What a mix up. We mean how people voted on Monday.

That election whiskey in the barn was a magnet to the thirsty souls.

N. J. Myers wants to know whether Sheriff Woolfe is going to lick him, too.

What have the saloon faction gained by "knifing" the republican candidates? They've got it in the neck again. That is all.

Sheriff Woolfe and Treasurer Todd at the election two years ago were elected by republican votes. This year it was democrats who flopped over who defeated them.

What have the republicans accomplished who participated in a fair, open and above board primary election and then would not stay with the ticket on election day?

Let every business man get into the Tillamook Development League's hand wagon and all pull together for the improvement and development of the city and county.

The election is over and a thing of the past for another two years, and with it we hope is buried the bad feelings the candidates and their friends had against one another.

Say, those two kid politicians getting in and beating two office holders whom most everybody thought for a time could not be whipped. Anyway, how did it all happen?

When told that he was elected, Henry Crenshaw exclaimed, "Well, I deserve it." Probably he did, for he worked like a Trojan to get it and in the face of big odds against him.

The Headlight man has nothing to feel sorry for or ashamed of for staying with the direct primary candidates on the republican ticket, and for voting a straight ticket from top to bottom.

Rollie W. Watson has a sick auto in the south end of the county and another sick auto in the north end of the county. If that isn't enough to make a man sick who is stuck on autos, we don't think another sick auto could make him feel much worse.

Our esteemed friend, Bro. Chase, who wanted to preside over a "Non-partisan" judiciary, with a few democratic attorneys to pull his tail, did not succeed very good as an "Independent" fish, all alone and like a little tadpole in the Pacific Ocean. Poor little "Independent."

The leaders of the old saloon, rule or ruin faction, got together one day last week and decided to "knife" several of the republican candidates—and they did so. Republicans will not forget this, for by "knifing" the republican candidates the saloon advocates make it that much harder to get republicans to change their votes in favor of saloons.

H. F. Goodspeed, Geo. B. Lamb and F. L. Sappington, by the look of the vote on Monday, must have got into some kind of a combination to capture the entire vote. That was hogwash, gentlemen, to do that, and tough on the other fellows who can't see now that there is any glory in getting on a democratic ticket.

The editor was informed on Monday to keep his eye peeled, for Sheriff Woolfe had made a threat that he was going to lick the editor if he was defeated. We haven't got the spanking yet. And it is probably wise on Woolfe's part that he did not start in, for several big, lusty democrats have volunteered to take the job off our hands and the spanking as well. A man who attempts to lick the Press had better count the cost.

What have the democratic bosses and the paid attorneys in this city got to show for turning the democratic mule into the same barn with the liquor interests? Speak out, gentlemen. Will it be a firey, thirsty serpent, with a mule's ears and tail, to send to the wholesale and retail liquor dealers' association, as a result of the political prostitution in Tillamook?

Eight counties have gone "dry," and they include Sherman, Lane, Linn, Benton, Yamhill, Tillamook, Coos and Wal-lowa, and probably Malheur, and with numerous precincts in other counties. The "rottenness" of the saloon system in Astoria is the cause of part of that town going "dry," and it is where the breweries are situated where local option carried.

It has been said by some who were aspirants in the primary election that Baker controlled 400 votes and that people voted the way the Headlight wanted them to cast their ballots. This may or may not be true, but we will not now attempt to argue the point with office seekers and the politicians who have backed up against the Headlight. If anyone ought to know, they did, after going through the mill.

Should Sheriff-elect Crenshaw ever put in a bill and take extra pay for making a few arrests in the justice court when occasion requires, we will criticize him just as readily as we did Sheriff Woolfe. We do not anticipate anything of the kind, for the taxpayers can rest assured of this, that Crenshaw will not spend a dollar of the taxpayers' money extravagantly and will make every dollar count as if it were his own money he was spending.

Local option from a business point of view should not be overlooked. This is a criterion of the conclusions most of the business men have come to after 17 months' experience with a "dry" county: Alex. McNair & Co.—Local option has increased our cash sales 20 per cent. 1st, Makes bills easier to collect; 2nd, Reduces long standing accounts; 3rd, Several accounts paid that were considered very doubtful.

D. T. Edmunds—I think that the effect of local option commercially has been good, especially in increasing the number of cash sales.

The election of Henry Crenshaw to the office of sheriff is a big victory for law and order, considering that the saloon faction and a number of disappointed office seekers and their friends were lined up against him, who figured that if Crenshaw was beaten it would give them a chance to get the nomination two years hence. As the peace officer of the county, the people have elected him to enforce the law, regardless as to who it is that violates it. For a young man he has assumed a responsible position, and as such should not allow his reputation to be called into question by a loose administration. All that the people ask of Crenshaw is to do his duty, without fear or favor.

We wish it to be distinctly understood that neither of the officers-elect have any strings on them, neither do we want any, for we prefer to be free and independent to criticize public officials, no matter whether they are republicans or democrats. That is a line of action we pursued in the past and intend to pursue in the future. We criticized Judge Sappington's administration, who was a republican, and Judge Conder's administration, not because we delighted to do so or had any personal feelings against them, but because they had done things which were not to the interest of the taxpayers and it was proper and legitimate that the Headlight should criticize them and other county officials who had laid themselves open to public criticism.

There is one candidate who did not get a "square deal," and we want to say a good word for him, even if he is a democrat. James Christensen was the candidate on the democratic ticket for county commissioner, and a good, honest and square fellow, even if he is somewhat brunt and outspoken in his conversation. He was ignored by the democratic ringsters in this city who think they own the democratic party, soul and body, in this county. They turned him down, did not want him in the democratic or in Woolfe's hand wagon, for it was well known that the democratic ring traded him off in the interest of Woolfe, and in consequence, so we are informed, there is an undercurrent of bad feeling between the democratic brethren that is sure to crop up again in future campaigns. So it is plain to everybody that Christensen did not get a square deal at the hands of the democratic ring, but was sacrificed upon the political altar in the effort to elect Woolfe. Trading by democrats was fatal to the democratic ticket.

After every county election there are those who make it a point to jump onto the Headlight. Not that we feel very guilty of doing anything very wrong. We gave every republican aspirant in the primary election a square deal, and directly the republicans nominated their ticket we pitched in and worked for the candidates, regardless as to who had been nominated, and voted a straight party vote because we had taken part in the direct primary and we felt in honor bound to stay with it. Probably we are a terrible bad man for acting thus and deserve a severe drubbing by those who helped nominate a republican ticket and then wouldn't stay with it. But, on the other hand, had the Headlight gone back on any of the candidates, what a howl there would have been. However, the Headlight is a factor in politics, and we suppose will have to be the scapegoat again for being loyal to the republican party, for that is the only and most grievous sin that we have committed. Will the republican brothers who scratched their tickets please pray for us, for we are such a miserable sinner, and general all-around bad man for staying with the ticket which the republicans nominated.

Local option has again carried and the county will remain "dry" for two more years. It was well to let well enough alone, for it is admitted that the local option law has been instrumental in bringing about a better condition in Tillamook county. This may be a great disappointment to some people, but it is a fact, nevertheless. Considering there was not nearly as strong an organization against the saloons as in the previous election, and for that reason some persons thought that the county would go "wet," it is plain that a large number of voters have not forgotten their experience and losses in the wide open saloons and gambling joints, and to prevent a repetition of that disgraceful state of affairs, voted for local option the second time. Tillamook City has again lost the revenue of two or three saloons, but the city itself is to blame, for it took the saloon keepers' money and then allowed them to run wild in open violation of law. Had the city authorities enforced the saloon and gambling laws years ago Tillamook county would not have gone "dry," and when the city paid a marshal $45 a month to protect the saloons and gamblers and the county paid the sheriff and his deputy $2,200 a year to enforce the law and they would not do their sworn duty, it is not surprising to us in the least that the county has gone "dry," for, with these facts before the voters and the knowledge that some who are opposed to local option have "ginned" up a number of "soaks" and turned them loose on the streets so as to bring the local option law into disrepute and ridicule. It looks to us, that before the people of the county will vote "wet" again, they need some kind of assurance that the law must be respected by the saloon keepers and enforced by the city and county officials, for voters who have been fleeced and robbed in this city by those who want to get back into the saloon business felt satisfied that that state of affairs would continue if they voted for saloons again.

The Very Best Remedy for Bowel Trouble. Mr. M. F. Burroughs, an old and well-known resident of Bluffton, Ind., says: "I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as the very best remedy for bowel trouble. I make this statement after having used the remedy in my family for several years and never without it." For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

Minnesota Guide says: "What becomes of the vast sums of money paid out by the fraternal—more than $50,000,000 each year? Does it go into the hands of those who are already rich? Does it go to form these great combinations of capital which conduct business on such a stupendous scale? Does it go to the millionaire, the banker, the broker? No, it goes to buy meat and bread. It goes to pay house rent or to lift the mortgage from some happy but humble home. It goes to purchase bright smiles, happy faces and bright hearts. It goes to lighten the burden of the worn and weary. It goes to make better men and women. Every dollar so paid is a religious dollar, and goes to help christianize the land, to smooth the rough places, to dry the tear of sorrow and to eradicate the larrows of care."

Deadly Serpent Bites are as common in India as are stomach and liver disorders with us. For the latter however there is a sure remedy: Electric Bitters; the great restorative medicine, of which S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "They restored my wife to perfect health, after years of suffering with dyspepsia and a chronically torpid liver." Electric Bitters cure chills and fever, malaria, biliousness, lame back, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. Sold on guarantee by Chas. I. Clough, druggist, Price 50c.

How to Break Up a Cold. It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. To do this, however, prompt action is necessary. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's cough remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two.
