Makes Diamonds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—In connection with recent decisions by the general board of appraisers regarding duty on imitations of precious stones, a well known jewelry expert of this city through whose hands millions of dollars worth of precious stones have passed, declares that rubies, beautiful in color, and rivaling the natural gems are today easily produced from the chemists crucible.

The secret of their production which, he says, was known in France years ago, but was kept secret, lies in the manner of fusing a number of small, cheap stones into a single large one

It is said the manufacture is now being carried on extensively in several European countries and only the most experienced examiner can detect the difference between the real stones and those from the crucible.

COMBS WORLD FOR BRAINS.

English Educator Says That America Leads Through Schools Like That of Carnegie.

The seventy-second annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science was opened at Belfast. The address of James R. Dewar, president elect, was largely devoted to a review of progress of physical chemistry. In the course of his remarks President Dewar referred to recent munificent benefactions to science and education, and especially to the gift of Andrew Carnegie and the late Cecil Rhodes.

Referring to Mr. Carnegie's endowment of Scottish universities and the foundation of an educational institution at Washington as a more direct benefit to higher education than Mr. Rhodes' bequests, Prof. Dewar remarked that the establishment of the institution at Washington meant a scouring of the old world as well as the new for the best men in every department. In fact, he said, the assiduous collecting of brains for the benefit of America was similar to the collecting of rare books and works of art which Americans were now carrying on so lavishly.

Speaking of applied chemistry, Prof. Dewar made a scathing criticism of the "deplorable backwardness" of Great Britain in this field as compared to foreign countries.

German chemical manufacturers, the speaker declared, enjoyed a practical monopoly which enabled them to exact huge profits from the rest of the world and to establish in an almost unassailable position industries which were largely founded on basic discoveries made by English chemists, but which had never been properly developed in the land of their birth.

The explanation of this "disastrous phenomenon" Prof. Dewar gave in three words—"want of education." He said it was the failure of schools to turn out and of manufacturers to demand properly trained men which explained Great Britain's loss of valuable industries and the country's precarious hold on others.

MARRIES HIMSELF.

Justice of the Peace Performs Ceremony Which Unites Him to Woman of His Choice.

A marriage certificate just filed with the Hudson county board of health shows that the marriage ceremony of Justice of the Peace Henry Bundy, of Jersey City, and Mrs. Mary Becker was performed by the bridegroom himself. The pair were married on Saturday, when Mr. Bundy called on Mrs. Becker, who was the widow of an old friend. When Bundy proposed that they be married, Mrs. Becker was willing, but said she dreaded publicity.

"Why, I can marry us, myself," said Justice Bundy.

Just then Mrs. Becker's two daughters, Mrs. Mary Spangler and Mrs. Mary Smithers, came to call on their mother. They were astonished when told of the pair's purpose, but when satisfied that Mr. Bundy had a right to perform the ceremony consented to act as witnesses, and the party adjourned to the parlor, and the justice performed the ceremony, asking the proper questions himself.

"Do you, Mary Becker, take this man (me), to be your lawful wedded husband?" he asked.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Becker.

"And do you, Henry Bundy (pointing to himself), take this woman to be your lawful wedded life?"

"I do," replied Mr. Bundy to himself.

"Then I, Justice of the Peace Henry Bundy, by the power conferred upon me by the constitution, do pronounce you, Henry Bundy, and you, Mary Becker, to be man and wife," concluded the justice, and everybody congratulated the pair.

WANTS INDULGENCES.

Ecclesiastic Petitions the Pope to Encourage Priests and Monks in Italy to Wash Daily.

According to the London Daily Chronicle's Rome correspondent, a well-known ecclesiastic has forwarded a remarkable petition to the pope. "In the interests of civilized society and the honor of religion in Italy" he begs the pontiff to grant plenary indulgence to all priests or monks who shall wash themselves daily, with extra partial indulgence to those shaving regularly at least three times a week during a specified period.

"Students belonging to the Teutonic and Anglo-Saxon colleges at Rome," continues the corresopndent, "are easily recognizable by their general neatness and cleanliness, but in the Italian seminaries and monasteric novitiates the trandditional sanctity of dirt still holds sway." In most of them soap, hair brush and looking glass are worldly luxuries excluded by rule, and the clerics emerging therefrom perpetuate the tradition. The pope on occasions has evinced annoyance at the unkempt condition of monks who have come in close contact with his august person. Visitors to Italy will heartily welcome the innovation."

Plea Was a Failure.

"The minister who on a certain Sunday prayed for rain," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "didn't make much of a hit with his congregation, for the reason that he himself left his umbrella at home."

Cars Are All Right.

Emperor William says electric cars are the enemies of humanity. The cars are all right, says the New York World. It is the cranks and careless motormen who sometimes run them that are dangerous.

USED HIS HAND FOR BAIT.

This Thrilling Yarn About a Diver and a Shark Comes from Diego Garcia.

An article about diving in St. Nicholas tells the following story about Lambert, a famous English diver:

The fish in some waters are a hindrance and are greatly disliked by the diver. Perhaps the diver's worst foe is the conger eel. This creature attacks in swarms and is most daring and exceedingly vicious. The congers bark like dogs, and never hesitate in the least to bite a man.

"At one time my right hand," said a diver to us, "was exposed for a moment while in the water, when one of these fierce creatures made a dash for it and took a large piece from the back of the hand. It bled freely and I was obliged to come up to the surface and get it dressed."

"But how about the sharks? Don't you find them troublesome?"

"Not very. You see, sharks are like rats; leave them alone, and they run away if they catch sight of you. Corner a shark and he will fight.

"But if you want a shark story, I can give you one of Lambert's; he once had a thrilling fight with one at the bottom of the Indian ocean. He had been sent to the island of Diego Garcia to fix copper sheets on a coal bunk that had been fouled by a steamer, and was annoyed during his operations by the same shark for nearly a week.

"The monster was temporarily scared away, however, every time Lambert opened the escape valve in his helmet and allowed some air to rush out. One day Lambert signaled to his attendants for a big sheath knife and a looped rope.

"Having these, Lambert used his bare hand as a bait and waited until the shark commenced to turn on its back, when he stabbed it repeatedly, passed the noose around its body and signaled for it to be drawn up. The diver brought home the shark's backbone as a trophy."

WHEN HER SOLDIERS RETURN.

The Internal Crisis in Spain Will Then Have Begun in Bitter Earnest.

The loss of our (Spanish) colonies means the absolute disappearance of all industry and commerce which the inhabitants of those islands were forced to support, says "A Spaniard" in Fortnightly Review. Factories, workshops, magazines—all must be closed, and thousands upon thousands of operatives turned adrift on the world, homeless and helpless. A hundred thousand soldiers will come home to swell their ranks, sickly, mutilated men, no longer needed to fight their country's battles, and no longer able to carry on the struggle for existence under the ruins of the old order of things. The greater number of of 30,000 military officers will be deprived of their command and placed on the reserve list, where the pay is such that a captain, who generally has a wife and family to support, receives about two shillings and four pence a day.

Agriculture, which is dying out, cannot support these legions of famishing men, women and children, nor are soldiers the kind of people who take kindly to the hard humdrum life of the fields. When these multitudes have felt the pinch of hunger, and see themselves thrown back upon the laws of nature to keep themselves and their loved ones from dying, then the internal crisis will have begun in very truth, and the tocsin of the revolution will have sounded. In that day the army will decide, by its attitude, whether Carlists or republicans shall triumph.

SPANISH MUSIC.

The National Character of Spain Is Very Well Defined by Its Harmonies.

It is interesting to note how a nation's favorite musical instrument is a key to the national character. Thus, for instance, England's musical instrument is the organ, Scotland's the bagpipe, Ireland's the harp, Italy's the violin, Spain's the guitar, Germany's the flute, the United States—south the banjo and north the piano. Spain's affinity seems strongest, and, just now, is of especial public interest. The guitar is ubiquitous in Spain. Its tinkling, sweetish harmonies may be heard on the battlefield, in my lady's bower, in the mule cart, in the barber's shop, in saloon, hotel and the highways and byways. Spanish music is pretty rather than powerful; its boleros, cigadvos and fandangos gay rather than grand. It savors more of dagger and hatpin than bayonet and bomb. Glancing back in guitar history to the days of King David, when this instrument was known as a kinnor, one sees that while it was used to refresh Saul, it was also carried by depraved female minstrels, as evidenced by the Prophet Isaiah's ironical suggestion to them to "take a kinnor, go about the city, make sweet melody, sing many songs, that you may not be forgotten." The popular Spanish air of "El Sereney" is a capital illustration of the characteristics of Spanish music and Spain. Its pretty, thin strains remind one of the country of the muleteer and friar.

Birch Canoes for the Orient.

Bangor manufacturers are sending canoes of birch and canvas to Palestine, Japan, India and China. One recently sent to India was to the order of a British officer, and the cost of transportation was more than $75. A canoe just ordered is intended for a trip up the river Jordan.

Railroads Needed in Brazil.

The facilities for inland transportation are so limited in Brazil that the inhabitants of the ports find it cheaper to import grain from North America than from their own farms.
