INSTITUTE FINISHES WORK.

Most Successful Gathering Ever Held in County—Increase Teachers' Salaries.

The four days session of the teacher's institute came to an end Saturday afternoon. This marked the close of the most successful gathering of teachers ever held in this county, and every teacher goes back to his or her school feeling the benefit derived from the instruction given and the interchange of ideas. Their earnestness and enthusiasm were the features that marked the proceedings.

Early in the session, a committee on resolutions was appointed, consisting of S. B. Holt, of Nehalem, Miss Frances L. French, of Bay City, and Mr. V. B. Goin, of Hebo, and with the adoption of their report the meeting came to an end. The following is the full text of the resolutions adopted:

- Resolved:
1. That, we the teachers of Tillamook County, thank the instructors of this institute for their valuable help and suggestions.
  2. That, in order to avoid the overcrowding of the curriculum of the rural schools, we recommend the establishment of union high schools throughout the county.
  3. That, we recommend the movement which has for its end the increase of teacher's salaries, to meet the increasing demands made upon us by the responsibility and work necessary for efficient service.
  4. That, we endorse Supt. Ackerman's proposed measure to increase the county school levy to eight dollars per capita.
  5. That, this institute commends the work of County Supt. Wiley and endorses his efforts for the upbuilding of the Tillamook County Public Schools.
  6. That, the thanks of the members of this institute are hereby tendered also the ladies who rendered the solos during the sessions.

Those in Attendance.

Every teacher in the county was in attendance at the institute, excepting five. Of these five, two were teaching in joint districts, and had attended institute in other counties. Those attending were:

FAIRVIEW.

Dame rumor has it that the patrons of Fairview Creamery are going to try and buy the cheese factory, or if Mr Agen will not sell, they will proceed to build one so as to have it ready for the spring.

Frank Bester is trying to make a contract with the weather clerk for nice weather long enough to paint his house. Frank, by the way, why don't you consult Plaindealer's almanac?

If some of the boys don't be careful how they try to run over girls when they are on horse back, and especially after dark, they may have to.

Mable Edmunds and Elsie Lamb visited Eran Ross a couple of days last week and attended the Fairview Sunday school.

There is a certain party that surely needs to be looked after in this neighborhood by the county judge and a physician, if they are still here. I heard they started to walk over the Forest Grove road as they imagined the sheriff and other parties were going to take the little boy from them. Just imagine a woman starting to walk that road without enough to keep her warm.

There was a very quiet marriage ceremony performed in this vicinity last Thursday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Edith Olds and Mr. Isaac Wells, only the immediate relatives being present.

Fairview Sunday school gave a very nice program Saturday evening and all went along very nicely.

Henry Kunze is building some nice driveways around his barn and other places that is much better than driving in mud.

Iran and Jesse Donaldson and Eran Ross attended the party in Todd's Hall, Tuesday night.

Henry Thune, the meat cutter for Mr. Deeter, was in Fairview Sunday visiting old friends.

We are all wondering when that little bridge is going to be built between Henry Kunze's and John Morgan's. The lumber is there.

Mr. Hodgdon was at his Netarts ranch last week and reports the roads a fright.

I was glad to note the card of Dr. Ross in your paper, as I used to know him when he had little golden curls swinging around his neck and shoulders. He was about five years of age the last time I saw him. I wish him success in his profession.

Comic Post Cards.

In colors, they are all the rage now, send them to your friends, catchy subjects, 12 different, 27 cents prepaid. Send 25 cents coin and 2 cent stamp. Order today and get in the swim.—Rickerall Post Card Co., P. O. Box 53, Rickerall, Polk Co., Oregon.

Croup.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Chas. I. Clough's Drug Store.

Editorial Snap Shots.

We wish the people of Tillamook, one and all, a Merry Christmas.

Don't show how easy and how green you are by cashing checks which every Tom, Dick or Harry who comes along may present.

The paper drummer was in the city last week and he informs us that paper of all kinds are on the jump. This will certainly make the newspaper men and job printers jump too when they have to pay for the advance without any increase in the price of work turned out. These horrid trusts, they are getting their fingers deeper and deeper into the poor devils—the printers who are kept at the grind stone.

The Sherman County Observer says: "Tillamook needs a live law enforcement league." Don't be too swift, the world wasn't made in a day, Bro. Ireland, for Tillamookers have long since seen the necessity for the law to be enforced and are working in that direction. But it takes some law breakers a long time to see that the people are in dead earnest and intend to put a stop to their careers in the future.

The honk line might have made Rollie a millionaire, only that it was capitalized with too much "hot air." Failing in that method, but by Sheriff Crenshaw's alertness Arstell's career as a bank forger came to a sudden end. It is a distressing sight to see such a respectable appearing young man in such a predicament, a confessed bank check forger and a long term in the state penitentiary before him. He may think now that honesty is the best policy, but it is too late to impress that upon him after the crime he committed, but here is an object lesson every young man in this county ought to ponder over if they are ever inclined to do wrong. The pen awaits Arstell, but could he have seen inside of one and realized his destination there, to associate with all classes of criminals, he might have concluded that to get money honestly and by honest labor was in every way preferable to dishonest and dishonorable methods.

It will be necessary to keep one's eye on the railroad lobby at Salem when the next state legislature meets, that is if legislation is to be introduced to overcome the difficulties under which manufacturers are struggling. What with a railroad "sack," liquor dealer's "sack," bar pilot's "sack," and the usual other "sacks" which find their way to Salem, the legislators who go there for plunder won't have any difficulty in getting their hands into the "sacks."

There is just cause for the big kick that is being registered on account of the shortage of cars in the Willamette Valley, but Tillamook has a bigger kick still, for it has never seen a railroad car, and as far as the county is concerned it certainly would like to know what they look like. The Willamette valley towns needn't think they are the only places in Oregon to suffer, for Tillamook suffers year after year because the big railroad magnates keep this section bottled up.

It is the proper thing for a newspaper man to smother all ambition to fill public office, but there is one thing that we would like to be in the next legislature for, and that is to champion a bill which would make it a penitentiary offence for one man to alienate the affections of a married woman and in that way break up another man's home, making it also a penitentiary offence for a married man or woman to desert one another and the

All the street cars in Portland were tied up on Saturday. There is this good feature about it: Walking is healthy exercise, especially when it is brisk, so it won't hurt the people of that city if they use their legs a little more and the cars a little less, and they would all have a much more healthy appearance. Anyway, walking is good at any season of the year.

"Loaded!" Some few farmers put on broad smiles when they told of the young man who was inducing them to take stock in a bank when he drew a bottle on them—whiskey or beer. We didn't know that we were so near a political campaign, for that is the method some of the office seekers have used to get votes, but, somehow or other, that don't work with the magic that it used to, for candidates without the bottle appear to be in favor with the intelligent voter. For the life of us we fail to see why a bank needs "ginning up," that is if it is any good.

It is surprising that a young man like Arstell, healthy, strong and robust, and able to earn an honest livelihood, should undertake to forge a number of checks. He was, no doubt, raw at the business, and had just started in to get rich by that method, but by Sheriff Crenshaw's alertness Arstell's career as a bank forger came to a sudden end. It is a distressing sight to see such a respectable appearing young man in such a predicament, a confessed bank check forger and a long term in the state penitentiary before him. He may think now that honesty is the best policy, but it is too late to impress that upon him after the crime he committed, but here is an object lesson every young man in this county ought to ponder over if they are ever inclined to do wrong. The pen awaits Arstell, but could he have seen inside of one and realized his destination there, to associate with all classes of criminals, he might have concluded that to get money honestly and by honest labor was in every way preferable to dishonest and dishonorable methods.

stock in Tillamook City, nor is he any worse than those who were in the habit of sending out whiskey to bribe voters in this county.

Milk That Is Milk.

(Oregonian.)
Consumers will heartily join producers of butter in indorsing the utmost cleanliness—intelligent cleanliness—as a necessary adjunct to the production of good butter. Many remember the sour, malodorous wooden churn of a past era and its product in "country butter" that lay in melting mood day after day in the country store in close proximity to boxes of brown soap, sides of rusty bacon and the molasses barrel, with its dripping faucet and swarm of happy flies. The wooden churn was succeeded, after a long reign, by the tin churn, which was an improvement, because of the possibility of keeping it sweet; but it was not until quite recent years that the thud of the churn dasher was silenced in the farmers kitchen, and the separator succeeded the production of cream by the gravity process in the preliminary stage of butter-making. While many butter-makers of the olden time were neat and clean throughout the process, from straining the milk in sweet, clean pans to rolling the finished product of the churn in cheesecloth for the market, untidiness was much in evidence, and "Oregon butter came to be a reproach to Oregon housewives."

The modern butter factory is not always as clean as it should be, but it is pleasing to hear a practical dairyman—L. B. Ziemer, of Tillamook—assert that, in order to be successful and make for itself a name that will stand for continued profit, creamery butter, the commercial butter, of a commercial age, must be kept clean in the strictest sense of the word.

"Milk is milk only," says Mr. Ziemer, "when produced by a milker of clean habits, in a clean barn, from clean and healthy cows." We shudder to think of the vast bulk of milk that is not milk, according to his diagnosis, that finds its way into market daily from the milkmen's cans as well as through dairy products. Between "milk that is milk" according to this standard, and the "filthy liquid" that contains many impurities, even after the strainer has removed "small portions of real estate, bits of fertilizer, parts of the straw stack or tributes from the cow's overcoat," there is certainly a large gulf. Let us hope that Mr. Ziemer's exhortation to dairyman to be clean, and again be clean, will have a salutary effect.

Long Tennessee Fight.

For twenty years W. L. Kavis, of Bells, Tenn., fought nasal catarrh. He writes: "The swelling and soreness inside my nose was fearful, till I began applying Buchlen's Arnica Salve to the sore surface; this caused the soreness and swelling to disappear, never to return. Best salve in existence."—Beat Charles I. Clough, Druggist.
