Who Blundered?

TO THE EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT. In reply to the article published Sept. 17th, I wished to say that all statements therein, as far as I am concerned, are absolutely false. J. W. Taylor, Isaac Peas, H. D. Taylor and A. J. Burcham, of Kelso, Wash., and Fred N. Stalkup, of Keras, Wash., were brought in by A. M. Mauritzen, of Portland, who, by the way, did not have an "understanding with C. Ben Riesland" of any kind.

The first that I knew about these parties coming in was when I received a telephone from Forest Grove that this man Mauritzen was coming over with a party. I did not even know what they wanted. Mauritzen telephoned me again from Wilson, and told me that these parties wanted all kinds of land, timber, and farming land and everything else. When they arrived here, they stopped at the Allen House, and after eating dinner came up to my office with Mauritzen, when I told them that there was nothing like a 7 or 8, or 10 million claim to be located in the county, that I knew of. I told them further that I myself did not go into the woods, but had cruisers do that work for me. I told them that I thought the easiest way to arrange matters, since they could not wait here until their receipt came back from the land office, was for them to deposit money in the bank to pay for locating; this money to be in their names, and not to be turned over until they had filed on the land and had received their receipt from the land office; but I told them point blank that there would be no use of their trying to get claims as they expected. I told them that the cruisers, who, by the way, were Weiss and Bailey—would be in in the evening. I had done considerable business with this man Weiss, and all the locating that was done through my office had been done by Walt Bailey, whom I have always treated fairly and befriended. I sent a note to Weiss, telling him that there was a party of men here that wished to be located, and that I should like to speak to him in the evening. Weiss called at my office, and Bailey remained outside speaking to some other parties. Two of the men were in my office, and Weiss told them just exactly what I had, speaking to them about several places where there were claims, and telling them that there were only a few. They finally decided that they would go out. Of course, I told them that I had no further interest in the matter; I had not been instrumental in bringing them in, and I felt no responsibility on my shoulders. Mauritzen, who had brought them in, left early that afternoon, for some reason or other, which I do not know.

When these parties left my office, Walt Bailey took them in tow, and that is the last I saw of them. Somebody certainly told these people a pack of lies which resulted in this report being circulated, which is an absurd lie, and which I desire that you retract in the next issue of the HEADLIGHT. If this be not done, I shall be compelled to clear matters up by submitting the subject to a court of law.

Respectfully submitted, C. BEN RIESLAND.

[We gladly give Mr. Riesland this opportunity to be heard in defence of himself and to show the public that he was not responsible for deceiving the men when they left Portland, who had been told to believe they could easily obtain timber claims with eight to ten million feet of timber on them. He has also submitted to us his correspondence he had with A. M. Mauritzen, of Portland, and in none of his letters does he hold out false inducements for the purpose of getting people to come to Tillamook—simply advising Mauritzen to bring his men along and he would try and locate them. Consequently, it is Mauritzen, and not Mr. Riesland, who deceived the men before they left Portland, and we make this statement to contradict any wrong impressions the men may have caused by laying the blame upon Mr. Riesland before they left Tillamook, or any that the HEADLIGHT caused in its last issue. The men have been basely wronged, and it is only right, to prevent a repetition of that kind of thing, to bring the guilty party to justice. The right thing, then, for Mr. Riesland to do, to clear matters up more satisfactorily, is to subject the guilty man, and not the editor of the HEADLIGHT, to a court of law, and we are glad to hear that this is his intention.—EDITOR.]

In justice to John Weiss and Walt C. Bailey, we have their statements that they had no agreement with Mr. Riesland to look timber lands for him, nor has he done considerable business with Weiss. All of the "considerable business" Riesland had with Weiss was to show him a half block of land he had to sell for Mr. Thayer, which he bought. Bailey denies that he took the men in tow when they left Mr. Riesland's office. Three of the men took him in tow to the Larsen house, to ask him about several townships which they had been told had vacant timber, when Bailey took out his book and showed them that there was no vacant land there whatever. Under those circumstances it is not strange that the men blamed Riesland for deceiving them and they told a number of citizens so, seeing that for some reason Mauritzen had left the city in a mysterious hurry. As we have stated above, let Mr. Riesland bring the guilty party to justice and clear the matter up that way.

And Still, "Who Blundered?"

C. Ben Riesland came into the HEADLIGHT office on Friday and denied writing the libelous matter which appeared in the Herald. This is probably true if detaching a letter is not writing it and a nice way to squirm out of the responsibility. Will Mr. Riesland deny that he dictated the paragraphs himself and that he induced Rollie to publish and father the responsibility of the untruthful matter? It is not our intention to get mad and threaten Mr. Riesland with a libel suit, for if he is a gentleman with a spark of honor in him we are entitled to an apology.

Editorial Snap Shots.

The business men have decided to close their business establishments at eight o'clock, commencing on the 1st. They would do just as much business, have more enjoyment and live longer if they closed at six. All that is required is to educate the public to do their trading earlier in the day.

The Corvallis Gazette says it is plainly evident that the Southern Pacific, or what is known as the Harriman lines, is waking up to the importance of the demand for new railroad lines in Oregon. As the Southern Pacific claims Tillamook as its territory, it is to be hoped that this county will not be overlooked when new railroad projects are being considered.

Some of our citizens had the Mexico fever not long since. The situation is now changed, all the fever being in that republic. Dr. Roy Martin, Quarantine Inspector for the Government, who recently returned from Linares, declares that the city is dead commercially and partly deserted on account of the prevalence of yellow fever. Although there are less than 200 cases in Linares, there are fully 2000 people sick with various ailments. Tillamook, with its healthy climate, is good enough for us.

Surely the citizens of Tillamook must be getting awfully tired hearing about the many false and silly insinuations that are being published about the editor of the HEADLIGHT. If they can stand that kind of stuff being injected into them every week we have no objection whatever, for longer it is kept up more silly and false it makes those who think they are catering to the public taste appear. We are not courting so much public notoriety by being continually jumped upon. But the citizens consider the source and let it go at that.

General News.

President Roosevelt entertained at luncheon, on Monday at Oyster Bay, L. I., Senator Proctor, of Vermont, and Harvey W. Scott, editor of the Oregonian, of Portland Or.

At a recent meeting of the City Council of Seaside, the Marshal was instructed to collect $5 per quarter from every nickle-in-the slot machine and $25 every two months from each gambling table.

A detachment of the Twenty-eighth Infantry embarked in boats had a sharp engagement on Toros Lake, Lanao, September 10, with a band of fanatical Moros, during which Private O. E. Barnett was killed. One of the leaders of the enemy, a priest, single-handed attacked a boatload of American soldiers. He was killed.

Prevalence of trachoma in New York, over 1000,000 cases of this disease of the eye having been reported, has resulted in the determination of the Board of Health to establish a hospital for its exclusive treatment. It has been found that the majority of these cases are among the public school children. In the schools inspected last week 19 per cent of the pupils were found to be affected.

When the State Department closed Tuesday at 4 o'clock it was agreed that the Panama Canal treaty was dead, although eight hours yet remained within which the Columbian Congress might take affirmative action upon it. Nothing however, had been received during the day, either from Minister Beaupre at Bagota or from Mr. Herran, the Colombian Charge, which gave the slightest hope of a favorable issue.

Senator Hanna stated that there was no truth in the report published in some papers on Monday that he would resign the chairmanship of the National Republican committee on account of ill health. Mr. Hanna's duties as chairman, it is pointed out, are extremely light at present, and will continue so until the National Republican convention meets, when a new chairman may be named. Mr. Hanna declined to state whether or not he would again accept the chairmanship if offered to him.

Mrs. Carrie Nation deeded over certain valuable property to a charitable organization in Kansas. She is now writing a play in which she will appear herself as the "Defender of Homes," and advocate total abstinence. The property Mrs. Nation surrendered consists of a handsome building and about two acres of land in Kansas City, Kan. She turned it over to the Associated Charities of Wyandotte County, Kan., to be used as a home for the destitute wives, mothers and children of drunkards, to the exclusion of all others.

Passengers who came from Nome on the steamship Portland bring the news that the largest nugget ever found in Alaska was discovered on September 8, on the bench of the left limit to Discovery on Anvil Creek. The find was made by a workman of the Pioneer Mining Company. The workman thought he had struck a boulder. He dug it out and found it to be a nugget weighing 182.55 ounces. At $18 per ounce the finder will realize $3285. There is a small amount of quartz in the nugget, but its owners have already received offers to dispose of it at its weight in pure gold.

A strong attempt is being made to have the labor unions make a stand against President Roosevelt because he made the Government printing office an open shop by reinstating W. A. Miller, a bookbinder, after the union had declared he could not hold the place for infraction of rules. Labor organizations throughout the country are being requested to forward petitions to the President asking him to oust Miller. The President steadfastly declares there shall be no discrimination. John Mitchell, the famous president of the Mineworkers, it is believed, will take steps which will cause labor to view the President's action in the light of duty in upholding the law.

T. A. Wood, grand commander of the Indian War Veterans of Oregon, and long famed for his connection with pensions for Indian fighters and their widows, was placed under arrest at his office in Portland by Deputy Marshal Jacob Proebstel. He was taken before United States Commissioner J. A. Sladen and bound over under $1000 bonds to appear for an examination Tuesday of next week. Mr. Wood appeared perfectly composed and made the remark that the proceeding would all come to naught. The widely known Indian Veteran commander is accused by Special Pension Examiner W. A. Pless of aiding, assisting and procuring the making of false affidavits and certificates in three pension claims, and, according to the statements of officers of the United States, the accusation in at least one of the cases is a grave one.
