Same Old Rule or Ruin Faction.

It is plain to most everybody that the mission of the Independent is to "roast" Mr. B. L. Eddy and the editor of the Headlight, as most every issue of that paper contains some silly criticism. As far as we are concerned we do not care one iota. It is somewhat different regarding Mr. Eddy, for it assails a gentleman whom the citizens have the highest respect for and confidence in—as an exemplary citizen, a professional gentleman and a faithful public servant. He has obtained a reputation for integrity, honesty and industry in Tillamook that commends him to every fair thinking and unprejudiced person in the county, and having ably represented Tillamook and Yamhill counties in the state legislature on two occasions, with credit to himself and honor to his constitutents and the state, it is surprising that the Independent should have the audacity to throw out all kinds of mean and silly insinuations about him. Mr. Eddy's character is above reproach and his reputation in the county is well established. Compare Mr. Eddy's standing in the community, his professional ability and his high personal character to that of R. M. Watson's reputation in Kansas, Elma and Tillamook. It is the same old mossback, rule or ruin, autocratic faction, that is using R. M. Watson as a willing tool to make a political and personal fight upon Mr. Eddy. The voters of the county are not saying much. When they do it will be to resent these mean and silly insinuations that are being thrown so constantly at the gentleman whom they have the highest respect for and whom they have honored to look after the interests of the county in the state legislature on two occasions. To Mr. Eddy belongs the credit of the bright outlook for securing an appropriation for Tillamook bar in the next river and harbor bill. It is well known that Mr. Eddy did not ask any political favors for himself or his friends for the part he played in the election of the two senators and congressman, preferring rather if there were any political favors to be obtained it should be bestowed upon Tillamook county by the Oregon delegation securing an appropriation for the improvement of Tillamook bar. That is what Mr. Eddy has done for Tillamook, and instead of commending him, the Independent foolishly ridicules him, and, consequently, those who supported him. We have taken some pains to ascertain the sentiment of the voters in Tillamook, and find that they are only waiting for an opportunity to rally to Mr. Eddy's support should he desire it, and not only so, but to send the rule and ruin faction, and those who train with it, again into political oblivion. The voters of Tillamook county know full well for what purpose the rule or ruin faction is wanting to get into the political saddle, but the voters cannot be humbugged by any silly insinuations that may be made by the rule or ruin, autocratic faction, through their mouthpiece R. M. Watson. There is one thing certain, whether Mr. Eddy represents Tillamook in the state legislature again, or should he become either U.S. district attorney, circuit judge, congressman or even U.S. senator, Tillamook people will be proud of him—with the exception of the rule or ruin faction's henchmen and stool pigeons.

Wagon Road to Clatsop County

County Judge W. W. Conder and Commissioners L. Parrish and G. W. Bodyfelt returned Friday from Nehalem, where they had gone to confer with County Judge Trenchard and Commissioners Young and Clarke of Clatsop, for the purpose of consulting what could be done to establish a wagon road between the two counties. The situation is a difficult one for this county, for the reason that a bridge will have to be built across the Nehalem river and there is a strong difference of opinion amongst the Nehalem people as to the choice of three roads. As long as this exists there will be anything but plain sailing for the county court, for however much it may desire to decide on one road, those who are in favor of the other two roads are bound to retaliate, especially if the Nehalem country is converted into a separate road district for the purpose of taxing the district to obtain the money to carry out the improvements. The court appointed John Hickey to ascertain the grades of the three different roads and to give an approximate estimate of the cost, and to report the same at the September term of court.

From the Astoria News.

County Judge Trenchard and Commissioners Young and Clarke, with Roadmaster Fry, returned yesterday from a conference with the Tillamook county court at Nehalem City on the subject of a public highway to connect the court houses of the two counties. County Judge W. W. Conder, County Commissioners L. Parrish and G. W. Bodyfelt met them at the hotel in Nehalem City, where the conference was held. The situation was thoroughly canvassed. The Tillamook conferees were wholly at sea as to a definite route. But after considering the situation, it was agreed that they should put an engineer in the field to look out a route that suited them. Then the Clatsop court would examine to find if grades would allow its acceptance so as to make our road meet theirs at the county line, which is some distance north of the Nehalem river at that point.

The grert problem with the Tillamook engineer will be to locate the road with reference to the bridge necessary to be built across the Nehalem. And there is the bone of contention in Tillamook county. It seems if it is impracticable to build a county bridge at Nehalem City. But a fine crossing exists at Upper Nehalem City, two miles above the lower town. This feature complicates the Tillamook situation.

Nehalem City is a town of about 200 population. Its hotel is a substantial structure of 30 rooms, and with good food. There is also a handsome school building, a drug store, two general stores, two saloons, a blacksmith shop and a real estate office for townsite boomers. Nehalem City is on the site of the old saw mill of Nelson & Patton that was burned several years ago. The saw mill of the Wheeler Lumber company is situated six miles below, but their logging company has its headquarters at Nehalem City. The Vosburg lands at the town wharf. It was not learned whether she could run up to Upper Nehalem City; but it would doubtless be easy to dredge a channel and the bridge would surely make a town there of importance.

The Clatsop contingent had to walk 15 miles from Hug Point to Nehalem City on the outward trip. It was pretty tough on them. They rode horseback in returning, which was not quite so heavy a stunt but somewhat fatiguing for a 25 mile jaunt.

Towing Logs to Astoria.

The steam tug Geo. R. Vosburg tried an experiment last week by successfully towing a raft, containing 100,000 feet of logs from Nehalem to Astoria. We some months ago showed in the Headlight that we thought this could be done under favorable weather conditions and proper rafting, the same as on the great lakes, but good-bye to raft should dirty weather be encountered when outside or when crossing the bars. During the summer months it is practicable to tow logs from Tillamook to the Columbia river, not so, however, in the winter. Good spruce logs can be obtained in Tillamook Bay for $4.50 a thousand, and less than that at Nehalem, so towing logs to the Columbia river, where they range from $8 to $9 a thousand, ought to be profitable business for tug boats if anyone will go into the business and take the risk. But loggers don't want to give 60 days on their logs and should have the money in hand before they start to go out over the bar.

Get it Where the Chicken Got It.

Tillamook City, it is plain, is not to be made the terminus of the Portland, Nehalem & Tillamook Railroad, but may obtain a jerk-water branch line to the terminus that will be established on the bay, should that company be fortunate in securing the money to build that road. W. Reid gives his reasons why Tillamook City cannot be made the terminus, and from a manufacturing point of view they are logical and cannot be disputed. This makes it plain that Tillamook City will have a rival town as a competitor at no distant date, which also may make a bid for the county seat, should a large manufacturing population find employment in mills and factories on the bay. A few years may bring about a great change in Tillamook. Is Tillamook City going to remain indifferent and loose the advantage she has gained because the business men cannot get down to a common basis to foster new industries and improve the natural advantages?

Don't Catch the Fever.

In last week's Ocean Wave was printed a clipping from the Atlanta Constitution referring to the Talhalla Colonization and Improvement Company in Mexico, who are selecting lands for colonization purposes. Louis Olsen, of Tillamook, is secretary of the company and is in the City of Mexico. He is greatly pleased with the country and the company's prospects for business. He has written a business letter to John Krebs in which he mentions some of the company and the chances for business there. The following are extracts from the letter: "I am in the best country on the face of God's green earth. I am here to make my home. When we arrived at San Francisco we met two gentlemen friends of ours and they are worth one million each, or more, and they wanted us to join them in organizing this land company, and we are in it, and we are in the City of Mexico—population 600,000. And we are appointed—I mean father, Mr. Bailey and myself—to choose the land. We expect to sell choice farm lands. We will start our lands at $5 to $6 per acre. This is the best country on earth. Population, 800,000, 20,000 Americans, and all getting rich."—Ocean Wave. Now do not get excited, even if Mexico is a good place to make money, so is Tillamook a good place to make money. $20 gold pieces don't grow on gooseberry bushes there any more than they do here. It may be that farm products bring good prices there, so they do in Tillamook.

Prayer Restores Sight.

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 16.—Dr. L. W. Brown, of this city, relates a most peculiar circumstance. He was called to Cottage Grove Friday night to assist in an operation to remove an eye from Mrs. Aunnicutt, who has been blind in one eye for 35 years, and it had been deemed advisible to remove the useless member. The operation was to be performed this morning and the woman was placed on the operating table and the attending surgeons got their instruments in redinessfor the operation when the woman shouted that the Lord had restored her sight.

Those in attendance were greatly surprised at this outburst, but the good eye was closed and she was shown several articles and could see them plainly with the eye that had been blind for years and called the articles by name. There were half a dozen witnesses of the occurrence and all were dumbfounded.

The woman had spent several hours in prayer previous to the time for the operation and just before going on the operating table offered a final prayer to God to restore her sight. She naturally feels that her prayer was answered.

The 58th Congress, when it regularly assembles in December, will be called upon to remove from the statute books three laws under which the Government is being systematically robbed each year of hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars worth of public lands. The robbers are not in all cases violating the letter of the law, and as long as these laws remain in force they cannot be reached, but they are violating the spirit of the law, and escape only on technicalities. The fight begun in the last days of the 57th Congress, to bring about the repeal of the timber and stone act, the desert land act, and the commutation clause of the homestead act, is to be renewed with vigor, and the friends, as well as the enemies of reform, are even now preparing to enter the fray, each side determined to win.
