THE KALISPPELL OIL LANDS.

Petroleum Comes to Surface in the Kintla Lake Region.

As a number of Tillamook people have interests in oil land near Kalispell, Montana, an article from the Kalispell Bee will be found interesting to them.

What is believed to be absolute indications of oil has been discovered at the well of the Kintla Lake Oil company in the oil fields, and the stockholders of the company are feeling jubilant over the bright prospects.

Fred A. Russell and E. G. Potter, both of Kalispell, Montana, having been first duly sworn according to law, depose and say. That they together visited the works of the Kintla Oil company, in the Kintla Lake Oil district, in the county of Flathead, state of Montana, on the 28th and 29th days of August, 1903, and made a thorough examination of the workings.

We found that the water was flowing over the top of the casing, as if it was artesian water. Through this water bubbles of gas were constantly escaping. Every time one of these bubbles burst on the top of the water a seam of oil can be distinctly seen floating on the surface of the water.

Where the water has been running over the casing there is a good inch of what is called B. S. in the eastern oil fields. There is a strong smell of oil when you put your head directly over the well, and we firmly believe that this gas and oil is coming up out of the well.

We brought down a bottle of the water which is exactly as we took it from the well, and we invite all those interested in the oil fields to visit the property and verify our statements for themselves.

FRED A. RUSSELL, [SEAL] E. G. POTTER, [SEAL] Subscribed and sworn to before me, George F. Stannard, a notary public in and for the county of Flathead, state of Montana, this 3rd day of September, 1903.

GEORGE F. STANNARD, Notary public in and for the county of Flathead, state of Montana.

Now that it has been clearly shown that oil is there the directors of the company are making preparations to resume work, and intend to have the drill in operation in a short time feeling confident that by going down a short distance further their efforts will be rewarded by a flow of oil.

TIMBER LAND, ACT JUNE 3, 1895--NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION. Oregon (U.), Oregon, September 4th, 1903.

Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1895, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," as extended to all the Public Land States by act of August 4, 1897.

ANNETTA B. MASON, of Tillamook City, Co. of Tillamook, State of Oregon, has this day filed in this office her sworn statement No. 8275, for the purchase of the E 1/4 of N 1/4, SW 1/4 of N 1/4 and SW 1/4 of SW 1/4 of Section No. 35, in Township No. 2 South, Range 10 West, and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish her claim to said land before the Register and Receiver of this office at Oregon City, Oregon, on Saturday, the 20th day of November, 1903. She names as witnesses:

Lewis L. Smith, Harry T. Crano, Frank Crane, of Hobsonville, Oregon; Homer Mason, of Tillamook, Oregon. Any and all persons claiming adversely the above-described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 20th day of November, 1903.

ALGERNON S. DRESSES, Register.

SOUTH PRAIRIE.

The recent rains have been very beneficial to pastures and gardens.

The logging camp resumed work last week.

Mr. Peters, who bought part of the Ely place, is building a new house.

Mr. Goyno, who has been in Alaska for some time, returned recently to his family.

John Bogart, of Woodland, Wash., visited our cheese makers, Mr. and Mrs. Grey last Monday.

Alvin Johnson and wife left for Sheridan the first of the week.

Mr. Beattie and family are living in the Chas. Well's house.

It has been rumored there was to have been a wedding on the prairie this week. So far we have not heard any tin pans rattling in the wee hours of the night.

Issue Quick went to Portland to attend the bedside of his son Deroy, who is very low with typhoid fever.

BEAVER.

In looking over the last Headlight, I failed to see our berg represented. Beaver is nearly all right. The new hotel is getting more custom than the old pioneer hotel. Sometimes both are full--not the proprietors. They are both well conducted houses where weary travelers find the kind faces of Mr. West and Mr. Kinnaman to greet them and stow away their guests in good shape for the night.

As the bad roads and wet weather comes on, we notice several families are moving down to town on account of being nearer the school house this winter.

An Oregon City cattle buyer was seen at Beaver last Saturday buying beef for the Oregon City trade.

Young persons from other neighborhoods are frequently seen in Beaver. Of course we don't understand, but perhaps other bells may ring besides dinner bells or cow bells as we take notice door bells ring quite often on certain different avenues here of late.

Mr. Jos. Bixby, wife of our pioneer merchant, is preparing to move to Newberg for the winter.

Quite a number from this valley have gone to the hop fields out in the valley. Some are still left to discuss the bark question and some have more barking at home than they wish to hear, especially when it is called cold.

There is to be a quarterly meeting held next Saturday night by the Free Methodists Sunday.

Reunion.

[TO THE EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.] Variety is certainly one of the prime sources of human delight. The seasons in their order pass and re-pass over the sympathizing surface of the globe, and we, its tenants, honor each in its due rotation. We reflect with pleasure, in the icy winter, on the coming flowers of the summer, and whilst gathering the golden harvests of autumn, long for the bracing airs and cool green glories of the spring.

In like manner pass the ever-varying changes in the periods of our lives. The joys of infancy yield to the sports of youth; these are absorbed in the toils of manhood, destined to be superseded by the sober reflections of age. But there are wheels within wheels, and even these changes have also their variations. The toils of manhood need the relaxations of rest and recreation; and a renewed association with the delights of infancy is not unfrequently resorted to as a pastime and solace by declining age. But pleasure soon cloy, and is rarely or never found totally unalloyed with sorrow; whilst toil, when freely accepted and rightly honored in its performance, is not unfrequently found to be the zest of life, the supreme charm of existence.

So hail once more to the familiar path, the play ground and the school house. Hail to the well-known hall, the chair of office, and the old familiar desk. Hurray for the map and the blackboard. Welcome to the cheerful salutation of every body, and the steady clang of the old bell; to the oft heard pattering of little feet and the music of cheerful voices gathering volume with each fresh arrival. Thrice welcome to the dear familiar faces as they throng around, with their hearty congratulations depicted in truthful characters in their sparkling eyes and pouring forth in chorus from their ruby lips. Farewell to the past glories of the seaside, the mountain, the sports of the field, and the empty follies of fashion. No scene more beautiful can be witnessed, and no pleasure more innocent, unalloyed and enduring, can be participated in, than those enjoy who behold and can truly appreciate the happiness of childhood and youth.

G. A. WALKER.

At Aurora, Or., three hop-drying kilns, together with about 500 boxes of hops, burned to the ground on the A. W. Gies farm, three miles west of Aurora. The hopyard is leased by Look Hop, of Portland. Look Hop and his two sons are running the farm. They started a fire in the driers and while this was burning its best there was an explosion, caused, it is believed, by either salt peter or sulphur exploding, and in a few minutes everything was aflame. The three kilns were built closely together, and on this account neither could be saved. One of the Chinamen, Charley, was badly hurt by timbers falling on him.

Killed by Madman.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Sept. 8--A. J. McKinnon, a former Sheriff of Washington County, Oregon, was shot and instantly killed today at Guerneville, 20 miles northwest of here, by an escaped lunatic from the Ukiah asylum named A. Jerraud. McKinnon came here several years ago after having resigned his office in Oregon and purchased a ranch not far from town. It seems that while Sheriff he was once compelled to take Jerraud to an asylum in Oregon, and for that the latter cherished a resentment.

As McKinnon and Jacob Joos were sitting on Joos' porch, Jerraud came along, pulled a pistol and fired without warning. His aim was perfect and McKinnon toppled over dead. Jerraud escaped, but officers are now on his trail. Jerraud eluded his attendants at Ukiah two days ago.

Knife Ends Life.

JUNCTION CITY, Or., Sept. 8--Frank Mulkey, a young man of this place, was stabbed to death today at 12:30 P. M. by Jonathan J. Butler. Mulkey had for some time been causing trouble at the Butler home in Junction by his attention to one of the women of the family, and he had been repeatedly warned to desist. Mulkey failed to heed the warning, and words last night passed between him and the father of the woman whom he persisted in visiting.

As Butler started for his midday meal today, Mulkey met him a block from his home and assaulted him with two large rocks, making a serious wound in the right temple. The men then clinched, and Butler, who is somewhat aged and also a cripple, drew his knife in defense and struck at his opponent, the blade making a clean cut hole about three-fourths of an inch long just under the heart.

Mulkey, wounded to death, staggered painfully back to the Butler home and called for the woman who had been the object of his attentions, but before she reached him he fell dead.

Deceased was a son of C. C. Mulkey, and is well known here. J. J. Butler is an ex-Justice of the Peace, ex-City Recorder, and as a citizen is much respected. He is an ex-soldier and is a member of the Masonic fraternity. He has the sympathy of the community.

The Coroner held an inquest this evening over the remains of Frank Mulkey. The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased came to his death at the hands of J. J. Butler, and that the killing was done in self-defense.

About Noted People.

James Cochran, a student in the state university at Austin, Tex., went to Austin in June to make some money during his vacation. He rode a Texas broncho into town. The animal was worth probably $10. A week after he arrived heavy rains made the roads impassable and he traded the broncho to an oil operator for an acre of land situated far outside of what was then the proved oil field. A few days later a gusher was struck within 400 feet of his acre and it was understood that he had closed a deal for the sale of the acre for $30,000 cash.

Lorin Farr of Salt Lake City, one of the pillars of the Mormon church, hale and vigorous in his 81 year, is the father of 326 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and when recently there was a family gathering, in which his brothers, Aaron and Winslow, took part, with their respective families, there was a great assemblage. A wit said it was by Farr and away the most notable domestic foregrounding of modern times, for all in all there were 555 persons, including Lorin Farr's two surviving wives.

David H. Moffett, known nearly as well in New York as in Denver as the "Colossus of Roads"--railroads--is one of the self-made financial magnates of the far west. These are given in some of his success maxims: "If you are afraid you are not going to hear opportunity's knock see that your door is equipped with an electric bell." "A handcar on the main line is worth two Pullmans on the side track." "Always let the other fellow see a red light." "It is noticed that the school of adversity and the college of hard work are not turning out any failures." "The greatest spend-thrift of all is the man who does not know the value of an hour."

Brussels newspapers announce the death of Alphonse F. Renard, the former Jesuit priest, who occupied the chair of geology at the University of Gibeat, and whose withdrawal from the church two years ago caused a sensation. Great efforts were made during his last illness to win him back to the church, but he refused to admit priests and threw letters unopened into his waste basket. He was an optimist and regretted that he could not live a hundred years to witness the world's improvement. He translated one of Darwin's books and was an authority of oceanography, of which he wrote a history. He was born in 1842.

At a dinner in New York the other evening Theodosia Garrison, poet and novelist, was seated beside a man who is vastly proud of knowing a deal about foodstuffs. At every opportunity he airs this real or supposed knowledge, and ere long had begun to wear the clever writer. At length he declared that apples were excellent for the vitality of the brain because for the phosphoric acid which they contain in large quantities. "Oh, then it is quite clear," said the poetess, "that Eve only plucked that apple to supply Adam with a few ideas."

Believing war with Turkey to be imminent, Chicago Bulgarians are organizing to give financial support to their native land to send fighting men to the field. A number of Bulgarians have left for Philadelphia, where a regiment is being formed.

BLOT OUT LIVES.

Turks Slay Christians at Beirut. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.--The Navy Department has received the following cablegram from Admiral Cotton, dated Beirut, September 7:

"Violence and bloodshed between Mohammedans and native Christians occurred at Beirut Sunday. Six Greek Christians, two Mohammedans and one Turkish soldier killed; three Greek Christians, three Mohammedans and three Turkish soldiers wounded seriously. Other murders reported."

"Flag Lieutenant and United States Consul were present Sunday and Monday in the disturbed quarter and verify details. Turkish government willingly afforded facilities for their investigation and guard; promise 1000 more Turkish soldiers. Turkish soldiers present sufficient if properly disposed of to handle situation at Beirut. Well patrolled, and all quiet Sunday night and today (Monday.) Turkish Governor promises to do all in his power to restore order. Business suspended."

"I have prepared to land force for protection of property of American citizens if situation demands. Will act with caution. Present trouble due to animosity between inimicable and native Christians and failure to control crimes." The last portion of Admiral Cotton's cablegram is unintelligible, and the cipher experts at the Navy Department worked all the morning to translate it. Copies of the report were sent at once to the President and to the State Department.

Anecdotes.

Sir Edward Clark, the noted English barrister, tells with glee how a young lawyer once scored off him. Late one afternoon a case in which Sir Edward was interested was called, whereupon he asked that it be put off until the following morning, as he had been arguing a case in another court all day and was much exhausted. The request was granted and the next case called. The young lawyer then asked for postponement of this case also, saying he, too, was exhausted. The court asked what he had been doing. "If it please the court," was the reply, "I have been listening to Sir Edward Clark."

Apropos of the humorous reference to the solemnity of judges made by James M. Beck, formerly assistant attorney general of the United States, at the dinner of the Hardwick society, in London, an English paper recalls that during the protracted sessions of the Parnell commission Justice Day habitually sat with closed eyes. It was commonly supposed that his lordship was sleeping, and the late Sir Frank Lockwood, observing that the learned judge was very much awakened by a little tiff between the president and Sir Charles Russell, exclaimed quite audibly: "This is the dawn of Day!"

Judge Giegerich has never been accused of tax dodging, reports the New York World, yet a recent epigram of his shows how clearly he understands the feelings of the average man on this subject. He was recently talking with Lawyer Michael Harris when the term "a popular tax" was used. "Is there such a thing as a 'popular tax'?" suggested Harris. "Oh, yes," replied the judge. "I know one variety of taxes that are extremely popular."

"What are they?" asked Harris, in surprise. "Those paid by other people," answered his honor.

Mrs. William J. Bryan said that there is no truth in the rumor that Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson and Miss Ruth Bryan were engaged to be married. This was a denial to a report that that effect from Waynesville, Pa.
