

IN A FRENZY OF RAGE.

Warsaw Jews Shot Down by Soldiers.

WARSAW, April 3.—Not since the Monday following "Bloody Sunday" at St. Petersburg has there been such a feeling of apprehension in this ancient city as exists this morning, and it is believed certain that before the day ends much blood will be shed.

One thousand Jewish Socialists assembled on Sunday before the main prison and demanded that the body of a Jewish labor leader who had died during the night be delivered to them.

Deadly Volley Fired. Hurry calls were sent out for troops and three regiments under the command of Brigadier General Sausanbeiz were hurried to the rescue of the prison guards.

Five fell dead at the first fire and then the mob retired, firing revolvers and cursing at the soldiers as they ran.

Call on Populace to Rebel. Following the riot hundreds of proclamations appeared at all of the public places in which the populace was urged to rise against the "tyrant government."

During the night five bombs were thrown, but so far as can be learned no damage was done. The police authorities have issued a warning to the populace to remain away from all of the government buildings and it is stated that the commanding officers of the soldiers have been warned to have their men shoot to kill, should any attempt be made to interfere with the large public buildings.

All of the guards have been doubled and it is considered certain that, following the next overt act, martial law will be proclaimed.

Dairy Squeeze Threatened.

There seems no way to get away from the combines, remarks the American Farmer, and then goes on to say that nothing can escape this rapacious and predatory product of our complex civilization. It has seized upon pretty much everything, and like the daughter of the horseleech, its cry is still for more.

From his investigations, Mrs. Hemmers must have made several trips from the house to the log behind which she burned herself. She had carried out a half-filled can of kerosene, a large quantity of magazines and papers, some of which were not consumed by the fire.

Now, here comes more trouble in the shape of the familiar octopus, or combine, whose sole business is to get its grip on things as to reap all the profits, or only dole out enough to keep the establishments alive and going.

SETS SELF AFIRE.

Awful Suicide of Wife of Farmer.

Mrs. Lena Charlotte Hemmers, aged 59, living at Orient, in East of Multnomah County, saturated herself with kerosene early Sunday morning and lured herself to death. She went out from her home in the middle of the night, when her husband was asleep and her stepson at a dance, and, building a bonfire in a cabbage patch, ignited her clothing from that and was dead for many hours before she was even missed.

She, with her second husband, Ott C. Hemmers, had been living on a farm near Orient, seven miles beyond Gresham, for 11 years, ever since they were married. Before that she had been deserted by her first husband in San Francisco and at that time had attempted to commit suicide at the Satio baths, and had been rescued.

Suffered With Melancholia.

For four years, since the time of a serious operation, she had been at times melancholy and at others suspicious, fearing harm for herself and for her kin, but she had never been sufficiently insane to be considered more than erratic. She was in the habit of leaving the house frequently and remaining away many hours without explanation, and that accounted for the length of time before her body was found.

Saturday evening, her stepson, Henry B. Hemmers, went away to a dance, and left his father and stepmother sitting reading before the fire. Some time before midnight the elder Hemmers went to bed, his wife saying that she would read for a little time longer, and appearing perfectly sane. Several hours later, Hemmers was awakened by the knocking of his son at the door and arose to let him in. He noticed at that time that the door to his wife's room was ajar, but thought nothing of it.

In the morning the two men found that Mrs. Hemmers had disappeared, but they were not distressed by that circumstance, thinking she had gone away in one of her periodical "queer" moods. They ate breakfast, washed the dishes and the son went away.

Finds Charred Body of Wife.

The old man stood in his doorway late in the morning, and, thinking of the young cabbages he had planted in a field several rods away, walked over to them with a pitchfork load of rubbish to spread over them. He came to a log by the field, and, throwing his load over it, stood aghast, for he looked upon the charred body of his wife.

He picked up her cloak, which lay unburned, and threw it over her, then rushed to the neighbors, who telephoned for Deputy Coroner A. L. Finley, who drove out there, and making careful investigations, decided that it was a case of suicide.

From his investigations, Mrs. Hemmers must have made several trips from the house to the log behind which she burned herself. She had carried out a half-filled can of kerosene, a large quantity of magazines and papers, some of which were not consumed by the fire.

There are evidently some very generous guzzlers of spirituous liquors in Seattle, unless Judge Carroll has made a mistake in his estimates. For the exclusive saloon privileges in the Queen City the Judge offers $5,000,000 for a ten years' franchise, and as bonus will throw in a city hall and a city hospital.

The irrigation projects in the arid west are being pushed on a vast scale and their completion means much to future generations. Millions of people will be able to secure farms at reasonable prices and the products from this redeemed land will in time add greatly to the wealth of the nation.

Japan and Russia have spent a billion dollars for one year of war, while millions of people in Asia are suffering from hunger and dying of the plague. All the other nations are going the same pace, with top-heavy military establishments.

Japan has surprised the world by its fighting qualities, and the diplomats are likely to find that its terms of peace will tend to insure the future safety of the island empire from the bear that walks like a man.

Japan has 853 technical schools, of which the government runs nine. In addition, many Japanese are sent to various foreign countries to study the latest forms of industry.

People who are disposed to think well of King Edward and Emperor William hope that their majesties are not laughing in their sleeves over the honest attempt to settle the old international difficulties in Venezuela by arbitration.

Responsibility.

Although there has never been a state religion in this grand republic, our future existence rests with the faith and virtue of the nation. The man who undertakes to reveal the will of God assumes the greatest responsibility.

We may loose both if we trust in men, for there are men who hold to the inspiration of the bible and also of the Pope who lead immoral lives. We must practice what we preach. The minister who practices abortion in his own home, or the priest who takes unwarranted liberties in his parish do more to destroy the faith and virtue of the nation than they could ever build up.

The Protestant church assumed the responsibility of keeping the faith and virtue of the nation. The church that I belonged to turned out a little girl for dancing at a private party while they retained an old hag in the church choir who boasted of her abortions.

It is the rebate devil that has caused most of the losses to shippers and ruin of numerous competing organizations in the internal trade of the country. If favors are extended to one and withheld from another in the same line of business, only ruin can possibly await the latter in the long run.

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption.
