

TREASURE STOVE RECOVERED.

Eovs' Find of Twelve Years Ago Is Finally Restored to Them.

ASHLAND, Or., March 12.—Com promise of a suit at law which has attracted unusual interest in this part of the state has just been accomplished and the case dismissed and stricken from the docket of the Circuit Court at Jacksonville, where it was left by a disagreement of the jury at the last term of court.

The suit was known as the "tin-can case," and involved the ownership of a sum of money found in a tin can buried under an old chicken-house on the farm of Roberts & O'Neil, in the central part of the Rogue River Valley, some dozen or more years ago. The Danielson boys, then small lads, were engaged, according to their story, in cleaning out the chicken-house, when they found the can of money, which they afterward estimated to amount to $7000 in value, being $20. $10 and $5 goldpieces. They took it to Mrs. Roberts at the farm-house, who gave them a nickel and told them the Lord would reward them for their honesty.

Years rolled by and the boys decided to bring a suit to recover the money and interest, as found property, and suit was commenced. The case has been in the courts for some time, being thrown out on a technicality first, carried to the Supreme Court, new proceedings instituted and disagreement of trial jury following, until now just before the matter was to come up again, it is announced that the case has been settled outside of court by the payment of the sum of $6000 by Roberts & O'Neil to Danielson brothers, each side paying their own law expenses, which have been quite heavy.

Roberts & O'Neil is a wealthy firm of farmers of this valley, and of excellent general reputation, never having been accused on any more serious charge than that perhaps of squeezing the eagle on the dollar a little too tightly to make themselves popular. Their contention in defending the suit was that the can of money found, which they did not deny, held from $500 to $1000, they did not know exactly, instead of the $7000 claimed by the boys, and that is their property, the can having been buried under the chicken house for safe keeping by Mrs. Roberts.

It is said that the compromise was accepted by the defendants only out of deference to Mrs. Roberts, who is quite aged, and whose health was threatened by the strain which the trial of the case and the consequent publicity occasioned her.

A CHANGE OF OPINION.

And Percy Found the Indignant Young Lady Soon Ready to Retract.

"I'll have nothing more to do with him," declared one of the belles of Detroit, with a pout, according to that city's Free Press. "He's a perfect stick. The idea of him coming here regularly every week and then dropping off suddenly to come at long intervals, just when it suits him. I'll show him. Remember, mamma, if he calls I'm not in, and if he asks me to go any place I'll tell him that I have a previous engagement. I never did care a snap of my finger for him, anyhow," and there were tears in her eyes, just as an evidence of good faith.

"Never mind, dear," consoled the mother, who had been through the mill herself. "It's not worth worrying over."

"I'm not worrying, and don't you dare to think that I'm worrying, either. The best Percy will ever get from me is a cold bow of recognition when we happen to meet. As for our being friends any more, that is simply out of the question. There goes that telephone," and the mother could not help hearing the home end of the conversation.

"Oh, hello, Percy, I knew your voice. Have a cold, haven't you? That's too bad. This unseasonable weather has made so many people sick. Saturday night? Won't that be charming? Nothing could please me more. At eight o'clock I'll be ready. It's awfully kind of you. Good-by."

Then she whistled her own accompaniment to a waltz as she danced back to her mamma, who made innocent inquiry.

"Oh, that's Percy. Wants me to go to the theater Saturday night. How thoughtful, and what an old dear he is!"

A herd of wild Asian buffaloes will charge any foe, even a tiger, to save the life of one of their number who has been wounded.

Elephants, baboons and other animals will do the same thing in a wild state.

On the other hand, monkeys have been known to fall upon one of their number who is ill and drown him, possibly as an act of mercy. Similarly, wolves destroy one of the pack which becomes helpless.

If an otter is trapped his brother otters will run around him all night showing the utmost concern.

A writer in the London Spectator states that he has seen sparrows in groups discussing and lamenting when one of their number had fallen into a trap. Next day when a robin was caught the sparrows paid no attention.

He adds that he had seen a big pig try to help a smaller one through a hole in the fence piling by pulling at its head.

St. John tells of a Highland shepherd whose cat brought him some edible bird nearly every day in the year.

General News.

Even Dr. Oiser will hardly maintain that president Roosevelt has reached the zenith of his power and usefulness. In all probability he will be doing things many years hence.

According to the census, there are 140 female woodchoppers in the United States, but this does not include those who act in emergencies in connection with the rural woodpile.

It is clear that divorce could be made so easy that marriage would be nothing but legalized free love. Not one moment too soon has it been seen that the assorted divorce facilities in forty-five states form one of the gravest social dangers looming up in this country.

Nelson Moors, one of the proprietors of the shingle mill on the Cowlitz River, near the mouth of the river, lost his right hand. While attempting to clean out the splints under one of the knot saws his hand slipped and, coming in contact with the saw, was severed at the wrist.

The injury to winter wheat in the Palouse country is found to be light and only in a few scattered localities, where some peculiar condition permitted the grain to be injured by the cold weather of February. In many localities no injury whatever was done and the winter wheat is in fine condition.

A committee appointed by the last New York legislature to consider the economic value of good roads has submitted a report favoring an amendment to the constitution authorizing the issue of $50,000,000 in bonds for highway improvements and stating that good roads, in marketing farm crops alone, would save $9,000,000 in New York annually. That might be called a gilt-edged investment.

England, France and Germany are enlarging their naval programmes, and France is much excited by the discovery that Germany is gaining on it in naval strength. As a consequence the French chamber of deputies has taken up the subject of naval affairs vigorously. The two new battleships authorized by the present American Congress are a small item compared with what is going on in Europe.

The experiment tried by several of the larger oyster-growers of bringing Japanese oysters from the Orient and transplanting them in the beds of Willapa Harbor has not been so successful as to be encouraging. The distance the Jap oysters have to travel and the length of time they are on the way leaves them in very poor condition. However, those that survive the many handlings seem to thrive, though they do not as yet come up to the oysters brought from the Eastern states, either in size or flavor.

A school, or at least a special room for child wives may be established by the Chicago Board of Education as a result of investigation completed by the compulsory education department. A search made by Superintendent Bodine for wives of compulsory school age has disclosed the fact that more than a score of wives under the age of 14 are living in one Italian tenement district alone.

The investigation is also said to have proved the existence of a traffic in child wives between this country and Europe.

William Ferguson, employed in the logging camps of the Grand Ronde Lumber Company at Perry, was instantly killed by falling under the wheels of a passenger train just before it pulled out from La Grande station for Portland. His body was severed just above the hips, his right leg and left arm being terribly mangled, scattering fragments of his flesh along the track. Ferguson had been in La Grande celebrating with his friends and was on his return to Perry at the time of the accident. He was about 30 years of age and unmarried.

The whole Territory of Arizona is covered with water as a result of the heavy rains and snows and in many places the desert that has not known water for a decade is now a lake. At Silver City there has fallen 28 inches of rain during the last eight months, and rivers heretofore dry are now crossed by ferryboats. All records for moisture have been broken in that section. Railroads are demoralized, not only from washouts but from soft tracks, which will in many instances have to be rebuilt and relaid.

Much damage has been done to mining shafts.

A heavy wind and rain storm raged over California on Sunday, causing some crippling of telegraph and telephone service. Los Angeles and Southern California was entirely cut off from communication with San Francisco. The storm was general over the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys and will be of considerable benefit to agriculturists. The storm was the worst of the season. From early morning to late in the afternoon the ferry boats pitched and rolled in a manner that caused excitement to the passengers, and on some of the trips took aboard seas that flooded the lower decks. Many of the passengers became seasick; but almost without exception the boats made regular trips across the bay.

Farmers of Woodburn are being worked by a smooth scheme, by which they are induced to accept checks on an imaginary firm in Portland, the name of the firm being composed of three names of representative business men in that city. The checks are signed Everding, Thompson & Powell, and as the names are familiar in Portland business circles the farmers accept the checks as being good. The name of Everding especially is well known among the farmers, for Everding & Farrell is the name of a commission and produce house. There have been two of these checks sent to the Woodburn bank for collection, but on being forwarded to Portland they have returned with the statement that no such firm exists in Portland.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and cleanses the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.
