A YEAR'S RECORD.
Of Hatched, Matched, Dis-matched and Dispatched in Tillamook County.

We give below a year's record of the births, marriages and deaths, and also the divorces, in Tillamook County for 1906, but in the births and deaths lists, these are not correct, as there are a number of cases which have not been reported to the County Health Officer, Dr. I. M. Smith. The figures are: Births, 65; marriages, 35; divorces, 3; deaths, 24. The previous year the figures were: Births, 83; marriages, 38; deaths, 34. There were two fatal deaths in the south part of the county, one of drowning and the other of a child dying from exposure, which were not reported to the health officer and are not included. The only other fatal death that we know of was a case of drowning in Hogwartonslough. A few old timers passed away, and as to the cause of the deaths, consumption claimed but few victims.

Births.
 There was a decrease of 18 births in the county, with no triplets and but one pair of twins, that honor falling to Chas. Lanquist and wife, thus proving that Tillamookers are not doing their part in populating the county. Of the 65 births, 40 were girls and 25 boys, thus giving the she-males a majority of 15 over the he-males.

Divorces.
 Three couples had the marriage contract severed by divorce proceedings, placing themselves again on the matrimonial market, viz.:
 Helen Jackson vs. Robert Jackson.
 Chas. A. Johnson vs. Pearl E. Johnson.
 Fannie M. Bain vs. Alex. T. Bain.

Deaths.
 The deaths reported again fall below that of the previous year, being, as far as we are able to get them together, 24. This includes two deaths that have been reported, but their names were not filled out on the regular blanks. I. H. Lucas is the father of one of these parties, the date of death being July 27 and the age 54, while in the other case where no name is given, the person was a male 58 years of age, born in Switzerland and his occupation that of a harness maker.

Resolutions of Condolence.
 We, the committee, to whom was referred the duty of drafting resolutions of condolence on the death of our Esteemed sister, Minerva E. Olds, beg leave to submit the following:
 Whereas it has pleased the Heavenly Father to remove from our midst our Esteemed Sister, Minerva E. Olds; he it resolved, that the sympathy of the members of Tillamook Lodge, No. 290, F. U. of A., be extended to the bereaved members of our sister's family, and in their great sorrow commend them to the tender mercies of Him who doeth all things well.
 Sister Minerva E. Olds was one of the charter members of this lodge and has always been a faithful and true Frater.
 Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions under seal of the lodge, be sent to the family of Sister M. E. Olds; and that the same be placed on the record of the lodge and copies be furnished our official paper and the local press for publication.
 Respectfully submitted in L. and P. Mrs. M. A. Kimball, Mrs. D. A. Page and Mrs. R. A. Rees, committee.

ANCIENT EMBALMING.

Not Only People but Animals Were Mummified in Egypt.
 Myrrh, which was fabulously supposed to be the tears of Myrrha, who was turned into a shrub, was a plant of handsome appearance, with spreading, fernlike foliage and large umbels of white flowers. It was found principally in Arabia and Abyssinia. In early times the perfume distilled from it was greatly in requisition for embalming.

Herodotus gives a detailed account of the ancient mode of embalming, which is perhaps more instructive than pleasing. After the body had undergone much preparation, which, to spare your feelings, will not be described, it was filled with powdered myrrh, cassia and other perfumes. It was then steeped in natron, a strong solution of soda, for seventy days. After this it was wrapped in bands of fine perfumed linen, smeared with aromatic gums.

Not only people were thus embalmed, but the crocodiles of Lake Moeris, which, after their mummification, were decorated with ornaments and jewels and laid in one of the subterranean passages of the great labyrinth with much pomp and display. The sacred cat, cheenuon and other cherished animals devoutly worshipped by the Egyptians were embalmed with scrupulous and fanatical care. On days special to the memory of the dead the mummies were newly sprinkled with perfume. Incense was offered before them and their heads anointed with fresh oil—in the same spirit as we lay new blooms upon the graves of our dead.

WHISTLER AS A TEACHER.

A Genius Who Showed Difficulty in Imparting His Knowledge.
 Whistler was certainly a genius, but he showed some difficulty in imparting his knowledge. His criticisms were often foggy and uncertain, and he hardly ever found words in which to express himself. It was almost an impossibility to dogelap without becoming a slave and copying him in every way. With a majority of the students this was a dangerous method. If one came with a spark of originality it was extinguished immediately by the dominating personality of the master. He could see art only from his own standpoint, and he insisted on all of us using the same palette and the same brushes as himself and on our seeing all objects with his eyes. The result to an ordinary outsider was ridiculously monotonous.

I well remember a Frenchman who wanted to join the class coming to view some of the studies and then remarking, with an amused smile, "Vous avez beaucoup des petus Wheatstair!" This was perfectly true of the majority, but there were a few matured men who hardly carried out Whistler's formulas as regards the palette and method, but who, owing to their more independent attitude, profited much by the criticisms.—Century.

Voting in Paris.
 "In Paris only one-fifth of the voters go to the polls and cast their ballots," said an American who has lived in Paris as a business man for several years past. "This is not because they cannot vote, but because they do not care to. Everybody in the city is interested in politics, but when the time to vote comes few care to go to the polls. The man who wins is most often the man who promises everything. For instance, in my district last time a man was elected who promised to put a new shed on the market. I know of another deputy who was kept in office fifteen years because he promised to add an extra sardine to the daily rations of the soldiers. There are so many soldiers that that made a big difference. They did not get the sardine, but he continued to promise and kept office."—Washington Post.

Man and Art.
 In ancient times there stood in the citadel of Athens three statues of Minerva. The first was of olive wood and, according to popular tradition, had fallen from heaven. The second was of bronze, commemorating the victory of Marathon, and the third of gold and ivory—a great miracle of art in the days of Pericles. And thus in the citadel of time stands man himself. In childhood, shaped of soft and delicate wood, just fallen from heaven; in manhood a statue of bronze, commemorating struggle and victory, and, lastly, in the maturity of age, perfectly shaped in gold and ivory—a miracle of art!

Temper.
 Temper itself is not a bad quality. It is not to be destroyed, as we sometimes say. Without temper a bar of steel becomes like lead. A man without temper is weak and worthless. We are to learn self control. A strong person is one who has a strong temper under perfect mastery. There is a deep truth here—that our mistakes and our sins, if we repent of them, will help in the growth and upbuilding of our character.

Fair Proposition.
 "Don't you throw off anything because of the big holes in these doughnuts?" asked the new wife of the baker.
 "I'll tell you," he replied, scratching his chin. "Eat the doughnuts, and we'll make a liberal allowance when you return the holes."

A Sleep Inducer.
 Hicks—Do you hear about Macklin? They called the Rev. Mr. Dulley to his bedside last evening. Wicks—Do you mean to say he is in a dying condition? Hicks—Oh, no; only a bad case of insomnia.
