One full blooded Jersey Bull for sale.—Inquire at G. E. Payne's, Spruce, Ore.

Chas. Ostrander, who runs the boarding house at Hobsonville, was in the city this week trying to locate the fellow who swiped some bed clothing at that establishment, but he hasn't run the rascal down yet.

D. B. Gaunt, who recently bought the North Yamhill and Tillamook toll road, has a large force of men at work and expects in a short time to have the road in first class condition.—The Telephone Register.

Mr. Carl Haberlack, was elected secretary of the hose company on Thursday, and by the unanimous fire boys' yell. It was decided to have the hydrants painted red, and Vance Nodine was instructed to put on the lick daub.

John Theiler had a hearing before Justice G. B. Alley on Saturday to a charge preferred by Fred Davidson, who accused Theiler of trespassing and pulling down a fence. The justice took the case under advisement until Saturday.

At the request of Mr. T. B. Handley, Deputy District Attorney H. T. Botts prepared notices, which have been served on the saloon keepers in the city, cautioning them not to serve drink to Chas. Handley, who is an habitual drunkard.

There will be a concert in the Tillamook opera house on Wednesday evening, May 27, under the direction of Mr. George Anderson, the well-known violinist. This will, beyond doubt, be the highest class entertainment of the season. Don't miss it.

A number of the business men have signed the contract with the Pacific Navigation Company to carry their freight, and by doing so the largest shippers get a rebate if they stay with the company three months, but if they quit they lose what rebate is due them.

Postmaster A. W. Severance and Mr. R. W. Watson left on Wednesday, going out by way of Sheridan, for Portland. They went out to join the crowd to rubber at the president and shoot off their megaphones in ecstasy of the Rough Rider coming to the Webfoot state.

Messrs. H. T. Botts and B. L. Eddy made fine speeches on Saturday evening in behalf of the candidacy of Binger Hermann, taking up the issues of the day and giving their reasons why Tillamook county should loyally support and cast its vote for Hermann.

Mr. J. J. Houser has bought Mr. Jae Patterson's place at Blaine, consisting of 320 acres, and will take possession of the farm in two weeks. Mr. Houser is more than pleased with Tillamook county and will make a specialty of stock raising. Mr. Patterson will move to Southern Oregon. The deal was made through Mr. F. R. Beals.

The steamer Sue H. Elmore, while coming up to this city Wednesday evening, grounded this side of Drystocking and remained fast. Her passengers were taken off and brought to this city. It is at a point near the cut that was made to the Frask where the steamer is stuck, and an effort will be made to get her off on this evening's tide.

The Oregon City Land Office received notification from the Department of the Interior that nine additional Charles E. Hays contest cases have been dismissed, affirming the decision of the local office, as follows: William Martin, Annie Tone, Henry Crenshaw, John E. Embaum, Alma Barker, Eric Erickson, William Barker, Millie Coles and S. M. Bailey. Fifty of 90 contests brought by Mays have been passed on adversely.

Eddy left Monday to go on the stump for Binger Hermann and to meet President Roosevelt, being one of the reception committee appointed by Governor Chamberlain from the members of the state legislature to receive the first gentleman of the land on reaching the Webfoot capital. Mr. Eddy will then go on the stump again, and return in time to address a meeting in this city on Saturday, May 30.

Mr. C. H. Wheeler is expected down from Nehalem today, when it will probably be known whether the steamer Geo. K. Vosburg will be put on the Tillamook-Astoria route again and whether contracts will be entered into with the saw mills to do towing. It is stated that, notwithstanding their contracts with the Pacific Navigation Co., quite a number of business men are anxious to see the Vosburg put in commission, and they will give her their business.

R. P. Clark, the National Cash Register representative, is at the Larsen House for a few days.

Chas. C. White, representing the California Notion and Toy Company, is at the Larsen House.

Died, on Friday, May 15th, on the Miami river, Miss Bertha Peterson, aged 21 years, 4 months and 17 days. She was born in Sweden in 1881, and came to the United States with her mother in 1884, landing at Garibaldi on October 2nd, in the same year, where they have since resided. She leaves a mother, Mrs. Anna Peterson, and two brothers, Michael and Andrew Peterson, to mourn their loss, and they have the kind sympathy of friends and the people in the vicinity in their bereavement.

Hillboro business men have given the assurance that a condensed milk factory will be operating in that city within the next few months. A site has been selected and it is supposed that sufficient water can be obtained from springs in the south part of the city. Over $2000 has already been subscribed as a subsidy, and the capital stock will soon all be subscribed. J. W. Shute, of the Hillsboro bank, is assisting Dr. Tamiesie and Fred Schomburg to float the stock, and he will be heavily interested in the new company.

A meeting of the city council was held on Wednesday, with Mayor C. W. Talmage and Councilmen W. H. Cary, E. Jenkins and A. E. Imbler present. Bills allowed were:

Jerry Murphy Buried.

The remains of Jerry Murphy, who was killed in the logging camp on Bewley creek on Thursday morning, when an old dead tree fell upon him without the least warning, were buried on Saturday, the funeral being attended by a large number of friends of the deceased. The religious service was held in the Catholic church, conducted by Father P. A. Olivetti, who delivered an impressive discourse. The interment was in the Odd-fellows cemetery.

Jerry Murphy, whose untimely death was chronicled last week, was forty-two years old. He was born in Grand Anse, in the Province of New Brunswick.

He resided in that province until he was 26 years old, when he came to the United States with his brother, James Murphy, going first to Michigan.

In 1890 he came to Tillamook, where he was later in the same year followed by his brothers James, John and Dan Murphy.

During these intervening years these stalwart men have been no inconsiderable factor in the development of this county.

For some years they were all employed in logging on the Nehalem.

Three years ago Jerry Murphy with his brothers Dan and John, purchased a farm where Mr. Murphy resided until about two months ago, when he went to work for a short season in the logging camp on the Bewley Creek of which Dan Murphy was the foreman.

In June last year two of Mr. Murphy's sisters, Misses Nellie and Mary, came out from Boston, and this year another brother, Matthew, came from Washington and joined them.

Jerry Murphy was of the finest type of those who come to enrich the blood and strength of our state and nation. Industrious, highly intelligent, yet unassuming, and of a spotless integrity and habits, he held a very high place in the esteem of our best citizens. While it is safe to say that "none knew him but to love him" for his great manly heart.

To all these will come the hard shock of the announcement of his death. The community here felt it most deeply, and the gallant Jerry Murphy will be long mourned by the many of us who knew him. C. T.

Editorial Snap Shots.

What can be done to stop the dissatisfied, sell-out, clear-out ideas so many of our citizens have who are not engaged in dairying?

The lumber schooner Antelope was still in the bay this morning waiting for a tow. And affording another object lesson of the necessity of a tow boat.

The C.O.D. steam laundry started up on Monday. The name must imply that no one can get the family washing done on their face. That's hard on editors, Harvey.

Oh, how strange, yet not very strange for Tillamook. The Davies mill property has been in the market for several years, and it was no sooner secured than other parties fell all over themselves and tried to get it before the deal was closed.

There was no council meeting on Monday, being the second time this month the city dads failed to meet. Are they tired of their jobs, or is the spirit of indifference, apathy and do-nothingism permeating the council chamber like the rest of the city?

There's nothing like sending a man to the state legislature who amounts to something. It will be noticed that of the few counties represented in the reception committee of President Roosevelt, that Tillamook county obtained a place of honor—and Mr. Eddy was but a representative of the people of this county.

Mr. A. E. Reames, the democratic nominee for congress, is not meeting with the boom he and his unterrified friends were expecting, and it has fallen flat. This is plainly seen by the poorly attended meetings he is addressing and the want of enthusiasm that is conspicuous wherever he goes.

Hillshoro has raised $2000 as a subsidy for a condensed milk factory. And we pause to inquire what Tillamook City would do to have a like institution, or any other industry, established in this city? Don't all speak at once, gentlemen, in your willingness to help create a weekly pay roll, something we are sadly in need of in this city.

It has been suggested that the city council have the names of the streets posted on the corners of the streets. It is a good idea, for in making inquiries where a person lives, but very few of the citizens can answer by giving the name of the street, outside of a few near the business portion. Anyway, a stranger in the city has a "Where am I at?" look when trying to locate somebody.

Welcome, Mr. President, to Oregon, and the next time you visit the Webfoot state we hope your stay will be long enough to cross the Coast range, marvel at our forests of timber and see the sturdy settlers who are converting this neck of the woods into the garden spot of Oregon. Adieu, Mr. President, we wish you a pleasant journey. Call again at the Webfoot state.

The HEADLIGHT will ask the business men of Tillamook City a very pertinent, yet exceedingly important, question this week: "How many business men will take stock in a steamer that is for the community of interest and for the up-building of Tillamook City?" Speak out gentlemen, and let's see how many are ready to jump into the harness and rid the city of the monopoly hoodoo that has been, is and will continue to be an hoodoo over the city's development until the business men, who hold the situation in their own hands, work out the city's salvation themselves and not depend upon others.

Binger Hermann should receive a big vote in Tillamook, because the people of this county believe he is the right man to get a substantial appropriation for the improvement of Tillamook harbors. Let the voters turn out and roll up a plurality that they will be proud of when they ask Mr. Hermann to put $500,000 in the next river and harbor bill. Binger will only be too glad to do so if we show him by our votes that Tillamook is his friend now. Binger will be Tillamook's friend then. Let's use a little reciprocity in this election and then Tillamook will get what it wants, and the way to do that is for every voter in the county to cast their ballot for Hermann. To stay at home or to cast a vote for either of the other candidates will not improve, but jeopardize the prospect of getting a big appropriation for Tillamook.

The HEADLIGHT has frequently pointed out that the industrial and business stagnation in Tillamook City, especially in milling, is due to the fact that Tillamook Bay has no tug boat and that the business men in this city should own and operate a boat. Would it pay? How could it be otherwise, when the business men have enough business in their own hands to make it pay? Business houses keep multiplying in the city, with no corresponding weekly pay roll to sustain them, consequently trade is cut up and stores are not doing the amount of business they otherwise would. Suppose, for instance, five or six saw mills were in operation in this city, a large proportion of the money they made would find its way into the business houses of the city.

But those who want to keep Tillamook bottled-up by a system of monopoly do not want a change for the better, and even the business men appear indifferent and indisposed to anything, so much so that it begins to look that Tillamook mossbackism is going to carry the day until such time that business becomes so oppressively stagnated that business men must bestir themselves to secure more trade or some of the stores will get into embarrassing circumstances and go out of business.

Amongst our correspondence this week is a letter from the Pacific Furniture & Lumber Co., of Los Angeles, Cal., and it is just as well to give a couple of extracts to show the trend of the letter: "Our experience in trying to get lumber out of the Nehalem and Tillamook has not been very pleasant on account of the tug service, with which you are no doubt familiar. . . . We now fully understand the situation both at Tillamook and Nehalem, and know just exactly what is necessary to make a success of handling lumber in that section of the country."

And this is from a company that was wanting 2½ million feet of lumber every month, and because we lack the enterprise, and the necessary tug service, this county has lost that amount of lumber business. Isn't it about time the citizens of Tillamook City took a tumble to themselves, and show the California lumber buyers they will be able in the future to buy and ship lumber just as well at Tillamook as at Gray's Harbor, Coos county and other points. And the safest plan to do this is for the business men of this city to own and operate a tug, for then there would be no danger of a tug boat being taken off as soon as some monopoly scheme could be worked to tie up any industries that may have started and are dependent upon a tug. Every business man would do more business if we had more industries, and it is surprising they do not get together and devise some plan to cut the string that has made this practically a tied-up, bottled-up, port, to suit the whims of those who grow fat and saucy by monopoly.

Baker, of Washington county, didn't have a word to say this week about being congressional committeeman. Did his lord and master call him down.—Independent.

Such little silly, silly little false insinuations are ridiculously silly and unmanly, but as the 'Dependent' is dependent upon the little coterie which never loses an opportunity to vent their personal spleen upon Mr. B. L. Eddy, this is another cowardly thrust at the gentlemen who, by dint of hard study, industry, honesty and perseverance has won the respect of the people of Tillamook county, and was honored by being chosen one of the reception committee to welcome President Roosevelt to Oregon, is being knifed by the man who claimed at one time that Mr. Eddy was his friend. But the people in Tillamook county are not blind, especially the predominant element, and although they may not be able to resent in any other way, they do so, and to a larger extent than most people imagine, by withdrawing their trade from business men who advertise in such a sheet.

The HEADLIGHT has conscientiously supported Mr. Eddy because it was to the best interest of Tillamook people and county to do so, as every unprejudiced person in Tillamook will now admit was the proper thing to do, so the uncalculated, base insinuations that the 'Dependent' is trying to besmirch Mr. Eddy's character with are acting like a boomerang upon the editor of that sheet and the advertisers who support it. And for what reasons are these silly insinuations being thrown at Mr. Eddy at this time? As we have previously intimated, just to please a few who want to pull down, rule or ruin.

As we have previously intimated, just to please a few who want to pull down, rule or ruin.
