A Description of the Pen.

The pen is solid gold, 14-k fine, the stock of which is made of the best quality of hard rubber and fitted in four parts; the pen points are perfectly fitted with iridium and the feed is guaranteed to flow evenly, without leaking or blotting. The pens are beautifully chased as will be shown in cut next week.

"A Fountain Pen is a Necessity of the Twentieth Century."

The Egyptians used a split reed; our grandfathers a goosequill; our fathers a steel or ordinary gold pen. But to-day we want that dispenses with the inconvenient ink stand, that does not corrode, and that is always ready for use. Bears the manufacturer's guarantee that the pen is solid GOLD 14-k fine. If it does not prove satisfactory in every way the manufacturer will exchange it for another.

This is an unusual opportunity to secure, Free, a Splendid Fountain Pen direct from the maker, the 25c. being for postage, etc.

The Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Samuel Elmore and the Elmore Packing Company, a corporation, defendants, is a condemnation suit filed in the circuit court, in which H. T. Botts and G. C. Fulton are the attorneys for the railroad company.

Astoria & Columbia Railroad Co., plaintiff, vs. Peter Byrom and Bengtha Byrom, defendants, in a condemnation suit filed in the circuit court on Wednesday. H. T. Botts and G. C. Fulton are the attorneys for the company. The Pacific Railway & Navigation Co. had previously filed condemnation suits against Mr. and Mrs. Byrom for the same land.

$4,000 will buy you the most desirable home in Tillamook county. Situated within 1/2 mile of the rail road depot, a fine house worth $800.00 and a large barn well painted, 42 acres of land all in cultivation. If you hear of this place selling for $12,000 next year when boom is on, don't blame me for not giving you the hunch, for it is up to you now for the next ten days, after which my option will run out and the price raised.—RALPH ACKLEY.

The body of Glen Cooper, the Salem youth who was drowned in the Estella Falls on Oct. 14th was found yesterday in the deep hole just below the falls by relatives of the drowned boy. The body has been in the water nearly three weeks and when taken out was found to be in a state of decomposition. As the roads would not permit fast travel the body was buried at Dolph instead of taking it out to Salem. However, the parents of Cooper may have his remains taken to Salem when the roads and weather are in better condition.—Courier.

Samuel Elmore is the possessor of a big ranch on the Trask river at the head of Tillamook Bay, and only last year, under the abnormal pressure of things down that way, and the utter lack of all prospect for a revival, offered the place for $10,000. During the past few days he has peremptorily refused $25,000 for the same property. This goes to show how things are looking up in that favored section, and what the assurance of a coming railway means to a community. The A. & C. extension will run right along and possibly across Mr. Elmore's place, and this has something to do with the accelerated price now appertaining to it.—Astorian.

Circuit Court Docket.

The November term of the circuit court will convene on Monday, with Judge Burnett on the bench. The cases of some importance are the four Alderman cases which have been pending for a long time and the Wilson River Road cases. Unless something unforeseen happens, the criminal cases will be few and of a trivial nature, the most important being that of the perjurer case, which ought to show up the method of defeating the ends of justice in this city by getting witnesses to swear falsely in cases to protect those who have been in the habit of violating the law.

Had a Close Call.

"A dangerous surgical operation, involving the removal of a malignant ulcer, as large as my hand, from my daughter's hip, was prevented by the application of Bucklen's Arnica Salvo," says A. C. Strickel, of Mileus, W. Va. "Persistent use of the Salvo completely cured it." Cures Cuts, Burns and Injuries, 25c. at Chas. I. Clough, Druggist.

If a cow of any herd is not doing her best as a dairy cow, it is in entire accord with experience to so change her food and care as to bring her up to her best, but when we get that cow to her best there is no known method of feeding or care that will make her any better.

Care must be taken to not feed heavily before or after calving for a few days. Wait with the heavy feed until all danger of milk fever or too much inflammation in the udder is gone. It usually is all right to begin to feed a cow reasonably heavy four or five days after calving; this will have to be left to the judgment of the owner of the cow. After this time the feed should be kept at a maximum until her milk yield begins to diminish, gradually lessening the feed until she dries off previous to her next calving.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

There is no danger from blood poisoning resulting from a cut or wound of any kind, when Chamberlain's Pain Balm is used. It is an antiseptic dressing and should be in every household. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

P. F. BROWNE, Salesman.

Cows seem to be naturally mischievous. They are inquisitive, prying around, seeking what they can find. This leads them over the fences, and through the fences into the neighbors' fields. This is one of the strongest arguments for good fences and plenty of feed in their pasture.
The building up of a dairy herd begins with the selection of individuals for the foundation, and the order should be, first, selection; second, care, i.e., feed, shelter, water, treatment, etc.; third, testing, sorting and weeding out; fourth, breeding; fifth, feeding, handling and developing calves and heifers.
