Timber Cruiser Assaults W. W. Curtiss.

W. W. Curtiss, president of the Curtiss Lumber company, was knocked down in the lobby of the Perkins hotel at Portland on Saturday afternoon by a timber cruiser from Wisconsin giving his name A. J. Andrews.

At the time of the assault the lobby was crowded and Andrews was hustled out of the hotel by witnesses who held him until he was given into the custody of the police.

Mr. Curtiss was standing in the lobby talking to some friends when Andrews approached and spoke to him. Curtiss replied that he did not know him.

"So you do not know the man who use to work for you?" Andrews demanded.

"You never did any work for me," Curtiss replied with an accent on the word work. At this Andrews struck the aged man a stunning blow in the face, felling him to the floor as though he had been hit by a piledriver. As Curtiss attempted to arise Andrews struck at him again, but was seized by the bystanders and put out of the hotel. Curtiss was assisted into the washroom where his bruised face was dressed and he then went to the police station and entered complaint against his assailant.

Immediately after the assault Andrews stated that Curtiss had "done him dirt" while his employer several years ago. He also alleged that he thought Curtiss had reached toward his hip pocket just before he was knocked down.

Andrews is a large man weighing over 200 pounds. He is about middle aged while Curtiss is over 60 and much lighter.

Andrews was held under $40 cash bail at the station while Curtiss was required to deposit $25 to insure his appearance on Monday morning to prosecute the case against the prisoner.

The Sense of Repentance.

TO THE EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.

We are taught that we have five senses, a fool has no more, while a person might loose all of them except feeling and be rational. Many a time I have watched a raving maniac who could see, hear, smell, taste and feel to some extent, but he could not come to repentance, the one sense a fool never had. God repented.

Whenever anything occurs that displeases us there is a sense of reflection, but a man may harden his heart until he can go to the gallows without showing any remorse; that sense of repentance is at our will, and is either developed or destroyed.

Just so sure as a man is more than a beast, or that there is any world beyond, the sense of repentance is of the utmost importance. We sympathise for the blind, deef and dumb, etc. We provide schools of learning that no one should remain in ignorance, but what do we do toward developing the sense of repentance. God demands repentance, not something just as good, there is no substitute, nor does a good suggestion fill the bill.

The sense of repentance is as natural as the sense of learning to read; to learn to read we go to those who already know how so it is with repentance, it is best to associate with people who have experienced it. Yet if we rely on others to bring us to repentance, we would get left, for while it is the will of God that all men should repent, he leaves us to our own deliberation. The sense of repentance does not come to us as a punishment, there is nothing fearful about repentance. Repentance is one of the attributes of a God and of a perfect man.

To lack the sense of repentance is to lack all that there is spiritual in a man. It is the first step to the liberty of conscience and moral responsibility.

Croup.

A reliable medicine and one that should always be kept in the home for immediate use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will prevent the attack if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

Dairy Dots.

John Gould says six pounds of grain per day with roughage is enough for any cow. All feed above this is wasted.

Not over 30 per cent. of the milk produced in this country is made into butter, the other 70 per cent. being sold or used for family consumption.

Reports to the Farm Stock Journal indicate that the milking machine is a success and is coming into practical use on leading business dairy farms.

Howard Gould has imported half a dozen of the finest cows he could find in England. The animals are now at Mr. Gould's Long Island estate, Sandy Point.

Experiments made in Germany show that butter keeps best if mixed with 3 to 5 per cent. of salt. If the percentage of salt is over 6, the result is less satisfactory.

The careless, improper and indifferent methods of handling dairy products are being rapidly relegated to the past. Bottled pure, fresh milk properly prepared and sterilized is now readily attainable for the diet of the infant and invalid.

It is found by experience that a cow in a small herd will give a greater quantity of milk than the same cow in a large herd. This is doubtless due to the fact that in small herds each cow is given more individual attention than is possible when the herd is large.

A new method of treatment for calf scours is discussed in bulletin 122 of the south Carolina experiment station. The treatment consists of feeding the calves with milk to which formalin has been added in the proportion of one part of the drug to 4,000 parts of milk.

Prof. O. F Huziker says: "Keep the dirt out of milk. In my business, and especially in dairying, cleanliness is a virtue which is closely associated with the financial, domestic and social success and happiness. The absence of cleanliness furnishes us with the missing link that lowers man to the level of the beast. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, sixteen to one, of course."

A learned scientific authority who urges the use of milk more generally, gives the ratio of the value of a quart of pure, whole milk in digestible nutrients, as follows: Equivalent to nutrition in 1 pound beef chuck; 1 pound fowl; 1 pound veal shoulder; ½ pound mutton leg; 9 ounces beef round; 9 ounces veal cutlets; in 2 pounds 5 ounces solid oysters; 2 pounds 5 ounces bluefish.

In a recent report it was stated that there are in the United States, thirty States that are prominently engaged in dairying. In these States there are over 320,000 exclusively dairy farms, and in round numbers four million other farms on which there is some dairying done. Besides these there are about seventy five thousand exclusively dairy farms in other States, and about one million five hundred thousand farms on which more or less dairying is being done. The same reports asserts that there are fully 40,000,000 people in the United States who are consumers of dairy products and who do not produce any, depending solely upon the markets for their supplies.

In Time of Peace.

In the first months of the Russia-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have singled their roofs in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.
