

Cha Is A Smith Drowned.

ASTORIA, Or., April 6.—Charles A. Smith, who was employed as a sawfiler at the Bremner Logging Company's camp on Young's River, was drowned early this morning in the Columbia River off the city front. About 6:30 this morning S. E. Harris, manager of the company; George Ackerman and Smith boarded a small gasoline launch and started for the camp. Almos: immediately after leaving the wharf the engine broke down.

The current carried the launch against a coal barge that was lying alongside the American ship St. Nicholas. Harris and Ackerman jumped on board the barge, but Smith was evidently knocked overboard, as he was seen swimming some distance down the river. As he drifted past the lighthouse tender Heather, he hailed the vessel and shouted: "Throw me a line." First Officer Hamerstrom lowered a boat as quickly as possible and went to the rescue, but before Smith was reached he sank nearly a mile below where he fell overboard. The body has not been recovered and probably will not be for some days at least. The deceased was about 30 years of age, unmarried, and his only known relatives a sister living at Tillamook.

The drowned man was well and favorably known in this city and vicinity. He is a son of the late Allen N. Smith, of South Prairie, and a brother-in-law of Mr. John Sheets, and leaves a number of brothers and sisters to mourn his untimely death. Mr. Sheets has gone to Astoria, to take charge of the personal effects, and to make such arrangements as he can for the recovery and burial of the body.

Three young men, well known in these parts, while passing down the road one day last week past Clyde Christenson's house, shot out the windows and shot to pieces a number of glass jars. This crime should not go unpunished.

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Lees-ville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure." Similar cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c, and $1.00. Guaranteed by Chas. I. Clough, Drugist. Trial bottles free.

James Nicholson came in contact with a live wire carrying 54,000 volts of electricity at the Seattle Electric Company's substation, fell 20 feet from a roof on which he was working, and still lives. When he landed from the roof below his clothing was ablaze. Physicians say he may live, although one leg and both hands will probably have to be amputated.
