D. T. EDMUNDS,

Tillamook Produce Company MEAT MARKET.

We have fitted up a market to handle all kinds of Fresh and Salt Meats, Fish and Game in Season.

We would like the patronage of the people of the city and county, and we will do our best to please our customers.

D. B. DEETER, Manager.

While at the Fair have your eyes looked after. It will cost you nothing to see if they are all right. Remember I guarantee my work to give absolute satisfaction.—Dr. HENRY E. MORRIS.

I. C. Bewley has Timber, Farm and Tide Lands to sell; also all kinds of Bay City property on easy terms. Houses to rent. Agent for the Farmers' Mutual Fire Relief Association, Portland, Ore.

P. Butts was arrested on Friday charged with larceny of a horse belonging to Arthur Holden which he picked up on the road and then commenced working it. Justice White bound him over to the Circuit Court.

The Pacific Regalia Co. has contributed three handsome badges for the Fair, one for the best dairy exhibit, one for the best butter exhibit and one for the best cheese exhibit, which are on exhibit in the window of Haltom's Department Store.

The landau, which is to be used by the Queen of the Carnival, was received by Mr. Snuffer on Monday. It is loaned by the Studebaker Company, and is the same carriage used by President Roosevelt when he was in Portland and Seattle when he visited those cities.

Clough's Concentrated Orange Cider mixed with water and sweetened to taste makes a delicious, refreshing and healthful drink. It sells for 50c. a pint, which is enough to make five gallons of "Orange Cider" ready to drink. Try a bottle at Clough's drug store.

Mrs. Chester Holden, since her return from Netarts, has been finding the effects of an accident while camping, her hammock breaking, let her fall, her spine striking a log. Mrs. Holden did not find anything of it at the time, but since her return it has caused her considerable pain.

Sheriff Crenshaw has returned from serving papers on the toll road people. The toll gate on the Wilson river was thrown open and the sheriff had it locked back. The toll gate in Washington county was torn out and John McNamer had the parties arrested and the case was to have come up on Wednesday.

Mr. C. A. Stewart, commercial agent of the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad, came in on Tuesday, and is in to assure the people of Tillamook that Mr. Hammond will extend his road into this county in the near future, and that the survey parties will soon locate the route, for it is not known yet whether the inside or beach route will be decided upon.

As soon as they were notified that they were wanted in this city, and without the sheriff having to go out and arrest them, J. F. Reher, William Ryan, Will Hadley, Earl Stanley and Ernest Beitz, the Wilson river settlers who were indicted for destroying the toll gate to town and appeared before Justice White, who bound them over to the Circuit Court, allowing them to go without putting up bonds. As the Wilson river settlers are indignant on account of the arrests, they have already commenced to retaliate, as papers have already been prepared to enjoin John McNamer from collecting toll on the illegal contract he claims he obtained from Claude Thayer. Not only do the settlers propose to fight along that line, but the federal authorities have been advised that John McNamer is fencing in government land, which, it seems, cannot be done, if those who claim to know are to be relied upon. If that is the case it will put out of business the toll roads in the south part of the county as well.

An injunction suit was filed in the circuit court on Tuesday in which J. F. Reher is the plaintiff and the Wilson River Road Company, a corporation, I. H. McNamer and Wesley Rush are defendants, who are enjoined from collecting toll on the Wilson river road, and each of them, their servants, agents, attorneys, employees, or either of them, from erecting or maintaining any toll gate or fence, or other obstruction of any nature whatsoever or across said county road or from demanding or receiving tolls from any of the persons traveling upon or along said road, and that they be restrained from in any way interfering with travel upon said road by erecting, maintaining or allowing by their authority any obstruction to be placed or kept thereon, and that plaintiff have his costs and disbursements and such other and further relief as the court may seem equitable and just. Attorney H. T. Botts is for the plaintiff.

In Great Demand.
The demand for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy here has been so great that I have scarcely been able to keep it in stock. It has cured cases of dysentery here when all other remedies failed.—FRANK JONES, Pikeville, Ind. This remedy is for sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

Emerging From Bondage.

Oregonian.
The light of Tillamook has been hidden under a bushel for many years, not through any fault of the enterprising people of that rich region laying over on the coast, but because the people of the outside world have been too busy in cultivation of trade territory nearer at hand, or at least easier of access. But, with all other portions of the state experiencing a growth greater than was ever known before, it would be unreasonable to expect Tillamook to stand still. In order to demonstrate that it is moving, Tillamook is arranging for a county fair which will enable it to display its varied resources to good advantage. So far as transportation facilities are concerned, Tillamook is only a little better off than it was when Vancouver and Gray were in the coasting trade in the North Pacific; but, despite the handicap that has rested on that line region for so many years, the port has grown and the tributary country has developed even more rapidly than some points in the state which are better provided with transportation facilities.

The very isolation of Tillamook has perhaps to a degree been to her advantage in laying the foundation for a future business in keeping with the greatness of its resources. The Willamette Valley farms, with an easy access to market by river and rail, continued for years to cultivate large areas of land for the exclusive production of wheat, the net returns per acre being small, so small that, when a light crop and poor yield came simultaneously, the effect was ruinous. It was impossible for the Tillamook farmers to ship wheat to market, even had they been disposed to grow it and as a result they turned their attention to dairying long before the Willamette Valley farmers discovered its advantages.

An acre of land in Tillamook would not be worth $20 for wheatgrowing under existing transportation conditions but for producing succulent food for well-bred cows it is worth more today than the best wheat land in the Willamette Valley, and, as soon as better transportation facilities are provided, it will still further increase in value. Dairying is the industry that has made Tillamook famous, but it is not the only resource of that rich region. The timber wealth of the country is of vast proportions, and, unlike the logged-off lands of some other locality in the Pacific Northwest, the soil is so rich that the land, even when denuded of its timber, is of great value.

With actual construction well under way on Mr. Lytle's road to Tillamook and surveyors for the Hammond road in the field, it is almost a certainty that Tillamook's first county fair will be the last that it will hold before visitors from the outside world will have an opportunity to visit it without the long trip by wagon or horseback over the mountain or by the diminutive tug which now supplies means of communication with water. There is a bright future in store for Tillamook's nearest coast neighbor, and its first exhibition of the natural resources of the county will be of material benefit in bringing these resources to the notice of the people who do not now appreciate their variety or extent.

The End of the World of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Ia., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of General Debility." Sure cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, Blood diseases, Headache, Dizziness and Weakness or bodily decline. Price 50c. Guaranteed by Chas. I. Clough, Drug Store.
