The Ring Against Toozee.

In politics people ought to look around and see in what kind of company they find themselves. For instance, Candidate Walter Toozee, of Woodburn, is not supported by a single one of the old school land ring. If you want a congressman who is free from their domination, then support Toozee at the primary for congress.

For instance, not a single one of the old Salem political ring is supporting Toozee for congress.

If you want a congressman who is not easy game for that gang, who run this county in debt and disgrace, support Toozee for congress.

Show us a Marion county machine politician who has been indicted for land frauds, and we will show you a man fighting Toozee.

They want a man who is easy and no obstacle to ring rule, and who will make ring appointments, and do machine dictation.

The people who want a new deal and a clean deal should nominate the man the gunshoe brigade don't want, and they will get good results.

This is plain talk, but, so far as lies in the power of this little one-horse paper, the truth about candidates will be told.
 —Salem Journal.

Milking by Machinery.

Several months ago the new Burrell-Lawrence-Kennedy Cow Milking machines were installed in the Wauna Farm dairy of W. C. Spence at Portland, Ore. These machines are in daily use and have proved a complete success in every way. The cows take to the machines kindly, give their milk down readily and continue with their feeding during milking. The machines milk the cows quickly and dry and after they had been used a while the flow of milk seemed to increase over hand milking.

In Mr. Spence's dairy of 40 cows all the milking is now done by one man with two machines where formerly two men were employed for hand milking.

The principal value of the milking machines is their sanitary feature as the milk drawn through them is far cleaner than that drawn by hand being practically pure and will keep sweet from twice to three times as long.—Homestead.

For National Quarantine.

The widespread public interest which is felt in the subject of national control of quarantine regulations is shown in the large majority which the bill on that subject has just received in the House. There was some opposition from certain localities, but it was slight, and the bill received a popular sanction which proves that the lesson of New Orleans' yellow fever epidemic of 1905 has been remembered. A bill on the same general line had already passed the Senate, and an agreement in conference can no doubt quickly be reached.

Under the bill the national government will have a general supervision of quarantine work at the country's ports and along its land frontiers. State sovereignty sentiment is assailed by the bill, but state sovereignty in its old extreme phase has very few rights these days that anybody feels bound to respect. The section which clung longest and hardest to the old particularist idea was the section which took the lead in suggesting national quarantine. The movement, in the shape in which it has registered itself in the bills which have passed both branches of Congress this year, originated in New Orleans, but the support of nearly all the south was quickly won for it, except that Texas very unwisely offered a good deal of opposition to it.

Primarily and immediately the benefit through national quarantine will come to Louisiana, Mississippi and the rest of the gulf region. They are the states which are chiefly exposed to the pestilences which quarantine aim to shut out. But all the country has an interest in this legislation. While New Orleans was the greatest sufferer by yellow jack's visit last year, every big town in the Mississippi valley which had commercial or social dealings with that point was affected. The scare which it created throughout the entire south disturbed trade all over the United States. Sentimental and patriotic reasons are as strong as the strictly financial causes in inciting the establishment of a general system of quarantine control by the national government. In the consideration of great issues which affect the life and prosperity of any part of the country localities are abolished, and the entire American people speak with one voice.

THE FAVORITE.

Hon. John H. Aitkin, of Huntington, Looks Like the Winner.

PORTLAND, April 17th Special—As the press voices the sentiment of the people and the Republican press of the state sunning practically unanimous in their support of Hon. John H. Aitkin, of Huntington, for State Treasurer, it would seem, "to a man up a tree" that he is in the lead for the position.

It is conceded that Eastern Oregon will give their favorite a splendid vote, his friends and admirers in western Oregon are working hard and long for him, they admire his clean cut campaign, which is free from personalities and "mud-slinging," the people approve his straight forward sound platform and will show their approval of it by their votes.

In this city he has made a remarkable campaign. His supporters feel confident of success, as there is quite a sentiment to give the State Treasurer to Eastern Oregon, and Mr. Aitkin looks like the winner.

Turning Toward Bryan.

A drift of the Cleveland Democracy toward William J. Bryan is showing itself in different parts of the country. As compared with William R. Hearst, Mr. Bryan is believed to be a conservative. He is also believed to be the only man who would have a chance of defeating Mr. Hearst in the national convention of two years hence. A prominent New York Cleveland Democrat is reported as predicting that if the Democratic organization can be kept out of Hearst's hands until 1908, New York state will send a Bryan delegation to the national convention.

This would be a surprising change in popular sentiment in the Democratic party, but there are reasons for assuming that it is impending. Hearst is becoming almost as much of a terror to old-fashioned Clevelandites as Robespierre was to the French conservatives of a little over a century ago. He is a radical beyond any of the supporters of Bryan in the great radical outbreak of 1896. The ideas thrown into Bryan's platform of ten years ago, which sent hundreds of thousands of Democrats out of their party for the time, become commonplaces in political discussion. Free silver has been abolished by Republican victories and by Republican statutes, but the rest of the wild features of the 1896 platform are still available for exploitation, and some of them seem less dangerous than they looked to be then.

It is said that Belmont, Ryan, Delancey Nicoll, Gorman and others of the old-time conservatives are to get up a reception for Bryan when he lands in New York at the end of his tour around the world. Such an affair, which would have been inconceivable a few years ago, is part of the natural course of events now. Nobody seems to be surprised at the report of the rumored approaching rally of the conservatives on Bryan. The appearance of Cleveland as one of the speakers at the Bryan reception is not at all improbable. Confronted with this portent of Hearst all the moderates and the quasi-radicals are forced into the same camp. Not that Cleveland and his faction hate Bryan less, but Hearst more. Democratic politics has made some lightning changes in the past half a century, but a transformation is probably just ahead of us which will make all the metamorphoses from Douglas' and Breckinridge's days onward look tame.—Globe Democrat.

It is not often that the press criticizes the bench, but this is a criticism on the part of the Oregonian which is right to the point:

Five months in the County Jail was all the punishment imposed upon a young man from Astoria who went to Salem to procure girls for immoral purposes. Thus does the law fail to mete out justice. A man so utterly devoid of worthy purpose, depraved beyond hope of reformation and engaged in the degradation of others, has no useful place outside the work-shops of a prison. Admitting the nature of his occupation, he undertook his own defense, for the reason, let us hope, that no self-respecting lawyer would offer a word in his behalf. A scourge to the earth, a disgrace to humanity, an eternal enemy to virtue, he is fit only for such companionships as may be found among the denizens of hell.

An infuriated Norwegian living in Iowa has denaturalized himself, for the reason, as he claims, that this is no longer a free country. However, he will still have the privilege of paying taxes and complaining about taxation without representation.

This year the foreign trade of the United States will reach three billions. In 1870 it was one billion, and passed two billions in 1900. The growth of 50 per cent in six years is a remarkable record, and it was achieved under the Dingley law.

Five hundred Bohemians in Chicago are about to remove to irrigated tracts of land in New Mexico. The southwest is a land of promise with a glorious climate, and it is booming.

LONG PRAIRIE.

Messrs. Albert Olds and Isaac Wells freed, shot and killed a wild cat on A. W. Phelps' place last week.

Albert Olds has quit work at the Hobsonville mill and is again at home.

M. R. Hanenkraat states that they have struck a pocket of oil on his ranch.

Messrs. Chas. Wells (and dogs), Ed. Leach, Elmer Hoag, Henry Olds and Albert Phelps went bear hunting on the latter's place, one day this week on this prairie and killed a very large bear. Ed Leach sent the fatal bullet whizzing through the air, and therefore got the hide.

From the "Boom" of dynamite we may judge that J. F. Martin will soon have his whole ranch cleared of stumps. M. R. Hanenkraat was shearing sheep last week.

We are very sorry to report that Mrs. James Bibby is confined to her bed this week. Dr. Upton was called twice to administer to her wants.

Albert and Edith Olds went to their parent's ranch at Fairview and back Friday.

George Olds is working for Mr. John Sheets this week.

Miss Edith Olds is the possessor of a fine "wheel," not a wagon wheel either. A. W. Phelps is working for Thos. Bibby this week.

We are very sorry to learn that Mr. Jasper Buckles is confined to his bed. A. J. Barlick is working in Tillamook Lumber Co.'s mill.

Abe Cohn was a visitor on this prairie last week.

A small program was given at our school this week. County School Superintendent W. W. Wiley and wife attended. We are glad to note.

Joseph Blazier is clearing out his well and putting the "finishing touches" on his house this week. Joe and wife states that they like their new home fine.

Irrigation in the United States has become a tall subject. The dam under construction in the Shoshone canyon, northern Wyoming, is 310 feet high, and it was necessary to cut a road sixteen miles long in granite before the workmen could begin their labors in the canyon.

Caught Cold While Hunting a Burglar.

Mr. Wm. Thos. Lanorgan, provincial Constable at Chapleau, Ontario, says: "I caught a severe cold while hunting a burglar in the forest swamp last fall. Hearing of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I tried it, and after using two small bottles, I was completely cured." This remedy is intended especially for coughs and colds. It will loosen and relieve a severe cold in less time than by any other treatment and is a favorite wherever its superior excellence has become known. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.
