 What is the Pacific Navigation Company going to do with the parties who monkeyed with and appropriated to their own use freight which did not belong to them? There is only one thing for the company to do to put a stop to this monkeying with and stealing other people's freight, and that is to have the parties arrested. It is first up to the navigation company to see what it will do.

A Pretty Wedding
 A pretty wedding took place at high noon on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tinnerstet at Fairview, in this county, when their daughter, Miss Amanda Tinnerstet and Mr. Carl Haberlach were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. A. S. Foster, pastor of the Presbyterian church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and invited guests. The parlor had been nicely decorated, and when Mrs. C. A. Patzlaff was playing the wedding march the groom and the best man, Mr. Frank Haberlach, with the clergyman, marched into the room, after which the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, accompanied by her bride's maid, Miss Mary Tinnerstet, and little Miss Lelia Drew, who carried the wedding ring in a savor. The bridal party took their positions beneath a large ivy bell, when the clergyman impressively tied the knot which made the contracting parties husband and wife as showers of roses fell on them from the bell above. The bride looked sweet in a white silk wedding gown trimmed with lace, and with orange blossoms in her hair. Congratulations and best wishes were then in order, after which the guests were invited to a wedding feast, which reflected great credit upon the hostess. Later in the afternoon, amid showers of rice and old slippers, the happy couple started for Portland and the Sound to spend their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haberlach are both highly respected in the county by a large circle of friends, who join us in extending to them our congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tinnerstet, Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Tinnerstet, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Patzlaff, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Clough,

City Council Meeting.

A meeting of the city council was held on Monday evening, when the matter of paying the water company rent came up again, and on recommendation of Attorney Handley a resolution was adopted agreeing to pay $30 a month, and with the understanding that the water company do the best it can to keep up the pressure. The following letter, from Dr. May, caused some amusement:
 Baker City, Oregon, May 29, 1905.
 To the Hon. Common Council of Tillamook City, Tillamook Oregon.
 Dear Sirs:—Replying to your favor of the 15th inst. signed by Thomas Coates, City Recorder, wherein you say that it is the opinion of the Council that the pressure of our water system is utterly inadequate and without value to the City will say that the opinion of the Council is entirely wrong for the following reasons: The pressure in any gravity system can never change except from one of three causes.
 1st. A failure of the water supply, so that the pipes are not kept full of water at the head; as this has never happened in our system, the pressure has never changed from that cause.
 2nd. Lowering the head of the supply; since the head of supply in our plant has never been lowered, there could be no change of the pressure from that source.
 3rd. The escape of too much water from the mains thereby reducing the pressure.
 If the pressure has been reduced at times, by the escape of water in operating motors it has been done with your knowledge and consent, knowing that we had an agreement with the people who use motors that in the event of the ringing of the fire bell, all motors should instantly stop so there would be water pressure with which to fight fire according to contract.
 This matter has often been talked over with the members of the various Councils and none of them ever objected because they knew as well as ourselves that keeping the water fresh by operating the motors was more desirable than too much dead water in the mains.
 The water company is fully aware that on several occasions since we have been supplying the city with water, certain evil-minded persons have purposely opened several of the large hydrants in the suburbs and then gone down town on the streets and called the attention of members of the Council and citizens to the fact that water from a hose on the street showed a very low pressure. This trick has been responsible for practically all of the talk about a low pressure. We kept a water gauge on our mains all the time and know what the pressure is and are in a position to prove that our pressure at all times and is now kept up to the standard required in our franchise, excepting when the pressure has been purposely low, lowered by the criminal conduct of some of the citizens. The fact that some of your citizens have been stealing water for irrigating gardens is well known to us and they will be prosecuted for their conduct. Whatever may be your opinion about the pressure, the facts remain that we have always met the demands made on the water system and will continue to do so unless prevented by the wrongful acts of others for which we are not responsible.
 Respectfully yours,
 Tillamook Water Co.

General News.

If the people under a free form of government will not provide themselves with good government, they will fail to get it from any other source. Philadelphia illustrates the point.
 The farmers of Oklahoma and Kansas have given assurance to Secretary Shaw that in the event of financial distress coming to the government they will take care of the deficit.
 Mayor Weaver proceeds on the idea that he is mayor of Philadelphia and that his authority in the town is stronger than that of the bosses. It is a sound proposition, but needs sand—in Philadelphia.
 If the Democrats expect that President Roosevelt and Secretary Shaw will meet the treasury deficit by issuing bonds, they will be disappointed. Rather than do this, the President will resort to the extremity of selling his collection of bearskins.
 It is hard to realize that the Rojesteveny fleet that held the front of the stage for so many months no longer exists, and that it was wiped out in a single night. If all that the armada cost could be grouped, the footing would be stupendous.
 An American boat not only won the race across the Atlantic, but made the best time for a vessel of its class by nearly two days. Our merchant marine would lead the world if given the same encouragement that is bestowed on foreign shipping.
 Complete election returns of the Portland election give Dr. Harry Lane a plurality over George H. Williams of 1217 votes. Lane received 7587 votes, Williams 6370, Shrader, Socialist, 451, and Paget, Prohibition, 272. Lane also has a majority of 484.
 Though farmers in the aggregate employ more labor than any other branch of business, they escape the worry of strikes, as their labor is not unionized. This is something to be thankful for when they cast their eyes towards Chicago and other cities. The eight-hour day and the walking delegate have not as yet reached the farms, but there is no telling what may happen in these palmy days of the agitator.
 Lynching, as a national industry, seems on the wane. The mobs kill a victim here and there, but the decline in the crimes leads to hope that eventually the shocking form of barbarism may be stamped out. It is peculiar to the United States, no other civilized country seeming to find it necessary to abrogate law in the punishment of evil doers. Crimes against life constitute the most serious blot upon our national character, and no reform is so badly needed as the reviving of general respect for the majesty of the law.
 There is a fallacy in the argument which justifies big navies on the ground that they insure peace by warning other nations not to attack. But could not the same end be reached by a general agreement among nations to keep no warships at all. Then none could attack with these monsters, and, therefore, no nation would need them for defense. The same argument applies to armies. If abolished entirely all nations would be on an equal footing in this respect and the dangers of war reduced to a minimum.
 Rough estimates made of the Russian losses in the battle fought in the Sea of Japan, exclusive or nearly 4000 prisoners, vary from 7000 to 9000. It is feared that the majority perished. Calculating the complements of the sunken and captured ships at upwards of 10,000, 7000 remain unaccounted for. It is possible that the ships which escaped rescued some of the members of the crews of the less fortunate ships. Many bodies have been washed ashore on the islands and on the shores of the neighboring coast near the scene of the battle.
 The Russian Japanese war has furnished a new argument in favor of temperance. The Russians drink heavily and almost universally, besides indulging in other forms of immorality. This, of course, leads to demoralization and inefficiency. The Japanese, on the contrary, are a sober people, always clear-headed and fit to do their work in the best manner. In a contest between a sober and drunken army, no prophet is needed to foretell the victory. The Japanese have proven themselves far superior to the Russians in every respect, and in nothing more than in morals.
 Russian torpedo boats from Vladivostok captured the Japanese steamer Daishen, of 700 tons, off Hokkaido, and placed a prize crew of 13 men on board, with orders to take the vessel to port. By mistake the Russian commander of the Daishen headed for Gensan (Corea), and used a Japanese transport. The latter, seeing the Russian flag flying from the vessel, when the Japanese captives on board the steamer, on seeing their compatriots attacked the prize crew, recaptured the vessel, and eventually took her to Gensan. The Russian prize crew have been taken captives to Sasebo.

pany against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is another blow at discrimination on the part of common carriers. It also serves to call public attention to the methods of some of our railroad managers who object to government regulation of their business. There is more than one way of discriminating, and the gentlemen to whom God in His infinite wisdom has committed the transportation interests of the country, as Mr. Baer would say, sometimes show great fertility of resource in getting around the law, not to secure business for which some of them say rebates are often absolutely necessary in spite of the law, but to fill their own pockets at the expense of the public which they hold a trust to serve.
 Mr. Burbank, the wizard of the horticultural world, is experimenting on a vine which is to produce potatoes below ground and fruit above. This would seem to be the agricultural millennium when two different crops may be obtained on the same ground at the same time.
 The packers at Chicago have complained to the President concerning the treatment accorded them by the Grand Jury. They say they have been treated as if they were criminals, their private mail intercepted, their employes waylaid by detectives. It is disagreeable, no doubt, and probably lends to some injustice, but in the very nature of things the methods of grand juries are apt to lead to such results. The inquiry is of prime importance, not only to all producers and sellers of meat products, but to the general public as well, whose patronage as buyers and consumers of meat forms the basis of all prosperity in this department of agriculture. The prize object, of course, is to find out if trade is restrained and prices manipulated in defiance of law, and, if so, to stop all this so the industry may develop along natural and wholesome lines. Perhaps, after all, the packers are not so bad as painted and, if so, this will appear as the outcome of the drastic investigation.
 Cornelius Shea, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and leader in the strike which has existed in Chicago for the past two months, was arrested and taken to jail. With him on the journey from the saloon in which he was arrested to the office of the Sheriff and then to the jail was Hugh McGee, president of the Truck Drivers' Union. Both men were taken into custody on capias issued on indictments charging them with conspiracy, which were voted by the grand jury that adjourned last Saturday night.
 Emperor Nicholas' ukase virtually creating Governor-General Treppoff dictator has given rise to a mighty sensation. It is the imperial recognition of the crisis in the internal affairs of Russia and instinctively recalls the step taken by the Emperor's grandfather, Alexander II, immediately after the attempt to blow up the Winter palace in 1880, when he appointed a Commission of Public Safety headed by General Loris Melikoff, except that the position of General Treppoff will be more analogous to that occupied by Loris Melikoff when, later in the same year, he was appointed Minister of the Interior with full control of the police.
