Utilization of Fire-Killed Timber

Although it has been known for a number of years that fire killed timber has a considerable value in mining and railroad operations in Colorado, it has been brought out only recently by the Forest Service that a wide number of uses are open for this timber, and that in certain respects it has actual advantages over green wood.

These facts are deduced from a study of conditions on the Pikes Peak Forest Reserve, where the ravages of fire have been particularly widespread and destructive. In many instances the burned timber is the only kind available at a particular point, for example, in proximity to a mine or a spur of railroad, so for timbers and ties the dead material has been used for many years—fifteen years at Palmer Lake, seven years at Florissant for railroad ties, and longer than this for mine timbers. Three years ago it was first used for box boards and has proved excellent. In May, 1905, there was a sale for telephone poles.

The species used are red fir, yellow pine, lodgepole pine, limber pine, range pine, pinon, Engelmann spruce, and blue spruce. Of these, the pines, red fir, and Engelmann spruce furnish the bulk of the material. Time elapsed since burning seems to make no great difference in the value of the wood, except that when serious checking results in loss its value for box purposes. The timber used has been burned all the way from three to fifty-five years.

The amount of this timber which has been used is very considerable. There has been one sale from the reserve for box boards and one for telephone poles, but the three main uses continue to be for mine timbers, railroad ties, and firewood.

Red fir is preferred for railroad ties, then yellow pine, limber pine, and range pine. White pine has been objected to because of its lack of durability, but it is now taken in many places. At Rosemont, Colo., burned timber of all kinds is made into ties, some of the material having been burned fifty years ago. It is asserted that dry ties last as long as green ties and in many cases longer. On the Cripple Creek "short line" they were more satisfactory than green pine ties from Texas. Dry ties hold a spike well, and a tie plate does not cut into the wood so seriously as it does in the case of a green tie. Engelmann spruce is as good as other species as far as mechanical wear is concerned, but it decays much quicker and so should be given a preservative treatment.

Burned timber was first used for boxes by the Denver Crate and Box Company in February, 1903, the species used being Engelmann spruce and lodgepole pine, with some red fir and limber pine. The material used has been burned from one and one-half to four years. The Engelmann spruce was excellent, and the lodgepole pine also gave good results. The fire seasoning had driven the odor out of the pine so that it could be used for packing crackers and biscuits. Also, on account of the perfect seasoning the boxes remained tight when put up and therefore sold better than green boxes.

For mine timber all species are used, if of the required size. Dry timber is preferred because of its lightness, durability, and stiffness, all principally due to its better seasoning. For many purposes fire-killed timber should be preferred to green timber because it is so well seasoned. This seasoning makes it more durable than green timber, and also makes it lighter, so that its cost of transportation is appreciably less, and it is therefore available, not only for numerous local uses, but for shipping long distances. Actual experience with the fire-killed timber proves that its utilization should be a source of profit to the reserve.

Aristocracy Advocated in America

There is a large class of women, and a smaller one of men, who are eagerly devoting themselves to the establishment in America of an hereditary aristocracy based on land and lineage. These people find a frank exponent in a writer in the North American Review for May, who under the head of Scions of Aristocracy in America, endeavoring to make us all happy, in the assurance that so many of us actually have in our veins the blood of English monarchs, dukes, earls and other noblemen, that there is a chance of a drop or two redeeming almost every one of us from utter plebeianism. That is, unless, alas! it is already indubitably known that our grandfathers were of the plain people. The said writer evidently yearns for the return of the day when class distinctions shall again be recognized here, as they were once in the colonies; when "gentlemen" shall again be recorded as such and be addressed as "Esquire"; when by the aid of coat of arms and other devices of heraldry, the sheep of aristocracy may be readily distinguished from the goats of untitled descent; when "American descendants of noble British houses can prove their lineage" and by showing "the requisite number of quarterings," secure admission "to equal social rank with their titled foreign husbands"; and when some Lord Palatine, like Lord Baltimore, in each state, shall "bestow titles and parcel lands into manors after a feudal custom."

Such advocacy of a social separation based on lineage—with the always accompanying claim of superior privilege—is only less dangerous to the ideals of American Republic than the attempt to create an aristocracy based on landed possessions and wealth. Both pave the way—not for the peaceful "social revolution" anticipated by the Review writer, which shall re-establish castes, so that the aristocracies of Europe and America may be united in "feeling of kinship and affection"—but for a vindictive Socialism. The prophylactic against both Aristocracy and Socialism is the breaking up of all "baronial estates" and the multiplication of small farms or "home-crofts," each owned by its independent occupant, strong in his own manhood and calling no man "lord" or superior—Ex.

An Unwise Meat Packer.

Not all of the meat packers are as sane as J. Ogden Armour. Here is a member of the guild, Nelson Morris, who makes an elaborate assault on the President and Congress for the recent meat inspection act. He declares that "the investigation of the packing companies ordered by the government will injure the country more than the San Francisco fire." For the investigation he laid the blame on the President.

All of this shows that Mr. Morris is far astray. When Mr. Armour returned from Europe, just after the adjournment of Congress, he said that while the meat exposures were injuring his business for the moment, they would help it in the end. In this he had sense on his side. The exposures have attracted the world's attention, but they have also led to exposures abroad, and these have shown that the worst abuses which enter into interstate or foreign commerce, moreover, this will lead to examinations whereby states and municipalities will take a hand in the work of correcting and averting all abuses in the meat packing and food preparing interest. Mr. Morris overlooks the most important aspect of the whole affair. The other day President Roosevelt telegraphed to Ambassador Whitelaw Reid in London to assure the doubters of the British federation of grocers that "under the new law we can and will guarantee the fitness in all respects of tinned meats bearing the government stamp." As Mr. Morris will find out before he is many months older, this government O. K. will send the purchases of all sorts of meat products up to figures never touched before.—Globe Democrat.

The life-saving service has received a report of the resuscitation of Robert Mooney near Wakefield, R. I., after he had been under water for twenty-three minutes. The man had been thrown into the water on July 4 by the capsizing of a boat. In the operation one gallon of water was expelled from his lungs. An artificial respiration was kept up for one hour and forty-eight minutes before the first signs of returning consciousness appeared. The patient did not recover complete consciousness until the next day.

The body of Mrs. Mary Fay, who died at New York at the age of 105 years, was found to be in so unusual a state of preservation that the coroner's physician called in other doctors to observe the case. They were amazed to find the body like that of a healthy woman of 30, and inquiry brought out the fact that the old lady had lived for forty years almost exclusively upon a diet of dry bread and milk, refusing meat or vegetables altogether. The doctors are wondering if this corroborates to some extent the theory of Prof. Metchnikoff, of Paris, that the ferment germs of sour milk are deadly enemies to the putrefactive germs of the stomach and intestines.

Dr. William J. Patterson, of Denver, Colo., who was an expert in criminology and a university graduate, has been arrested for issuing a fraudulent $20 check and is now in the city jail, a physical and mental wreck. Dr. Patterson says that his only excuse is that his long study of crime developed the criminal instinct within himself. "I'm a living example," he says, "of a man with criminal instincts highly developed. I could not be straight if I wanted to, and would delraud people at times when I did not need the money and had no possible reason for taking it. Nearly all men who are convicted of crimes are criminals by nature, and their nature will come out in any environment, whereas, if a man is naturally right his environment is not going to make any difference." Dr. Patterson had previously been committed for forgery. He has wealthy parents and a wife and two children.

A New Hampshire paper says the candidacy of Winston Churchill for governor suggests that he was "the owner of a defunct newspaper and is a licensed liquor dealer owning a hotel." The charge that he is also the writer of story books is mercifully suspended.

Notice.

Are You Tired, Nervous and Sleepless?

Nervousness and sleeplessness are usually due to the fact that the nerves are not fed on properly nourishing food; they are starved nerves. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood, and thereby the nerves are properly nourished and all the organs of the body are run as smoothly as machinery which runs on oil. In this way you feel clean, strong and strenuous—you are toned up and invigorated, and you are good for a whole lot of physical or mental work. Best of all, the strength and increase in vitality and health are lasting. The trouble with most tonics and medicines which have a large, booming sale for a short time, is that they are largely composed of alcohol holding the drugs in solution. This alcohol shrinks up the red blood corpuscles and in the long run greatly injures the system. One may feel exhilarated and better for the time being, yet in the end weakened and with vitality gone. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains no alcohol. Every bottle of it bears upon its wrapper the Badge of Honor and with it all its several ingredients. For the druggist to offer you something he claims is "just as good" is to insult your intelligence. Every ingredient entering into the world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery" has the unanimous approval and endorsement of the leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice. No other medicine sold through druggists for like purposes has any such endorsement. The "Discovery" not only produces all the good effects to be obtained from the use of Golden Seal root in all stomach, liver and bowel troubles, as in dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, ulceration of stomach and bowels and kindred ailments, but the Golden Seal root used in its compound is greatly enhanced in its curative action by other ingredients such as Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure triple-refined glycerine.

"The Common Sense Medical Adviser," is sent free in paper covers on receipt of 21 cent stamp to mail the cost of mailing only. For 31 stamps the cloth-bound volume will be sent. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Great Peppermint Cure constipation, biliousness and headache.
