When will Rollie quit shooting off his Little Billy about the Headlight man?

Who said that local option was going to kill and then bury Tillamook City? It always was a busy business town and business has been getting better right along, and even the croakers have to admit this now, much to the amusement of the anti-saloon leaguers.

Be thankful today that you live in Tillamook, a land of milk and honey, with prosperity and happy homes in every direction, and in a county with a bright future before, with no cyclones, no blizzards, no earthquakes, no droughts, no crop failures, no poverty.

Eugene city officials are not onto their job and can't be looking after the city's treasury, for what a land office business they might have done had they passed an ordinance making the fine $500 for selling tanglefoot intoxicants. Perhaps they will get next soon and not allow the county to gather in all the fines.

It cost Hearst $250,000 in his effort to be elected governor of New York, and if he had put up another quarter of a million of hoolie he might have bribed a sufficient number of persons to have been elected. Hearst is in the hoolie class, but how his supporters have been beefing about buying office. Hughes, the republican candidate, spent $600 and was elected.

Persons who went to Alberta, Canada, from this country seem to have made a mistake, for this appears to be the general tone of the letters they write: "There are several of us that have made a mistake in coming up here to settle on the Canadian free land, and we will return to the States soon, and having always wanted to visit the Tillamook country, I send to you for papers so as to show some of my friends what you have there and the kind of a country you possess."

There ought not to be any factional fight in the present city election, for it is the sense of the citizens, no matter who may become the officials, that city affairs be run in the interest of the city and not in behalf of some few persons. It is no doubt true that the old saloon and gambling faction would like to get back to the saddle again, but the citizens and property owners will make a mistake if they do so. This is no time, anyway, to parley with law breakers, but it is a time to pull together and to induce people with money, men who want to engage in manufacture, to locate here. Whoever is elected, all the citizens want is the enforcement of the law, and no law abiding citizen ought to object to that.

There are a few croakers and knockers in Tillamook who can't see for the life of them what the county wants with a railroad, and to them it looks like the height of absurdity to talk of building two railroads. These persons have lived in Tillamook a long while, and strange to relate they can't find any better place for a lazy man to make a living, hence their remaining here. In their spare moments they will take a pencil and paper and figure out how much money and how many men it is going to take to log over forty billion feet of standing timber and how many freight cars it will take to haul the lumber when manufacture, it will surprise them so much that they will realize what mosbacs they are when they cannot even see the need of one railroad.

We can say this without any fear of contradiction that this will be the banner year in the history of Tillamook for the amount of cheese manufactured and for the highest average price for butter fat for the year, which will amount to a little over 27c. per pound. Like previous years, there is a spirit of thrifty contentment in Tillamook, with no grumbling to be heard anywhere, for the dairymen are doing well and receiving their checks every month with due regularity. Other parts of Oregon have their seasons of prosperity and depression, but here in Tillamook, or since the advent of dairying, prosperity appears to be a thing that is perpetual in this county. And as this is Thanksgiving day, let us all take off our hats to Old Bossy and be thankful that she is doing her best in this country of green meadows and prosperity.

What's the matter with the attorneys anyway? District Attorney Manning and Attorney McGinn were up for contempt of court in Portland and Judge Sears imposed a fine of $25 upon the latter and increased it to $150 when the attorney became a little more sassy to the judge. Over in Hillboro Attorney Tongue accused Attorney Bump of indulging in "shyster" tactics. Bump lost his temper and calling Tongue a liar, struck at him across the table. Tongue dodged the blow by good footwork and seized a chair, with this he walloped Bump, flooring him, and then jumped onto his prostrate foe and was decorating his features with Marquis of Queensberry frescoes, when the belligerents were pulled apart. Justice Bagley sent Bump to jail for three days for contempt, on the ground that he was the aggressor, but young Tom Tongue escaped with a reprimand.

The Lane County papers are boasting how they knocked each other out in bidding on publishing the delinquent tax sale. As the bids ranged from one cent a line downward, and the successful bidder is to do the work for one fifth of a cent a line, it would look as if they had knocked themselves out. It is a case where the winner will be loser. Pretty cheap work, boys.—Polk County Observer.

It is no wonder that country editors have to keep their nose on the grind stone when they under bid one another and take work at a figure which will not pay for the composition. No other business can afford to do this, for it is a losing game, and probably that is the reason so many editors keep on bellyaching about paying up whenever a subscriber owes them a dollar. It takes money to run a newspaper, but no editor gained any reputation or money either doing work for next to nothing.

The saloon keepers at Eugene after Lane county went "dry" opened up "soft" drink counters, and dispensed the "hard" drinks in the back or side rooms, but about the same way "hard" drinks have been doled out to the thirsty souls in Tillamook City. This is only another proof that saloon keepers are violators of the law and are doing more to increase the sentiment favoring local option than fifty anti-saloon leagues could do in two years. It is evident that the voters are not going to be bulldozed by those who will persistently violate the law, hence the spread of local option in Oregon and the closing up of saloons in Oregon, which will continue to spread as long as the saloon keepers violate the law and are doing more to increase the sentiment favoring local option than fifty anti-saloon leagues could do in two years.

Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than of All Others Put Together.

The following letter from a locality where Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is well known shows by the unprecedented demand for it that the medicine sells on its own merit. Mr. Thos. George, a merchant at Mt. Elgin, Ontario, says: "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell as much of it as I do of all other lines I have on my shelves put together. Of the many dozens sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I can personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and given it to my children and always with the best results." For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

The Railroad Situation.

The Oregon Journal prints an article on the railroad situation in Tillamook, which is a re-ash of some of the conditions now existing. It says: "To permit extensions of the Pacific Railway & Navigation company's line along the coast that company has filed supplementary articles of incorporation with the Multnomah county clerk and in other counties where the company is bound by such legal requirements. The right is acquired to build and operate a line from Buxton to Tillamook; a branch from a convenient point on that line to a point at or near Nehalem bay; a line from Newport, in Lincoln county to Astoria.

A lively contest is on between the forces of the Astoria and Columbia River railroad and the Harriman interests for possession of rights of way along the coast. Both roads have begun condemnation proceedings for possession of ground between Seaside and Bay City. It is believed that the Hill interests are lined up behind the Astoria & Columbia River road and that the contest in Clatsop and Tillamook counties is a continuation of the battle between the two great rival railroads powers in the Columbia river basin. It would surprise no one who has been closely observing the maneuvers of the railroad powers to find that the Hill people are also back of the Oregon Coast & Eastern, which is projecting a line from Portland to Tillamook and south to Coos Bay, and east to a connection with the Oregon Trunk Line, in central Oregon. This company's operations antedate all the other roads in Tillamook county. It has made and filed surveys for a line from Tillamook north through Bay City and around Garibaldi point, a huge rock that juts out against the sea and around which there is room for but one railroad right of way. It is said that when the other railroad builders reach this point they will have to reckon with the Wilsey road and that there will very likely be an other struggle as interesting as that at Cape Horn between the Hill and Harriman interests.

The railroads that are being projected along the coast traverse some of the most interesting and wealthy sections of the state. It predicted that at Garibaldi and Netarts there will be established in the future years some of the most popular sea beach resorts on the Pacific coast. The beaches are beautiful and every condition favors development of summer resorts which would be the closest beach to Portland. There is another beach about six miles in length opposite Bay City. South of Nehalem the beach stretches about nine miles, of beautiful white sand, well sheltered from the winds. Bay City is at the head of deep water navigation in Tillamook Bay. The people of Tillamook county allege that Tillamook bay is the best ocean harbor between the mouth of the Columbia and San Francisco. They say the channel runs straight over the bar, and has a depth of 18 feet at low tide and that with a comparatively small amount of money spent for improvements the channel could be deepened to 25 or 30 feet. Tillamook bay is about four by seven miles in size, nearly landlocked, and is the largest Oregon bay."

In Time of Peace.
In the first months of the Russia-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have singled their roofs in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

HITS OF EXPERT SHOTS.

A French Rifleman Who Can Give Buffalo Bill Points in Shooting.

A great deal of attention has been paid of recent years to exhibition revolver and rifle shooting, and the favor with which really expert shots meet has greatly increased the number of extraordinary feats which can now be performed with revolvers and rifles. "Buffalo Bill" was one of the finest shots ever seen in this country, although exhibition marksmanship has greatly improved since Col. Cody last visited England. One of his most wonderful feats was not generally performed in public, for the reason that its failure or success could not be discerned at any great distance. It consisted in driving into a white board five short, flat-headed tacks with five consecutive shots from a distance just short enough to allow of the tacks to be accurately sighted.

Not only was "Buffalo Bill's" aim marvelously accurate, but it was extraordinarily quick. Given a repeater, he would stand or sit on his famous white horse and break five clay "pigeons" sent up simultaneously before they had time to get more than a couple of feet on the fall course.

But M. Bordeverry, a Frenchman, would probably give Col. Cody points and an easy beating. His accuracy and rapidity of aim are simply astonishing. At a distance of 30 feet he can cut a piece of cardboard through the edge as it is poised upon the head of an assistant. At a similar distance, leaning himself flat on his back over the seat of a chair, with a pistol in his hand, he can send spinning a three-penny piece which rests, half hidden, upon his assistant's head. He will knock the ash off your cigar at a distance of 30 feet or light your waxvesta for you, if you care to hold it. At ten yards he can cut a swinging thread, and at the same distance with successive shots he will knock off three small trifles balanced one upon the other upon the head of his assistant. And to demonstrate his rapid sight he will hit 11 distinct bull's-eyes in seven seconds.

Revolver shooting is generally considered to be infinitely more difficult than rifle firing, and there are certainly fewer expert revolver than rifle shots. But among the most wonderful wielders of the "shooting iron" is an American gentleman, a Mr. Stephens, with whom, however, the fascinating practice is only a pastime.

A very effective feat Mr. Stephens performs privately consists of standing six lighted candles upon a bench, retracting about 40 feet, and putting out one candle after another with the contents of his six-chambered revolver. On one occasion the same gentleman, standing under a cherry tree with a revolver in each hand, cut the stones out of eight cherries in 11 seconds. Of the two unsuccessful shots fired, one only grazed the cherry it was aimed at and the other was lost in mystery. But the feat was a very wonderful one, especially for an amateur shot.—Chicago Journal.
