The Tillamook Headlight.

Fred C. Baker, Publisher.

Editorial Snap Shots.

We are just longing for one of those railroad promoters to "Make good."

It's too bad that the little democratic bosses can't run the republican nomination and cause another factional fight.

Tillamook County has the glad hand—not for the office seekers—but for the railroad company that means business and will get here first.

From our point of view it looks useless waste of effort on the part of the newspapers to induce home seekers to locate in this county as long as it is bottled up with democratic toll roads.

This is a question that every aspirant for county judge and commissioner must answer: Are you in favor of cutting the toll roads out entirely or releasing them? There is to be no proviso. Toll roads or no toll roads is the issue. Now which hand wagon are you in, for this monkeying with toll roads has too much moss backism to suit the Headlight.

Strange how newspapers will puncture a railroad proposition once in a while, but if the Oregonian had punctured the Portland, Nehalem & Tillamook Railroad Company and exposed the financial standing of the backers of that fake, as it did the Wiley project last week, it might have saved that journal a lot of space publishing hot air articles that the railroad would be completed by January 1904! The Oregonian has failed to "make good," but it wants the other fellows to.

Every aspirant for office in the primary election on the republican ticket will expect, if he gets the nomination, to get the party support at the election as well as that of the Headlight. That is a fair understanding. They should stick to it and not go off on a tantrum as some of the republicans have previously. "Do to others as you wish to be done by," is a good maxim for every republican aspirant and their backers in the coming election, and if this is followed there will be no factional strife amongst republicans. And there ought not to be, anyway.

Owing to the bond buyers refusing to buy $2,500 additional city bonds, the water commission has notified the bond buyers that it is unable to pay the interest on the bonds, for it hasn't the money to do so. The taxpayers have to foot the bill for a 5 mill tax levy for the water commission, which will amount to about $900; has a law suit on hand that will cost probably $1000; has to pay $870 per annum for water for fire protection; has to pay water rates for their homes; and it is now up to the bond buyers to force the payment of the interest. It begins to look as though Tillamook City has a white elephant on its hands.

"Why Tillamook County offers the Best Field for the Investor and Home-seeker," is what the Headlight man has been asked to write about and furnish an article of 2000 words for the Pacific Northwest, which will give Tillamook a page of literary matter in an edition that is to broom Oregon. We simply mention this to show that an editor is a free horse to some extent, yet loyal to his section of country, does a great many things gratuitously and which is a great benefit to the people and country, yet for all that we find some people who are so stingy and prejudiced they won't take the home newspaper if they can borrow the Headlight.

Quite a number of persons have asked the opinion of the editor as to the candidacy of certain persons for different offices. We have been plain with most of those who have interviewed us by telling them that it is free and open for all to participate who wish, and who ever it is that secures the nominations on the republican ticket, the defeated aspirants ought not to feel sore, but get in and work with as much vim as if they were on the ticket themselves. That has been the policy of the Headlight in the past, although when the candidates in the primary election are lined up it will be within our province to size up the merits and demerits of every aspirant, and if we find any amongst them whom we think has no backbone to enforce the law we shall say so.

As we view the situation, Mayor Botts and the city council will have to appoint a special policeman whom they can rely upon to enforce the law, and no matter what it may cost the city. It ought not to be any trouble in a little town like Tillamook to keep it decent and respectable so that people can reside and trade here without being molested. It is not for the want of peace officers that the laws are not enforced, for within the corporate limits of this two by four town there resides a sheriff, a deputy sheriff, a constable and a city marshal, who have all taken the oath of office that they will do their duty. Does anyone know where in either of these officials have done anything to enforce the law unless someone first swore out a complaint? There is no necessity for Tillamook City to pay out one cent for marshal's salary if the sheriff and constable would get out and arrest those who have been violating the law.

Some people say there is nothing for a railroad to haul when it does get to Tillamook. How ignorant and shortsighted to make such a statement. Put this away for future reference. Tributary to Tillamook and Nehalem Bays it is estimated there is 33,000,000,000 ft. of merchantable timber. Placing the stumpage as low as $1, this means the sum of $33,000,000. Cutting, logging, d.iving and rafting at $5 per M., is $165,000,000; sawing at $2 per M., $66,000,000; profit of $2 per M., $66,000,000; making a total of $330,000,000, to say nothing of the cost of transportation to the Middle West, which will be considerable more than the cost of the lumber after it is manufactured. It is not necessary for us to state how many freight cars or how many schooners it will take to move the lumber from this county, let those who don't believe there is business for a railroad figure it out so as to prove that they are barking up the wrong tree.

The demoralizing effect of the long period in the non enforcement of the law was again seen last week when some boys broke into a building and stole lead. It is remarkably strange, now that there is a strong demand for the enforcement of law, that the kid's are to be punished upon while the men who violate the law go free and have the protection of the peace officers. For instance, when W. P. Barker was running a blind pig on the Main street, and it was getting so raw, one of the officials, who was drawing a salary to enforce the law, went to Barker and told him that he had better quit, and taking the hint, he soon after packed up and left for other parts. Boys soon catch on when they know that men violate the law, and think they have the same right. This makes three boys already bound over to the grand jury, while the men who violate the law go free. Isn't this state of affairs rotten? And isn't it time the people get next and elected officials who will arrest the violators of the law and not allow them to get out of the county to avoid paying a fine?

Some men often place themselves in an awkward predicament, because they do not look far enough ahead politically. When nominations don't go to suit them they jump the fence and go over to the opposite party. When another election rolls round they are the first to get busy, aspire to this or that office, or start in to boost their friends, and it is amusing how enthusiastic they become along party lines as long as there is a prospect of getting a seat at the political pie counter. The Headlight has no political axe out for those who desert their party at a critical time, for the reputation obtained thereby is bound to stick to them, especially should they come up for office, for the party they went over to and helped out would soon noise this around with the aid of a newspaper. Republicans, if they take any pride in their party, ought not to be jumping the fence. As we have previously stated, the race for public office is open and free, and every body will be given an equal chance to secure the nomination. After that, there is only one thing to do, and that is to fall into line.

Walter L. Tooze, of Woodburn, who is an aspirant for congress, and a real live, wide-awake fellow, has this advantage over his competitors: Prof. Hawley is Salem's political machine candidate and was brought out by the political bosses, whereas Mr. Huston was the democratic partner at one time with the late T. B. Hadley, and only a few years since identified himself with the republican party. On the other hand Tooze has battled for republicanism ever since he took an active part in politics. Under these conditions it is not surprising that Tooze is the people's candidate, especially in the Coast Counties, for they know he is a hustler and a rustler, and when he goes to congress he will keep on punching away for harbor improvements until he succeeds in relieving the Coast Counties of their bottled up condition. Tooze is the kind of man Tillamook requires to go after the Board of Engineers who turned down the project to improve Tillamook bar because Tillamook was too near the Col. umbra river. It wants a man with Western grit to go after that Board of Knockers.

Oregon's senior senator has waged a determined conflict the past week in the Committee on Public Lands, of which he is a member, to have the proposed conditions after repeal of the timber and stone act, modified so that the land may be acquired by private individuals if it is thought to be more valuable for any other purpose than forestry. The natural effect of the proposed repeal and forbidding entry of timber land for homesteads, would be to place all of Oregon's timbered public domain not embraced within forest reserve withdraw als on practically the same footing as reserved areas. The committee was not disposed to allow the county in which timber grew, more than 10 per cent of the total derived from sales.

Senator Fulton's strongest effort was to have any timbered area thought to have greater value for any purpose than forestry, open to some form of private acquisition. He held that a vast proportion of Western Oregon being timbered, splendid land for agriculture, grazing, etc., might be kept under forest for years under proposed conditions. His figures presented showed the remarkably low revenue forest land yielded. While of Western Oregon's timbered area a relatively small amount remained public domain, the senator feared that much good land would be kept from development, and is striving to convince the committee of the peculiar conditions in his and other Pacific states, where timbered areas are sometimes the best lands when cleared. If he is unsuccessful in the committee, he will carry the fight to the Senate floor for a final struggle with the Eastern spirit which seems unable to appreciate Western conditions.

Lytle Making Progress.

In view of the apparent intention of the people of the section through which his road is to run to hold his competitors to the latter of their agreements, E. E. Lytle, of this city, the promoter of the Pacific Railway & Navigation Company which is now building into the Tillamook country, is not worrying.

"I have promised the people of the Tillamook country very little so far," he said yesterday. "I merely assured them that whenever I had settled upon my route I would tell them what they might expect. It is because, after months of work, my surveys are still uncompleted, that I have not yet definitely arranged for rights of way beyond Buxton.

"The people of Northwestern Oregon may rest assured, however, that I am going to build my road and will not ask any subsidies, either. Our road has been financed by the sale of $1,000,000 worth of bonds, and we have been at work out of Hillsboro since last November, a month after we incorporated.

"During January we made slow progress on account of bad weather, but we are pushing the work as fast as men and money can do it, and have eight miles of the roadbed graded and four miles of steel laid. We have 175 men at work, and if we have luck may complete the line within a year.

"We have two parties of surveyors in the field at the present time, seeking routes to the coast, and are not in a position to ask anybody for rights of way just now. When we are ready we shall appreciate some help in this direction, for we are not rich enough to throw away our money.

"But we are rich enough to build our own road, and we are not asking the people along the line to finance the proposition for us."—Oregonian.

"Bouncing Betty," the novelty two-step, by Carlton J. Balfour, the blind boy composer, is making a hit all over the country. It was recently published by J. W. Jenkins' Sons, of Kansas City. It is written in a lively march tempo, bright, fascinating, every strain a haunting bit of melody.—The publishers will mail a copy to any address, upon receipt of 23 cents in stamps.

Luckiest Man in Arkansas.
 "I'm the luckiest man in Arkansas," writes H. L. Stanley, of Bruno, "since the restoration of my wife's health after five years of continuous coughing and bleeding from the lungs; and I owe my good fortune to the world's greatest medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which I know from experience will cure consumption if taken in time. My wife improved with first bottle and twelve bottles completed the cure." Cures the worst coughs and colds or money refunded. At Chas. I. Clough, Druggist, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Common Colds are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases.
 Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the cause of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Every one knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung trouble are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take chances when you have a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other harmful drug and has thirty years of reputation back of it, gained by its cures under every condition. For sale at Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

Bids Wanted.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN.—That the County Court of Tillamook County, Oregon, will receive bids for furnishing all necessary materials and constructing a combination bridge, 180 foot span, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of the County Clerk, said bridge to be built at the Ludtke point on the South Nehalem River.

Bids are also wanted for the building of a 180 foot bridge at Cloverdale, Oregon, across the Big Nestucca River. Two bids are wanted on this last bridge, one for building a combination bridge, and one for building a Howe Truss. Plans and specifications for which can be seen on file in the County Clerk's office.

The Nehalem bridge is to rest on concrete piers, and the Nestucca bridge on wood piling. All bids must be sealed and filed with the County Clerk on or before March 7, 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m. The Court reserves the right to reject any or all bids. A duly certified check equal to 5 per cent of the bid must accompany all bids, as a guarantee that the bidder if awarded the contract will execute and file an approved bond within 15 days after awarding the contract, for faithful performance of the work.

By order of the County Court.
 Dated at Tillamook Oregon, this 15th day of January, 1906.

G. B. LAMB,
 County Clerk.

Cows for Sale.

Five first-class cows for sale, from $25 to $35 per head. See Ralph Ackley, opposite Jenkins' Jewelry Store.

Biliousness, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, disturbed sleep, nervousness, headache, giddiness and drowsiness, wind and pain or fullness of the stomach after meals, cold chills and flushings of heat, shortness of breath—these are the blank cheques of physical bankruptcy.

The man who suffers from these disorders and neglects them will soon be in the relentless grasp of some fatal disease. If he is naturally narrow chested and shallow lunged, it will probably be consumption; if his father or mother died of paralysis or some nervous trouble, it will probably be nervous exhaustion or prostration, or even insanity; if there is a taint in the family blood, it will be blood or skin disease; if he lives in a new or a low, swampy country, it will be malaria; if he lives a life of exposure, it may be rheumatism. There is one safe course for a man to follow who finds himself "out of sorts" and suffering from the symptoms described. It is to resort to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine makes the appetite keen, corrects all disorders of the digestion, renders assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood and builds firm, healthy flesh and nerve tissue. It cures almost all diseases that result from insufficient or improper nourishment of the brain and nerves. Bronchial, throat, and even lung affections, when not too far advanced, readily yield to it.

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little Pellet is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. E. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated but never equalled.
