Do you know about Jersey cattle? We offer a few choice bred yearling bulls from our famous Hazel Fern Jersey Herd, at specially reduced prices, to make room for next crop of youngsters. We will give you valuable pointers on Jersey stock. Better write us today on prices on bulls, and state the kind of animal you desire. Address F. E. McEldowney, Superintendent Ladd's Farm, 1260 Milwaukee ave., Portland, Ore.
Somewhere between 40 and 50 passengers went out on an excursion to the seal rocks off Cape Meares on the tug Geo. R. Vosburg on Sunday, and some of them succeeded in landing on the rocks, where there were thousands of sea lions. After gathering birds eggs and shooting quite a number of the monster sea lions the party returned without any mishap, having caught a number of deep sea fish, but the sea was a little too rough to make a big haul.
The friends of Mrs. C. R. Hunt will be sorry to hear that while attending the funeral service at the Christian church on Sunday afternoon of the man who was found on the beach, she was seized with paralysis on the left side. She was taken home by Miss Cosy Clark, but the stroke was so severe it rendered her unconscious, and she remained in that condition several days, much to the anxiety of her relatives. We are glad to say, however, that Mrs. Hunt has regained consciousness and there is some hope of her recovery. Her daughters, who were in Portland, were sent for and they reached home on Monday evening.
County Judge W. W. Conder was in the city on Tuesday. The judge has become interested in road clubs, having organized two in the south part of the county, and he is desirous that a club be organized in this city. We are all interested more or less in good roads, and any effort in that direction should be encouraged. As to building a new court house, the judge will endeavor to ascertain what kind of a court house is wanted, and to ascertain this he will obtain the pictures and cost of several buildings, and by the first of next year the court will be in a position to make a start.

The Annual School Meeting.

At the annual school meeting on Monday, Homer Mason was elected director and Thos. Coates was re-elected clerk. Messrs. Severance, Clough and McIntosh were appointed a committee to audit the clerk's accounts. Chairman Eddy made a number of remarks, in which he said they had had a most successful school, which was due to the good corps of teachers. The board thought it was the best policy to re-employ the teachers, but thus far only the principal and three of the teachers had been employed. It was shown that the center piers would have to be strengthened and there was but little difference in the cost of heating the new school building, which was considered very satisfactory. The question of drainage of the surface water in the vicinity of the school was brought up by Mr. T. B. Handley, who thought as the district had provided comfortable rooms, light, ventilation and heat they should not forget the drainage, whereupon Mr. J. W. Maxwell moved that the directors be instructed to carry out the work. Mr. Beals offered to give $50, and it was suggested by Mr. Eddy that other property owners and the city council might be induced to give something. Mr. C. Thayer objected, for he thought that it was the duty of the city council to have a complete system of drainage planned out, for any expense in a temporary drain would, he thought, be throwing that amount of money away. Mr. Handley said that as the people had voted to bond the city for $58,000, this only left $2000 available by another vote for sewerage, so they would have to wait until some of the principle on the water bonds was paid off before they could hope to have a sewerage system. The motion carried.

Labor and Industry.

The Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor is now stronger in the anthracite than in the bituminous coal fields, and has affiliated with it about 200,000 men. Japan furnishes one-twelfth of the raw silk consumed in the world—about 9,000,000 pounds. The war is not likely to affect the production, as all the work is done by women and girls.
Co operation has proved a great success in England. The co-operative societies did a business in 1903 that aggregated $446,081,115, and the net profits were $49,300,000, or 30 1/2 per cent of the share capital involved.
Thorium, which gives the light from a gas mantle its intensity, was a curiosity twenty years ago, but hundreds of persons are now making a living digging it in North Carolina, and the annual output is worth $500,000.
Statistics collected in Germany have shown that 28 per cent of the accidents caused by machinery used for industrial purposes, such as manufacturing, were due to defects in the machines and to lack of proper safeguards.
Unique among the various international unions in the country is the Journeymen Barbers' International union, with headquarters in Boston. The special interest in this international lies in the fact that, since 1896, there have been only two strikes of the local unions that compose it.
An effort will be made to bring a bill before the next Pennsylvania legislature, by which each coal company will be required to pay $100 for each man or boy killed in or about its mines. This will provide the deceased's family with funeral expenses and money to meet its urgent needs.
United States Commissioner of Education W. T. Harris follows up the advance notice of his annual report by asserting that the tangible effect of education is observed in increased incomes. Persons with a high school training average $1,000 a year, while those with a common school education only half as much, and the illiterate about $200. The college graduate averages about $2,000 a year.
The total number of workmen thrown out of employment in the last twenty years on account of strikes is estimated at 6,105,694, and a loss of wages of over $230,000,000. More than 127,000 establishments were involved. There was an average loss of $46 to each person involved. New York came first in the number of strikes and Pennsylvania second, the former having 20,000 and the latter having over $18,000 strikes. The coal industries experienced more strikes than any other.

The crops in the vicinity of Dallas have been materially hindered this Spring on account of the lack of rain. Unless rain comes within the next few days there will be almost a total loss of the Spring crops.

Editorial Snap Shots.

What was in the wind by the gathering together of the clans at the last moment to attend the school meeting?
There is always one feature connected with the entertainments at the Academy, and that is people get too much entertainment for their money.
It is correctly said that Tillamook is a land of milk and honey, but it is something better than that at this season of the year, it is a land of strawberries and cream.

Judge Conder must have anticipated trouble if he bunched all the newly elected county officials up in the old quarters, so he is having new offices erected for the democratic sheriff-elect and deputy. We do not look for trouble between the political push of either party, even if there is to be a democratic court house ring.
Some people are a little curious as to what will be done about local option in Tillamook county next November. As patience is a virtue, we shall have to be patient and see what they are going to do about it. If the vote at the recent election is anything to go by, it is enough to put the saloon keepers on the anxious seat.

The reputation of a city or county is what its public men make it. If there are aggressive and able men in a community it progresses and comes into prominence. If, on the other hand, the public men are of the class that pulls down and never builds up, there is little or no progress. How true this is of some of the public men in Tillamook.

It is a bad thing for any city, county or community when a spirit of pull down and boycott gets started. Yet every small community is affected with that kind of un-American spirit once in a while, only to bring disrepute upon those who start it. And Tillamook City is no exception to the rule. But it is amusing, anyway, and shows what small, narrow minded people there are in the world, who never do themselves or the community any good.

The drainage of the surface water in the vicinity of the school house was the subject of a discussion at the meeting of the school meeting on Monday. We believe it is, as Mr. Thayer said, the duty of the city council to undertake that work, but as it have had plenty of opportunities during the past few years to ride the city of its frog pond and eyesore, but never have done so, we do not know but what the district took the right course to stamp out a nuisance, and which will not entail a very large figure to carry out. With assistance from the city council and property owners there is every prospect that surface water in the heart of the city will find an outlet.

It is impossible for a newspaper to please everybody, especially when there is an election and people are divided up into parties and factions. If anyone is taking exceptions because we conscientiously supported the republican party in the recent election, we do not care one iota, for we shall have nothing to regret doing so in the future. If there is anyone who is wanting to boycott an editor for doing that let them start in, for that is something, if what is true is told us, we intend handling without gloves. All that is the matter with the HEADLIGHT is that it has told too much truth in discussing local affairs, and we intend to pursue the same course in the future as in the past, regardless of those who disagree or agree with us.

What the HEADLIGHT has repeatedly asserted came up forcibly on Monday at the school meeting on the question of drainage. We have asserted on more than one occasion that Tillamook City is in more need of a sewerage system than in another water system, but the majority of taxpayers thought different, for out of $60,000, the limit to which the city can bond itself, $58,000 has been voted for a new water system, leaving but a trivial amount for drainage. We still insist that the water and drainage systems should go together. But we do not look for any system of drainage to be inaugurated in this city until some of our citizens have been put under the sod as a result of too much water agitation and little or no agitation to drain the stinking cesspools which are a menace to health, and becoming more so as time rolls on.

An effort was made on Monday, but was voted down, to introduce the high school studies into the Latimer school. The idea may be laudable, but it is altogether premature for a district like that to tackle, when the cost is taken into consideration. The wisest thing for the people living in the Latimer school district, if they are desirous of giving their children the advantages of a good high school, would be to make arrangements with the directors of Tillamook district or become annexed to it. The Latimer school district has a high school within easy reach if it wants to take advantage of it for their children, so has Fairview and South Prairie, and it is a little surprising to us that those who are interested in education in those districts have not bestirred themselves to secure what advantages the Tillamook high school offers to neighboring districts.

The HEADLIGHT would suggest that, instead of holding any more entertainments in the hall of St. Alphonsus Academy, they be held in the opera house or elsewhere where the exits are convenient in case of fire. We are perfectly aware that the Sisters have taken unusual precautions to ward against fire on this and previous occasions when entertainments were held there, but as accidents will happen in the best regulated family, it is just as well to be prepared for them. For instance, if an accident had happened to one of the large Rochester lamps when they were being lighted or the light turned down it would have caused a panic and a rush for the stairway. What occurs on those occasions is too vividly before the public mind in the case of the Iriquois theater at Chicago for us to dilate upon, sufficed to say that we do not want to see anything like that in Tillamook, hence our kindly suggestion as to future entertainments, or until such time as the exits of St. Alphonsus academy will allow the people to get out of the hall in quick time, which is almost impossible as at present constructed. It may be that it is not the duty of the Press, but that of the city council to draw attention to matters where the public safety is in jeopardy, but since we have done so we do not for one moment think that anyone will take offence at what we have suggested and what we think is best for the public.

According to the Novoe Vremya, the Russian oil combination has capitulated to the Standard Oil Company, and even the Rothschild and Knobel interests have come to terms with the American concern. The whole output of the Baku wells is at present in American hands, the rivals having become friends.

President Roosevelt was advised that a large proportion of all the great financial concerns will support his candidacy. Ex Attorney-General Wayne MacVeagh gave him this assurance. Mr. MacVeagh, who is counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and many of the leading anthracite coal companies, took luncheon with the President. The President has now been repeatedly advised that all the Wall street interests dominated by J. P. Morgan will contribute liberally to the Republican campaign fund.

Humane action is demanded in behalf of the deported Colorado miners. Nothing better can be suggested than to provide them with tickets to the World's Fair.
