FOOLISH ATTACK ON DR. WITYCOMBE.

Democrats Try to Create Sentiment against Him Because He is Foreign Born.

The democratic newspapers throughout Oregon, finding they cannot attack Dr. Witycombe in regard to his republicanism, his public life, his private life, or as a law abiding citizen and a gentleman, have started in to ridicule him because he is foreign born. And to accomplish his defeat, the democrats are endeavoring to create a sentiment against him on that account. It is a foolish break on the part of the democrats and it will act as a boomerang. Dr. Witycombe had no more to do with the place of his birth than the thousands of farmers who came to Oregon from different countries and who are now engaged in farming and other pursuits that is making this a prosperous State. Take for instance the foreign born population of Tillamook and it must be admitted that they are a thrifty, hard-working class, but they had no say where they should be born any more than those who were born in this country had. Like the late Congressman Thos. Tongue, Dr. Witycombe is foreign born and from the same country, but that matters very little if they prove themselves, as these gentlemen did, that they were intelligent, respected and law abiding citizens. Dr. Witycombe has lived in Oregon 35 years and has always voted with the republican party, but to defeat him the democrats are doing their best, and this is one of the things they are making a great howl so as to elect Chamberlain. Foreign born citizens can see through it all and will be disposed to vote for Witycombe when they cast their vote next month.

DR. JAMES WITYCOMBE,

The Oregonian had an editorial on this attack upon Dr. Witycombe by the democrats, which is fair and to the point and worth repeating. This is what the Oregonian says:

The wits bunch of office-seekers who are trying to make Oregon a Democratic state blundered rather worse than usual when they assailed Mr. Witycombe because he is of foreign birth. The attempt to exclude citizens of foreign birth from political honor and preferment has been made once or twice in the course of the history of this country, with results which can hardly be encouraging to those who would repeat it. The "American Party" of 1852 lasted just long enough to insure the political ruin of every man that joined its ranks, and the more recent American Protective Association ended in a general scrimmage on the part of its members to see who could swear hardest that he had never belonged to it. Know-nothingism never has been a popular principal in the politics of this country, and it never will be so long as a large proportion of our most upright and capable public servants continue to come from among citizens of foreign birth. It makes little difference to the American voter where a candidate for office happens to have been born; but it makes a great difference what his character is and what the party that supports him stands for.

The great and patriotic State of Minnesota has two "foreigners" in Congress. One of them is Senator Knute Nelson, who was born in Norway; the other is Representative McCleary, who was born in Canada. Both these gentlemen stand high among our statesmen, and their records in Congress and elsewhere compare very favorably with those of a host of "natives" as Gorman and Aldrich, Senator Patterson, of Colorado, was born in Ireland; Congressman Campbell, of Kansas, was born in Nova Scotia, and Jenkins, of Wisconsin, in England. If the Democratic party has seriously begun the task of forcing out of public life all foreign-born citizens, we admire its audacity, but we cannot predict very brilliant success for it. Some of the very best political work of this generation in America has been done by foreigners. Mayor Weaver, of Philadelphia, is among those to whom the Democrats impute the terrible crime of having been born outside the limits of the United States; Carl Schurz, the great reforming statesman and thinker, is another guilty of the same offense. Mr. Witycombe was born in England in 1854 and passed his boyhood in his father's family in that country. His opponent, Mr. Chamberlain, was born the same year, but a few months earlier, in Mississippi, and passed his boyhood there. We do not reproach Mr. Chamberlain with the fact that in his early youth the state where he was born and resided was not a part of the United States. It was in rebellion against the Constitution and laws of the country, but this was not the Governor's fault. He could not help the treason of his friends and neighbors, any more than Mr. Witycombe could help the fact of his English birth.

That Mr. Chamberlain saw fit to leave the community in which he was born and come to Oregon is greatly to his credit. It is equally to Mr. Witycombe's credit that he did the same thing. Neither one of these gentlemen is in any way responsible for the accident of his birthplace, but both of them are responsible in a certain measure for the methods which are used in conducting the present political campaign. If Mr. Chamberlain's party resorts to un-American and dishonorable methods, he cannot escape his share of the blame for it. In view of the history of this country and the part which foreign-born citizens have taken in its development, it certainly is both un-American and dishonorable to attempt to prejudice the voters against a candidate on the ground that he happened to be born outside the boundaries of the United States.

Within two years after his arrival in Oregon Mr. Witycombe's father declared his intention of becoming an American citizen, and as soon as the law allowed he became fully naturalized. The present Republican candidate was then a minor, and he supposed, on good legal grounds, that his father's naturalization made him fully a citizen. He remained of this opinion for seventeen years, and during all that time voted and acted as an American citizen, and a good one, too. Among other good deeds, he voted the Republican ticket at every election. Can Mr. Chamberlain say as much for himself? After the expiration of seven years a doubt arose in Mr. Witycombe's mind whether his father's naturalization was sufficient to complete his own citizenship, and then, to remove all doubt, he went before Judge Deady and took the oath of allegiance. Where in this was this discreditable? What ground for reproach could any right-thinking man find in this? If he had allowed his citizenship to remain questionable, possibly he might have been blameworthy; but he did nothing of the kind. He proceeded promptly to place the matter beyond all doubt.

Party managers who are driven by the poverty of their resources to make use of such material as this foolish story against Mr. Witycombe are to be pitied. An ingenious campaign slander may sometimes be forgiven on account of the merriment it excites; but a tale that is stupid as well as false is unpardonable. Nobody expects a Democratic campaign leader to be moral, but we contend that he ought to show a certain degree of common sense. To attempt to impose upon the voters with such a tale as this about Mr. Witycombe's citizenship is neither moral nor sensible.

Selaticia Cured After Twenty Years of Torture.

For more than twenty years Mr. J. B. Massey, of 3322 Clinton St., Minneapolis, Minn., was tortured by sciatica. The pain and suffering which he endured during this time is beyond comprehension. Nothing gave him any permanent relief until he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One application of that liniment relieved the pain and made sleep and rest possible, and less than one bottle has effected a permanent cure. Mr. Massey relates his experience for the benefit of others who may be similarly afflicted. It troubled with sciatica or rheumatism why not try a 25-cent bottle of Pain Balm and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, also cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TACTICS DISGUST EVEN DEMOCRATS.

Cannot Stomach Campaign Slanders Against Dr. Witycombe.—P. H. D'Arcy in Revolt.

P. H. D'Arcy, of Salem, is one of the well-known Oregon Democrats who has no hesitancy in expressing his disgust for the methods that are being pursued by the Democratic campaign managers in their efforts to create a prejudice against the Republican nominee for Governor in the hope of winning votes for the Democratic candidate. D'Arcy will not countenance such procedure, and plainly says so. Though a life-long Democrat, he denounces the un-American methods that have been adopted and proclaims himself a supporter of Dr. James Witycombe, the Republican nominee. In a letter to The Oregonian, he says:

"As a citizen of Oregon, I cannot help but express in a public manner my extreme disgust at the cheap, peanut politics resorted to in the present campaign by those who are endeavoring to prevent the election of Dr. Witycombe. The only charge made against him is that he was born in England, as if such an incident should disqualify a person for the office of Governor. No other objection so far has been urged against Dr. Witycombe. He is acknowledged even by his political enemies to be honest, qualified and competent in every respect to discharge the duties of the office to which the people of this state have nominated him. His private life, character and public record are beyond reproach. He is a model gentleman in every particular. Coming to the State of Oregon as a boy of 17, through his indomitable courage and individual efforts, without the aid of adventitious circumstances in his favor, he has risen to a position to command the respect and confidence of the people of this state.

His Rise From Poverty.
 From a poor farmer boy, unaided by wealth or special advantages, he has obtained a standing in the affairs of this commonwealth that is highly gratifying to his many friends who knew him as a struggling young man amidst his neighbors in Washington County. What encouragement for the poor, hard working young men to think of the great possibilities there are in this country for him by following in the footsteps and observing the advancement made by Dr. Witycombe. The genius of our institutions is noticeable in the career and endeavor of Dr. Witycombe.

Do those who undertake to belittle Dr. Witycombe, because, forsooth, he was born in England realize that one of the ablest United States Senators Oregon ever had was Colonel E. D. Baker an Englishman born? He and Senator Nesmith stood by the Union. He was the peer of any native son. He was a brave and gallant soldier who gave his life in defense of our institutions in obedience to a spirit of loyalty to our Government that every sincere lover of liberty commends. When a bloody treason flourished over the land, Senator Baker, the Englishman, did not hesitate to do his duty. This same native-born Englishman on Saturday night, April 19, 1861, in Union Square, New York City, associated with such loyal American citizens as Daniel S. Dickinson, John A. Dix, Henry J. Raymond, the noted editor; the distinguished lawyer, James T. Brady, the son of an Irishman, and General Thomas Francis Meagher, native-born Irishman, made that eloquent and patriotic Union address which thrilled the North and showed what the spirit of the people would be when aroused to put down the rebellion which had been inaugurated without reason or cause.

Tongue Also an Englishman.

"Why condemn Dr. Witycombe for being an Englishman born, when one of our ablest Congressmen, Thomas H. Tongue, was an Englishman by birth?" "I have no patience with the A. P. A. spirit that would condemn and proscribe a man on account of his birthplace or his religion, if he is a worthy American citizen. I trust that no one will be misled by such nonsense. Such an appeal to the prejudices and passions of men should not be tolerated in a country like ours. It is the boast of our people that any person may aspire to the highest office in this state if he is worthy, no matter what may be his birthplace or his religion. Let us all maintain this principle intact and not be swayed from this course by the ignoble appeals which are being indulged in to defeat Dr. Witycombe.

Student and Philanthropist.

"Dr. Witycombe is a student in scientific pursuits; a person who has used every effort to have laws passed for the protection of poor, dumb animals; a philanthropic and genial gentleman with reserve, dignity and talent. He will be honest in the administration of the office of Governor; will not only be honorable himself, but will surround himself with able and competent assistants. Nothing dishonorable will occur during his administration.

"Believing it is for the best interests of the great State of Oregon, I shall vote for and labor to secure his election."
 "P. H. D'ARCY."

Rheumatism.

Why suffer from this painful malady when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm gives relief? Hundreds of grateful people testify to the magical power of this remedy over rheumatism. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

CLAIMS TOO MUCH.

Westgate Shows that it is the Republicans, not Chamberlain, who are Entitled to the Credit.

Chairman G. A. Westgate, of the Republican State Central Committee, does not propose to let the Democratic nominee for Governor go unchallenged, when he claims credit for which he is not entitled. He is willing to concede Governor Chamberlain credit for all he has done, but raises a protest when the Governor claims credit for legislation that was begun before he was inaugurated and before his first address to the Legislature had been delivered. How such measures could have been in any way due to the recommendations of Chamberlain, Mr. Westgate is unable to understand.

Chairman Westgate's Statement.
 In order that the people of Oregon may not be misled, Mr. Westgate felt it his duty to make a plain statement of facts concerning some of the claims Chamberlain has made, and he does so in the following language:

Governor Chamberlain advertises as a fact—an authorized and paid-for advertisement—that he "caused the Legislature to enact the corporation tax law and the inheritance tax law." This is the most brazen effrontery that was ever exhibited by a candidate for office.

First of all, these methods of raising revenue were recommended by Secretary of State Dunbar in his report to the Legislature of 1901, with a complete discussion of the plans and the results of similar legislation in other states.

Next, the corporation tax bill was prepared under Mr. Dunbar's direction and was introduced in the House by Mr. Eddy as House bill No. 2, on the day before the vote for Governor was canvassed or Chamberlain inaugurated. The inheritance tax law was introduced by Mr. Malarkey as House bill No. 41, also the day before Chamberlain was inaugurated and read his message.

In all the discussion of these bills and in their enactment into law, I have no recollection of Chamberlain having the slightest influence, or being considered.

Chamberlain claims credit for the loaning of the school funds. It is a well-known fact that this was made possible by the enactments of a Republican Legislature, which reduced the rate of interest so as to compete favorably with private loan funds, and also authorized the investment of the school money in bonds of stated kinds.

These are the two causes which made the loaning and investment of the funds possible, and at present there are over $300,000 covered by interest-bearing bonds. Aside from these considerations, Chamberlain is but a minority of the board which manages the school fund, and it is the height of arrogance for him to assume the credit of its record. Any man but a Democratic demagogue would be ashamed to make such a claim.

Republicans Provide Funds.

Chamberlain boasts of the great things he has done at the Penitentiary, but he fails to acknowledge that he was provided with funds to do it with by a generous Republican Legislature, the members of which recognized that the institution had been neglected too long on account of the perverseness of factionalism, which dictated the punishment of Governor Geer, by refusing to listen to his recommendations and make the necessary provision to put the buildings in condition. The Legislature of 1903 placed at Chamberlain's disposal sufficient money to not only put the buildings in shape, but to enable him to fit up the dwelling place of his appointees luxuriously. These things were done by a Republican Legislature, under the recommendation of Republican committee, yet our Democratic Governor takes credit for them. Chamberlain's administration of the Penitentiary has been the costliest in the history of the state by several thousand dollars. The figures are available.

Chamberlain takes credit for appointing Republicans to office. Let us analyze some appointments. He appointed Lawrence T. Harris to the new Judgeship in the Second District, but why? Was it for love of Republicans, or with a sense of dividing the honors with the opposite party? Not by any means. It was to save Judge J. W. Hamilton of that district. Hamilton is a Democratic judge in a Republican district, and if Chamberlain had added another Democrat there, they would both be wiped from the political map at the first opportunity; so to have an excuse for continuing Hamilton on the bench he named Harris (whom he knew would be the next judge by election in spite of him).

He points to the Textbook Commission, the members of which he reappointed, though nearly all Republicans. This act of Chamberlain's is unconsciously to him the highest compliment that could have been paid to his Republican predecessor, Mr. Geer. The fact is that Governor Geer appointed five men on that commission whom Chamberlain did not dare displace. He knew he could not improve upon them; he knew he could not pick from his own party five men who would take their place in public confidence; so in despair, and much to the chagrin of his insistent partisan constituents, he reappointed the Geer selections.
