A fire was discovered at two o'clock on Thursday morning in the roof of Mrs. S. M. Hardman's house on Main st., and it is a wonder that the house and furniture were not destroyed. M. F. Leach, whose house is nearly opposite, turned in the alarm, and what with the fire bell ringing and the saw mill whistle blowing, it did not take long to get a crowd. The hose company promptly responded, and when the fire appliances reached the residence fire had taken a good hold on building and it was burning fiercely, the flames ascending skyward. In a few minutes Chief Crenshaw had the fire subdued and from then it did not take long to put it out. A piano and some of the furniture was saved, but the house is partly destroyed. Mrs. Hardman was in bed when the fire started. She was insured in the Oregon Fire Relief, with $500 on the house and $800 on the furniture.
