He is expecting to get a bill through the state legislature making it compulsory to cover up all dangerous and exposed parts of machinery which are liable to cause accidents to men who work in factories and saw mills. *
Died, on Friday, in this city, Mrs. Hannah Crane, at the home of her son-in-law, A. J. Burdick, aged 71 years. She was born at Newfield, New York state, on December 20, 1833, and came to Tillamook at the beginning of this year to make her home with her children, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdick and Ono Crane, of this city. She has two other children, Bryant Crane and Mrs. Lottie Babcock, who reside in New York, where the remains were shipped to be buried at Greenwood in that state. *
The preliminary examination of Capt. Ernest Loll on an information charging him with the larceny of $85 from A. J. Sharp was held in Justice Goodman's court at Astoria on Thursday, and he was discharged on the account of lack of sufficient evidence to warrant holding him for trial in the higher court. Sharp and Loll had been rooming together. Saturday night when Sharp retired he had $85 in his pockets, but the money was gone when he arose Sunday morning. Loll, he charged, arose before he did, and Sharp attributes the loss of his money to the early rising of the captain. Several witnesses testified that Loll had lost a sum of money gambling since the money was taken. *

Bert Illingsworth had a preliminary examination before Justice Alley on Thursday on a charge of assault and battery upon L. L. Smith. The justice held him for the Circuit Court, placing his bonds at $250. *
The greatest drawback to Tillamook county is that it has no railroad connection. If it was possible for them to do so, the people of this county would have grappled with the problem, as they did with the dairying industry, but it is too big a cud for them, considering they had as much as they could handle and finance clearing up land for more pasture. It is entirely out of the question for Tillamook to undertake, hence, if the county gets a railroad it will have to come from the outside. * * *

WOOLFE'S FIRST EXECUTION

Breaks Through Professional Courtesy, Goes Back on his Own Promise and Does What the Political Bosses Tell Him.
TO THE EDITOR OF TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT
DEAR SIR,—As some public comment has been made regarding our action in objecting to the course of Sheriff Woolfe in regard to the publication of a notice of sale, we feel that the public should know the facts. *
It has always been the custom, so far as we have ever heard, for the sheriff, in giving notice of execution sales, to publish the same in any paper which the attorney for plaintiff should request. In pursuance of this custom, as attorneys for Peter Brant, having directed the clerk to issue an execution upon a judgment and decree in Mr. Brant's favor in the Circuit Court, we, at the time of giving instructions as to the levy to be made, requested Deputy Sheriff Coates to have notice of sale published in the Headlight. No objection was made to this request. Afterward, without anything being said to us about the matter, the notice was handed to another paper for publication. When we learned of this we objected very strongly and called Mr. Woolfe's attention to the custom which had previously been followed without exception. Upon learning of this custom Mr. Woolfe agreed to follow it and to withdraw the notice if it could be conveniently done, but finding that it had, by that time been set up in type, it was agreed that it should be allowed to run, but that in the future the request of the attorneys interested should govern. *
In doing this we were standing for the privilege which had been granted and exercised by the attorneys of Tillamook County for years. We thought, and still think, that this was proper and right; that as the plaintiff in the case is responsible for the expense incurred in this matter, that he, or his attorneys who represent him in the case, should be allowed to pay where the expense should be incurred, and that he should not be compelled to patronize persons objectionable to him or his attorneys, and neither the sheriff nor any other person should be allowed to assume the role of dictator in a matter of that kind, but that the custom of years, which has proven satisfactory, should be continued as we are pleased to know, it is to be. *
Yours very truly,
EDDY & BOTT.

P.S.—Since writing the foregoing we have been informed by Mr. Woolfe that he will not be able to stand to his agreement as to allowing attorneys to designate the paper in which notices of sale are to be published; that his friends and supporters will not allow him to have such notices published in either the Headlight or the Herald; that, while he desires good feeling and harmony with the attorneys, still he cannot resist the demands of his supporters in the matter. *
With this statement of the facts we close, leaving the people to draw their own conclusions as to the propriety of the action of the parties in the case.
EDDY & BOTT.

Editorial Snap Shots.

Surely it ought to be a good idea for those who are making hay to watch the weather glass closely. * * *
We wonder whether William Reid, of Tillamook railroad fame, has exhausted his "hot air" and he has no more to go on? * * *
How funny it is to see democrats bowing down and worshipping Judge Parker's "golden telegram." Probably they mistake it for Bryan's "cross of gold." * * *
Query. Have you been boycotted yet by the dictators and bosses? Well, consider yourself boycotted if you did not allow yourself to be controlled by the political dictators. * * *
The Headlight, all through the political campaign, never published an unkind word about Sheriff Woolfe, and we purposely avoided criticising him, soon that score he has no kick coming. * * *

Every dairymen should be prepared with the necessary appliances to treat milk fever by the new treatment. By doing so it will save the lives of many valuable cows in this county. * * *
There is a startling difference between the railroad fatalities in the United States and in Europe. The fearful disparity against this country must be due to carelessness or mismanagement. Congress should take hold of this subject at the next session. * * *
It is in order to ask Postmaster Severance who chewed off his moustache, but when we heard a young lady, directly she clapped eyes on him when he returned to this city say "He's a peach!" the editor went away back and sat down. * * *

The Russians, in sending ships through the Dardanelles as merchantmen and then arming them with guns they had stowed away, have resorted to piracy. But in capturing one of the P. & O. steamers she jumped onto the wrong nation when she molested England's ships and commerce. * * *
The world must be growing better when Missouri democrats declare in their platform that they are opposed to bribery and serve notice on the hoodlums to get out of the democratic party of that state. Gee, what's going to happen next in Missouri? * * *

The weather is somewhat freakish this year, for we had a long spell of beautiful weather when it is usually wet, and at this season of the year when we get nice weather, it is threatening and no one is in a position to know whether it is going to be fine or rain. It's a presidential year, anyway, so we'll let it go at that. * * *
As long as we have $58,000 bond agitators in the city property owners can thank them for the depreciation in the value of city property. And it will continue to go Down! Down! Down! as long as the racket is kept up, for there are but very few persons who own realty who want to see their property encumbered with a mortgage plaster. * * *

Failing to come out in a fair, open fight, the Russian government has turned some of her ships into privateers and their crews into pirates on the high seas to molest ships and commerce of other nations she is supposed to be on the best of terms and at peace. Russia had better lick Japan first—that is if she can—before she starts in to lick the whole world. * * *
If business is slack it appears to be the proper thing to attribute it to a presidential year. But that has little to do with the quietness of the times in Tillamook, for Old Bossy is giving just as big a flow of milk as in years gone by. It is more than probable that a large number of people are saving instead of spending their money in this county. So this is a good time for business men to take a well earned rest. * * *

Tillamook is a remarkable county in a number of ways. Its dairying, its green pastures, its cool atmosphere, its sparkling, refreshing streams, its suburb mountain scenery, its dense forests of gigantic trees, and its rugged and picturesque sea coast, attracts the outsiders who come into the little kingdom of Tillamook to get away from the heat, the worry of business and to recuperate their health. A few weeks rusticiating in the mountains or on the beach in the summer in Tillamook affords plenty of enjoyment, not only at the time, but afterwards when they think what a good time they had. * * *
Cheese, like wheat and other products, has its ups and downs. Eastern cheese is down to 7 1/2c and Tillamook cheese is down to 9c, which is several cents below what it was this time last year. From this it is plain to see that the unprecedented prices of last year will not be reached this year. Here we have another instance where the supply and demand rules prices. And on that account considerable less money will come into the county this year for dairy products, but before many weeks we expect to see the cheese market get back to its normal condition. What with the inflated value put into cheese last year and the falling down in price this year, if an average is struck of the two years, we believe it will be found that the dairymen of Tillamook have done exceedingly well and that they have no room to complain. * * *

The act of courtesy that previously existed between sheriffs of this county and the attorneys has been knocked in the head by Sheriff Woolfe. In previous years the sheriffs have allowed the attorneys, when they have had executions, to designate the newspaper they wished it published in, which is considered an act of courtesy between the legal profession and the sheriff's office. Even the Press of this city have conceded this right to the attorneys, for it is strictly their private business and no one, we contend, has a right to dictate to them in what way they shall conduct the business of their clients, any more than the attorneys have a right to go to Woolfe's shoeing shop and compel him to buy horse shoes and nails from persons whom he did not want to. Sheriff Woolfe, at the dictation of his political advisers, has broken through these professional courtesies and put the screws on the Tillamook bar, which is a dangerous precedent for him to fall into. But he has done so, and it is to be seen how the attorneys like Woolfe and his political dictators meddling in what is really their own private business. * * *

Sheriff Woolfe has boycotted the Headlight. Poor fellow! The Headlight will appear long after the sheriff is hunting his old job, so it will make very little difference to the editor. We are sorry for Woolfe that he has taken such an unwise course, for we believe he will regret it before very long. We would like to ask Sheriff Woolfe one question now that he is using his official position to boycott the Headlight. If Woolfe was promised some work in his shoeing shop and the editor came along and gave orders or persuaded the parties to take the work over to Balls', what kind of a man would he think the editor was? The public will think with us, that Woolfe has made a very bad start in his official capacity to boycott the Headlight, for that is something the public, especially the rural districts, dislike to see in any man who holds public office. Another thing, to be fair and logical, Woolfe must now boycott every business man and those who did not support him, for he will see that it is an injustice to single out the Headlight for a boycott and not the other fellows. We regret, however, that politics and business should be allowed to be mixed up in this fashion, and especially in Woolfe having to resort to a boycott to satisfy his political masters. Before Woolfe is through with his boycott he will find that the shoe does not fit very good. * * *
