The Tillamook Headlight

Fred C. Baker, Publisher.
"Golden Cheddar" Taffy.

We have received the following clipping from the Tacoma Ledger, with the question, "What do you think about it?" by a person who received a copy of that newspaper:

GOLDEN CHEDDAR.
The progress of the R. Robinson Cheese Company, of Tillamook, Ore., is a matter to be marked with some interest in a large way.

An earnest citizen of Tillamook county in Oregon, having observed the great loss to his fellow citizens through the lack of uniformity in the quality of cheese produced in that great cheese producing district, applied to Haggoods, of Seattle, for an expert and high grade sort of a man to remedy the evil.

Coincidentally, Mr. R. Robinson, of Tacoma, applied to the same firm.
Mr. Robinson went immediately and in April assumed the direction of processes in several large factories.

The result is the Golden Cheddar which dealers are finding uniformly good, a quality which is apparently the most desirable. After four months Golden Cheddar has obtained a market with perhaps two hundred dealers. What another twelve months will show is worth observation.

The business of such a company is laid along lines which go to making the prosperity of the Northwest.

It may be well to state right off that no such company as the R. Robinson Cheese Company, of Tillamook, is incorporated in this county, and to inquire who is the "earnest citizen" who has "observed the great loss to his fellow citizens through the lack of uniformity," and the writer of the above article?

One would imagine, to read the newspaper taffy that has been written and published about R. Robinson that he had done wonders in the up-building of Tillamook's dairy business. As far as we are aware, we fail to see where Mr. Robinson has got in and expended his money building factories or pulling off his coat and manufacturing cheese as Mr. P. Mcintosh did and those who started the co-operative factories. Those were the men who were instrumental in manufacturing butter and cheese which gave Tillamook's dairy products a splendid reputation. Mr. Robinson is a nice gentleman, but we fail to see why he should be given any credit, or can claim any, for the excellence of Tillamook cheese, for he has not manufactured one pound in this county, and as to his being able to give pointers in cheese making, quite a few of the cheese makers in Tillamook, so we are informed, could give Mr. Robinson valuable lessons. All that Mr. Robinson has done was to buy up some cheese because he could sell it again at a higher figure, thus making a profit off the dairymen. Or, to be more correct, buying cheese manufactured in this county, and then branding it "Golden Cheddar." This may be a trick of the trade, but it is time that the dairymen of Tillamook caught on and dispensed with combines, middlemen and those who want to make a profit out of their product. It was well to let well enough alone when the co-operative and individual factories were doing well and managing their own business, was the opinion of the Headlight when some of the factories went into the combine. We think so still, for there are plenty of experienced cheese makers and intelligent men in the county who know how to manufacture high grade cheese and market the same without the assistance of a combine or middlemen who re-brand Tillamook cheese as "Golden Cheddar" and sell it in the Sound markets as this product of the "R. Robinson Cheese Company, of Tillamook." It is time that State Dairy and Food Commissioner Bailey was making an investigation if Tillamook cheese is being bought up by middlemen and re-branded by what looks to be a bogus company.

The Health of the Farmer.
Farmers should be the healthiest class of men in the world. The air they breathe is the purest to be found. Their work is of the manual kind and they are out of doors. Men in cities who labor with their hands are frequently confined within doors or they are obliged to work in damp places and breathe unhealthy odors or gasses. Men who do office work do not get enough physical exercise. In spite of all that, however, the city man of average circumstances enjoys about as good health as the farmer, for the reason that the farmer as a rule, abuses his health. In the city a man who took no better care of himself than the farmer would be dead long before his time.

For some unexplainable cause farmers seem to think it unmanly to go in when it rains or take proper precautions for keeping their feet dry. They think nothing of getting wet to their knees in the morning, and then if a shower comes up during the day they think it their duty to be out in it in their shirt sleeves. The result is that the average farmer is badly crippled with rheumatism and diseases of that character, and they age him prematurely. In most cases farmers lay their failing health to overwork, and that may be the cause in some cases, but not in many. If farmers would care for their health the way city people are obliged to do in order to keep alive, country people would not find that their work was wearing them out.

LURED BY LETTER.
Kelso Bridegroom Victim of Whitecaps.

KELSO, Wash., Oct. 8.—Bucked and gagged and lashed to a tree for four days M. Kelley suffered at the hands of whitecaps on the day he expected to be married. He was found yesterday in the woods near here, unconscious and almost dead.

The outrage he endured has left Kelley in so precarious a state that he can give no definite statement of the assault made upon him. Only by great effort can he tell disjointed scraps of his story.

Never in the history of this section has there been so fiendish and apparently unprovoked an assault upon any man. The cause for so barbaric an outrage is as deep a mystery as the identity of the perpetrators, for no clew was left behind.

Kelley was engaged to marry Miss Lulu Ward, of Catlin, who was attending school at Ellensburg, and had arranged that she come here for their marriage Monday evening. Monday morning he telephoned to the County Clerk at Kalama asking him questions in regard to obtaining a marriage license.

Best Man Waits in Vaine.

Kelley had stayed Sunday night with a friend, Joe Baxter, who lives out of town, and was to have met Baxter in Kelso at 3:05 to go to Kalama for the marriage license. Baxter was at the depot to meet Kelley on time, but he did not appear, and Baxter waited until the 5 o'clock train. Kelley did not appear then, and Baxter returned home.

Nothing more was heard of Kelley until Friday. Then Sid Jones who was out in the woods hunting, led by his dogs found Kelley, bound hand and foot with a gag in his mouth. His legs were tied together above and below the knees, and his hands were tied with wires so strong that Jones could not remove them until he returned to town and secured a wire-cutter.

Kelley says that he was bound by two people he does not know, one of whom was dressed as a woman. They met him and told him they were staying at a house in the neighborhood, and that they had a letter for Kelley from his father, and for him to call at one o'clock and get it. When he went for the letter he was set upon and bound.

Strapped to Back of Horse.

How many were in the gang more than the two who bound and blindfolded him, Kelley does not know. After being roughly handled and subject to the greatest indignities, Kelley was strapped upon the back of a horse. The members of the gang also mounted horses and forced his steed to a gallop over broken country. Apparently they traveled almost in a circle. Finally the gang entered the woods, Kelley, shaken almost to pieces by his rough journey, was pulled to the ground.

Here the climax of the atrocities heaped upon him, by the whitecap gang was reached. He was kicked and beaten, and a gag made of a piece of wire clothes-line wrapped with rags forced into his mouth and tied behind his head. He was tied to a tree with his hands lashed behind him. A piece of fine wire was then produced.

The wire was run through his skin in a most shameful manner. From his pocket were abstracted a picture of his fiancée, together with a lock of her hair. These tokens, sacred to the victim, were impaled upon the wire.

Victim in Pitiable Condition.

Kelley's story is so vague at intervals that it is hard to learn when the gang left him. It is possible that the atrocities in the woods were not committed Monday, but this is not believed probable.

Evidently considering that death would soon come to end his unconscious agony, the gang left Kelley. Under a doctor's care he has slightly revived, and the physician in charge says that he will probably recover and help to clear up the mystery of his assailants.

Excitement runs high in Kelso tonight and if the Whitecaps who outraged Kelley are caught while the men of this vicinity are in their present mood, summary punishment will be dealt out unsparingly.

Kelley has lived near Kelso for more than a year, and is a young man of good reputation. It is not known that he ever had any enemies in this section, and this makes the identification of the members of the whitecap gang more difficult. No importance is attached to their taking his fiancée's picture from Kelley's pocket, apparently it was merely an additional torment.

Victim of Whitecaps is Married in Bed.

Even the power of whitecaps is not great enough to frighten true love and Sunday afternoon Miss Lulu Ward, of Catlin, and M. Kelley, of Kelso, the victim of the whitecap outrage, were united in marriage at the hotel in Kelso by Rev. M. Wolfe, the pastor of the Methodist Church.

Sunday morning Miss Ward went to Kalama, where she procured a license and, returning to Kelso, was married at 5 o'clock in the afternoon to the man who had suffered so much for her sake. Friends had made arrangements for the ceremony, which took place in the apartments of the groom, who is still confined to his bed as the result of the exposure and tortures to which he was subjected for four days last week.

The marriage was a quiet one, there being no guests other than the landlord of the hotel and one or two intimate friends of the bride and groom. Mr. Kelley has suffered a great shock from his experiences and it will be some time before he is able to leave his bed. It was in order to be better able to nurse her lover back to health that Miss Ward arranged the marriage to take place at this time.

The excitement at Kelso caused by the atrocities has in no manner abated and the people are eagerly awaiting for some clew upon which to proceed in finding and bringing to punishment the guilty persons.

And yet, however, no clew has been discovered which tends to connect any person in Kelso or the vicinity with the crime. Sunday persons going over the ground near the scene of the crime found the cuffs worn by Mr. Kelley on the day he was taken to the woods, lying in the path leading from the city to the place where the victim was tied to the tree to die.

The father of the injured man is now on his way to Kelso from his home at Council Grove, Kan., and upon his arrival every effort will be made to find and punish the perpetrators of the outrage. Sheriff Huntington, of Kalama, is now in Kelso and is doing all in his power to unearth some clew upon which he may proceed to the capture of the men who abducted Kelley.

The authorities would like very much to find some trace of a former citizen of the great state of Kansas, named Baker, who has made a nuisance of himself for some time, according to the story of Miss Ward, who has suspicions that he is the man who is responsible for the assault upon Mr. Kelly.

According to the story told by the bride of the injured man, she was courted by Baker at her former home near Council Grove. After forcing his attentions upon her for some time Baker proposed marriage. She refused the man, since which time he has followed her and annoyed her in many ways. When Miss Ward came to the West Baker followed her and has been seen by her in Tacoma, Portland and Seattle. The lady was much troubled over the strange actions of the man and had told her lover that she feared some evil from him.

Since Miss Ward has been in Ellensburg she has not seen Baker, but a man answering to his description was seen in Kelso a short time ago. It is thought, therefore, that Baker either was the ringleader in the assault upon Kelley or that he made arrangements for it and afterwards left the vicinity. Accurate descriptions of the man will be given to the officers working on the case, and an effort will be made to locate him and bring him to Kelso, where he will be given an opportunity to prove that he was not in any manner implicated with the crime committed Monday night.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure not known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and neutralizing nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
