The Sharples Tubular Dairy Cream Separator beats them all for close skimming and easy running, being the most simple and durable machine made and is constructed with ball bearings and has suspended bowl and bottom feed. These Tubular dairy machines mark a new era in the construction of dairy cream separators. If you are contemplating buying a separator, inspect this little wonder in McIntosh & McNair's store, where it can be minutely examined.

The closing entertainment of the Tillamook public school will be given on Friday, June 5th, in the opera house, which will be free to the public. The teachers are preparing a nice program, and it is safe to say that the pupils will acquit themselves with credit to the teachers and patrons, and in doing so will bring one of the most harmonious and successful school years in this city to a satisfactory close. Just before going to press Prof. Whitney says, on account of so many children being sick, this entertainment may have to be abandoned.

Miss Maud Sturgeon invited a number of the young people of the city to her home on Friday evening for the purpose of meeting Miss Ethelwyn Bristoe. It proved a most pleasant evening, and refreshments were served before the company left. The invited guests who were present included Misses Bella Watt, Edna Stratton, Anna Quick, Olive and Nonie Wilson, Minnie Stivings, Ruth Cooper, Blanch McNair, Annie Edie, Hope Nolan, Lillian Baker and Ethelwyn Bristoe; Messrs. The concert given on Wednesday evening was a treat to those who like classic music, which was given under the direction of Mr. George Anderson, the violinist, assisted by local talent. The concert opened with a nice piano duet, "Spanish Dance," by Mrs. Edith M. Alderman and Mrs. Queenie K. Riesland. Miss Lillian Baker sang two soprano solos, "Fiddle and I" and "Absent." Miss Ruth Cooper rendered two piano solos, "Second Mazurka" and "Tarentelle." Mr. B. Beu Riesland sang "Out on the deep" and gave a recitation. Mr. W. Duff Howard rendered some pretty banjo solos, as did also Mr. Anderson violin solos, and received well deserved encores, as did also some of the other performers.

Another Oratorical Contest.

Another oratorical contest, in which the two societies of the Tillamook high school will contend for a prize given by Mr. Claude Thayer. As will be seen by the program, the subjects are interesting and will, no doubt, be handled intelligently by the young ladies and gentlemen who have been chosen to orate for their respective societies. These contests have been well attended, and it is safe to say there will be a full house on Friday evening, the proceeds of which will go towards the piano fund. This is the program:

The State Teachers' Association.

The Western Division of the State Teacher's Association will be held at Portland, June 24th to 29th, 1903. The program for this meeting is one of the best ever prepared by the management of the Association, and the indications are that this meeting will far surpass anything ever attempted in educational meetings in Oregon.

The best talent the State affords has been secured to take part in the program which deals with many subjects of vital importance to the schools and educational interests of the State. Mr. Henry D. Pettengill, of Lansing, Mich., one of the foremost educators of the United States, has been invited to be a guest of the Association and will appear on the program, and discuss a number of important educational topics.

Railway companies have made an excursion rate to Portland for this occasion and a very large number of teachers will no doubt be present to enjoy and profit by this meeting.

Editorial Snap Shots.

It is expected that when the census of children of school age in taken next week it will reveal another decrease in the number of children in the county.

We are reliably informed that a saw mill is to be erected at Bay City. Surely, this is enough to make every Bay Citvite leap for joy, for that mushroom town has been a long time dead.

For the information of those who may not be in their voting precinct or away from home next Monday, they can vote in any polling place in the district, but must be identified and vouched for by witnesses.

Don't beef any more about harbor improvements if you stay at home on Monday next and fail to cast your vote, or worse still, cast your vote for either the democratic, prohibitionist or socialist candidate, for they can do nothing for Tillamook in that respect. Vote for the man who can, and that is Binger Hermann.

It may be interesting to know that although a number of petitions have been sent to Salem to invoke the initiative and referendum on the Lewis and Clark appropriation and several other bills passed by the state legislature, they lack the necessary number of signers, consequently none of the bills will be submitted to a public vote.

Republicans, democrats, prohibitionists and socialists should stand shoulder to shoulder in this election, and as one of our most prominent and successful business men remarked, "This is no political fight as far as Tillamook is concerned, for the people should stand together and vote for the party that is in power and which is to the interest of Tillamook people to support."

President Roosevelt has come and gone. He has seen Oregon and Oregonians in gala day dress and mood, and from all accounts he is highly pleased with the Webfoot state and its people. And that being the case, he would have been far more pleased could he have seen Oregon and the sturdy Westerner in their every day attire, the latter turning this vast domain into an industrial bee hive.

Some of our worthy citizens have been betting hats that machinery will not be put in the Pacific saw mill buildings. Of course, in Tillamook, it is expected that other people should know more, and chew the rag, about other people's business than their own. Whoever wants to bet a Stetson or silk hat that the mill will not be operated again, the Headlight's pencil pusher is their man.

Be sure you vote Monday, and vote right and for the interest of yourself and Tillamook county. Then you'll vote like sensible persons for Binger Hermann, for who's going to vote against their own and the county's interests? Monday will tell how many Tillamookers are built that way, but we sincerely trust that the people of this county will put aside their political prejudices for once and vote for the party that can give Tillamook harbor improvements.

Oh, no, Mr. Dependent, the editor is not disgusted with newspaper work, and such a base assertion made by one who got disgusted, sold out his goodwill in a newspaper to his nephew and cleared out from Tillamook, and then returned and started another newspaper, is not a person whom the general public has any confidence in, either as an editor or as a man. There go away back and sit down, and do not inflict such little silly, silly little insinuations upon a respectable and intelligent community.

The Tillamook public school will close next week, and the HEADLIGHT only expresses the sentiment of the patrons in this district when it conveys to Prof. E. H. Whitney and the faculty its appreciation of the success they have attained and the satisfaction they have given, not only to the pupils but to the parents as well. Closing exercises will be given at the opera house on Friday evening, June 5th, when a free entertainment will be given and the patrons will be given another opportunity to see how well the pupils can acquit themselves before a public audience.

If the long prayed for improvement of Tillamook bar is sanctioned and congress grants an appropriation to carry out this project, as we have every reason to believe it will, the HEADLIGHT is of the opinion that it will force some of the railroads to build into Tillamook, for directly the lumber begins to move in this county the railroads will be after the business, for in carrying lumber to the Middle States it is a long haul and is worth about as much as the lumber is when the lumber is put on the cars. The HEADLIGHT has always had great faith in what the improvement of the bar would mean to Tillamook, and we believe it will not be a great while before we shall see this accomplished, and then Tillamook will grow industrially, financially and support a good population.

Very few people in Tillamook appear to realize it, but if they will put their study cap on and reason pro and con, they will come to the conclusion that the election next Monday is of far more importance to them than a dozen county elections. All will admit that the bottled-up, tied-up, condition of the county is a detriment to it and a financial burden every settler has been packing for years. The only complaint in this prosperous section of the county is on account of being bottled up. Tillamook never stood better prospects of overcoming this than she does today, and it is highly gratifying to see that silver linings have appeared in the hoodoo cloud which has hovered over this county for years and it is about to be removed, which will be done the day that congress grants an appropriation for the improvement of Tillamook bar.

Are Tillamookers going to vote for or against the party that can grant us this long prayed for improvement? As we have stated, this election is of great importance to those who have property, business and industrial interests in Tillamook, for if they have ever stopped to look into the future what a different state of affairs the improvement of the bar will mean to Tillamook, they will readily acknowledge that there is only one thing for the people of this county to do, that is if they have an eye on their own personal and the county's interests, and that is to vote for Hermann. Don't vote against him and then beef and belly-ache because the county is tied-up and bottled-up. Get out, vote for Hermann next Monday, for that is the way to help get an appropriation of $500,000 for Tillamook next December.

As to Postal Savings Bank.

The amount of deposits in the savings banks of the state of New York at this time is over $1,000,000,000, the increase during the past ten years have been in excess of $400,000,000. These deposits are chiefly from wage earners in the cities. Remarking upon this an eastern paper says it has been for some time apparent that if there could be devised a system that would be convenient for those who live in the so-called rural districts the savings would be considerably larger. England meets this need through the establishing of her postal savings banks. These are in every postoffice in the kingdom. Therefore it happens that the number of depositors throughout England in these postal savings banks is, proportionately to the depositors, much greater than is the case in New York state. "If some method could be perfect," says this paper, "by which those who live in the farming districts were able to deposit their small savings it is estimated that the total savings each year would be increased several million dollars."

There would be no great difficulty in devising a perfectly practicable postal savings bank system and no class of our people would more readily avail themselves of it than those in the rural communities. The tendency of such a system as has frequently been pointed out would be to encourage saving among the people generally, because it would assure absolute safety. The English system is most satisfactory in its operations and one of its advantages to the government was shown when the recent loan was offered, applications for a large amount coming from postal savings bank depositors. Thus far the opposition of the private savings banks in this country has been able to defeat efforts for establishing postal savings banks, but there is no doubt the system will come in time, for it is unquestionably a popular idea.
