Jeff Fleck had a jury trial on Monday before Justice Carl Haberlach, charged with using abusive and obscene language at a watering place at Ocean Park. He was found guilty, and the jury added this to the verdict: "We, the jury, recommend the defendant to the mercies of the court." The justice fined Fleck $10. *
A number of families from this city are camped at Netarts, consequently there are plenty of "grass widders" in the city, amongst whom is the editor. We ain't stuck on it much, for pumping the cows, making the butter, keeping bachelor's hall and running a print shop and newspaper almost single handed is no picnic. *
The steamer Sue H. Elmore sailed on Saturday with the following passengers: S. B. Morris and wife, A. Feuson, D. L. Hartsell, V. N. Ferry, Mr. Pangel and wife, H. L. Ralston, R. Livingston, P. C. Miller, F. Balmer, H. Goldstone, C. F. Taylor, W. Julian, F. Wheeler, Mrs. Carroll and daughter, Miss M. Grisson and Mrs. M. E. Fuller. *
H. S. Baker, a brother of the editor's, had a close call on Sunday at Netarts. He was out swimming in the channel, and a long way from shore, when he was mistaken for a seal by a young man who fired at him with his gun. The bullet missed the swimmer about twenty inches, striking the water in front of him. He had a like experience at Garibaldi a few years ago. *
County Clerk Lamb and his deputy, Miss K. Mills are still kept busy issuing fire permits and having a "hot time" with those who are kicking about the law, but after the county clerk arms them with a bunch of fire permits they go off feeling more satisfied. Some few persons are blaming the county court for the trouble they are put to, but it is not right to blame that body for the sins of the state legislature. Clerk Lamb has issued 3000 permits and is still doing a land office business, issuing them as promptly as possible. *
The hay crop is about over and is put away in good shape. Hay harvest was a little earlier than usual this year, and only one wet day at the commencement of the season interfered with hay making. Self-loaders were used by some farmers, and they were found very valuable and a great saving in labor, beside expediting the hay harvest, and where a side delivery rake is used, they proved very successful. If it had not been for these self-loaders labor would have been hard to obtain. No doubt, before another hay harvest, a number of other farmers will obtain these machines. *
Henry A. Ely has filed suit in the circuit court against C. Ben Riesland, the cause of action is that the defendant became indebted to Ely in the sum of $112.50, on account of moneys paid by plaintiff to defendant at Riesland's request, and by reason of false and fraudulent representations, and having obtained judgment against Riesland for the above amount, with costs and disbursements in the sum of $45. Ely now sues to set aside the deeds to certain property Riesland turned over to his wife, Queenie Riesland, who is made a party to this suit. Attorney H. T. Botts appears for Ely. *
