feet above sea level and not surrounded by coral reefs, it was necessary for all the inhabitants to take to the coconut trees when the tidal waves began to cover the land. These trees grow to an immense height, many reaching an altitude of 100 feet. All of the lower trees were covered by the raging seas which swept with pitiless force about and over them. The natives in the taller trees were safe until the coconut roots gave way and then they too, were swept onward, far out into the sea.

The 400 survivors brought by the Excelsior to Papeete gained the ship's side by swimming three to four miles, from the tops of coconut trees. The Eimeo, though badly disabled by the storm, also brought off as many persons as could swim to her sides, she, like the Excelsior, being unable to run close to the shores, because of the fearful violence of the ocean swells, which continued to run abnormally high for a week after the tidal disturbances.
Another schooner, the Gauloise, from the Marquesas Islands, 600 miles from Tahiti, encountered the hurricane while en route to the latter place and only the timely action of the captain in having the cargo, consisting of 30 head of cattle, 35 pigs and 30 tons of cotton, jettisoned, saved the little craft from destruction. Even with this precaution the life of one man was lost by waves sweeping the decks.
One of the many acts of heroism reported is that of a woman who climbed one of the tall coconut trees and lashed her little babe to the branches, hanging on to the body of the tree beneath the little one as best she could. There they remained for ten hours, suffering great torture until finally rescued.

LYONS IS CAPTURED.

Murderer of Sheriff Withers Now In Jail.
EUGENE, Feb. 9.—Elliot Lyons, the murderer of Sheriff Withers, is now a prisoner in the County Jail. Lyons was captured by a posse at 8 o'clock this morning, while attempting to board a freight train near Creswell, eight miles south of Eugene. The outlaw had thrown away his guns, and was disguised as a tramp.
Lyons was taken by accident more than by following up any trace. Edgar Parsons met him this morning in the road and recognized him. Being unarmed, Parsons did not molest the fugitive, but proceeded to gather a number of men, among whom were ex-Sheriff No. land, "Butch" Miller, William Buoy and three others. Following up the track they saw Lyons board a freight train near the Morse House. The posse jumped the same train on the opposite side and the conductor stopped the train. As the train stopped Lyons dismounted and had no more than done so when several guns were leveled at him with the command to throw up. The murderer who made boasts that he would not be taken alive for horse stealing, acquiesced like a weakling and made no attempt to resist arrest.
After the arrest was made the posse telephoned the Sheriff here and started for Eugene with their prisoner. Upon arrival here they were met by Sheriff Fisk and the prisoner was hurried to a cell and now awaits arraignment for his terrible crime. The trial will come up at the March term of Circuit Court. The public mind is now at ease with the satisfying knowledge that the murderer is safely lodged where he will receive his just reward.
Lyons, when arrested, made no resistance, as he was unarmed. He made a statement to his captors that he passed through Eugene last night and that he slept in a pile of railroad ties near Goshen. Not only did he pass through Eugene but he went to the house of a man named White, who takes care of horses for Dr. Atwood, and changed his clothing throughout. He was in town for about an hour. He said he did not want to shoot another man, and was about exhausted from his flight across country the stormy weather.

A large number of extra police and deputy Sheriffs are now on duty for the purpose of preventing any attempt to take the man from jail for summary execution, but while there are some who talk of lynching, yet the majority is sober minded enough to insist that the law take its course and will permit no act to reflect to the detriment of the community.

THE EMPEROR WAS BROKE
One Time When William, of Germany, Had to Borrow from His Brother Henry.
It seems incredible, yet it is a fact that Emperor William of Germany is often short of money, and the reason is because he rarely carries any money in his pockets.
The other day he was at a festival with his brother, Prince Henry, and his attention being drawn to a new automobile machine, he resolved to put a coin in the slot in order to see how the apparatus worked. When he searched for a coin, however, he could not find one and he was obliged to borrow from his brother.
On various other occasions, and especially while hunting, since it is his custom to give money to the forester, and other attendants, he has found it necessary to borrow from his companions.
The only time when he fills his pockets with money, says the Detroit Free Press, is on Christmas eve, for it has long been his custom to stroll at that time through the streets near the palace and to give money to all deserving persons whom he meets, but especially to children and old soldiers.

The Left Leads.
The left lobe of the brain, governing the right side of the body, is known to be superior to the right lobe in its influence upon the bodily functions. Dr. Phelps, a recent investigator, insists that the left brain is also the intellectual half. He has studied nearly 300 cases of brain injury and disease, and has found that the right side may be severely injured without materially affecting the thinking powers.
