The indications are very favorable for the proposition being approved by the people.

There was a large congregation at the Presbyterian church on Sunday to hear the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the high school by the Rev. A. E. Wingert, who for some reason had not returned to the city to occupy his pulpit and his appointment to preach that morning. The church had been nicely decorated and a musical program arranged for, but the service was delayed on account of the absence of Mr. Wingert. Rev. P. R. Burnett, pastor of the Christian church, kindly agreed to fill the pulpit and preach the sermon, which he did.

Thomas Quick is Killed.
 Word was received in this city on Wednesday from Astoria of the sad news that Thomas Quick had been killed there that afternoon by the explosion of a boiler of a steam shovel, headed soon after. The unfortunate young man was the son of Mr. Ike Quick, of South Prairie, and left here about two week ago. He was about 30 years of age and a member of the I. O. F. The remains will be brought in on the next steamer and buried here.

REV. A. E. WINGERT IS A 'DEAD BEAT.'

Obtains Various Sums of Money Under False Pretences.

THEN LEAVES THE COUNTY.

Without Paying His Board Bill, Livery Bill or Tailor's Bill—Stole Oranges from a Store.

Rev. A. E. Wingert, the talented and gifted young pastor of the Presbyterian church in Tillamook City is either a dead beat, crook or kleptomaniac. Opinion is somewhat divided as to that by those who became personally acquainted with him during his short stay of about two months in this city. That he is either a "dead beat" or is suffering with a kleptomania brain storm was proven beyond a doubt when the lime light was turned on his crooked actions this week. It may be hard for some people to believe this, however, for he appeared to be held in high esteem, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that Mr. Wingert, instead of occupying a pulpit in a Presbyterian church, ought to be serving time with J. L. Arstall in the state penitentiary and the rest of the crooks, for that is where he will land up sooner or later if he continues to pursue his bunco game.

Some months ago the Portland Presbytery sent Mr. Wingert to Cloverdale to take charge of the Nestucca Presbyterian church, where he remained several months, and deciding not to remain in Cloverdale, the members of the Presbyterian church in this city invited him to become their pastor, as he was so highly spoken of by people in the south end of the county. It was largely through the efforts of Rev. Dr. Baird that Mr. Wingert came here, who did not care to return to his work in Victor, Mont., until some one had been selected to take his place. It was the last Sunday in March that Mr. Wingert commenced preaching in this city and Bay City.

One week ago last Sunday he preached at Bay City in the morning and in this city in the evening, when he announced that he would preach the baccalaureate sermon to the high school graduates the following Sunday. Early next morning, much to the surprise of some of the members of the Presbyterian church, he informed them that he was going to Portland and Salem, and would return at the end of the week. Saturday came and Mr. Wingert had not returned. Sunday morning came, with the Presbyterian church decorated, the church crowded, and the choir on the rostrum with a special musical program for the baccalaureate service. But Mr. Wingert was not on hand, had not been heard from, nor could anyone give any information about him. Rev. P. R. Burnett, pastor of the Christian church, was appealed to and kindly consented to preach the sermon. Little did that large congregation think that the man who should have given the graduating class words of Christian advice was a "dead beat," something which every member of the class will never forget.

It has leaked out since Sunday morning why Mr. Wingert had not returned. It seems that Mr. Wingert "tapped" a Bay Cityite for $20 the day previous to his departure to funds unknown, and the morning that he left town he went to several members of the Presbyterian church and obtained various sums of money, varying from $75 down, saying he was short of money and did not have enough to make the trip. In all he has obtained $150, and now that he has flown others may admit that the preacher "soaked" them as well. Having obtained the money, he went to his lodgings, and in the absence of his landlady, hurriedly burned a lot of letters in the store and packed his clothes in a suit case, left the house without paying for his board and lodgings since he has been in this city. He had hired a rig, and W. H. Easter, the liveryman, drove him to Sheridan, and if Wingert "tapped" some of his friends at Cloverdale is not known here, but the supposition is that he did. Mr. Easter went from Sheridan to Portland on the train with Wingert, so as to make arrangements for the return trip. Easter was to meet Wingert at the Perkins hotel, but the latter failed to keep his appointment, and after Easter had waited there for several hours, concluded to return to Tillamook, little dreaming that Wingert had bilked him out of his livery bill.

Several other things have come to light. He bought some oranges in one of the stores. While the person who served him had her back turned, he took two oranges and placed them in a bag with the other and did not pay for them. He ordered a $40 suit, and the tailor is fortunate that he has the goods still in his possession, and he bought one of Edison's talking machines on the installment plan and did some crazy talking into it himself.

Wingert was highly educated, a fine orator and a splendid musician, and had evidently moved in good society and had traveled to Europe several times, and with these accomplishments, it is hard to believe that he is as crooked as he has proven himself to be. He came from Pennsylvania to Oregon.

He belonged to the Masons, Eastern Star, K. of P. and Oddfellows, and was very popular with the members of the fraternal orders, so much so that he was chosen one of the orators at the recent anniversary of the I. O. O. F. order in this city, when he spoke for one hour in the opera house, which was crowded, and he was loudly applauded.
 It is supposed that Wingert has made good his flight out of the state before this covering up his tracks, but if his whereabouts should become known he will be brought back and a jury will have to decide whether he is a crook of the dead beat class or was suffering from a kleptomania brain storm when he obtained money by false pretences and decided to shake the dust from off his feet before taking his flight.

BRIDGE CONTRACTS LET.

Structures Will Span Rivers on Main Line to Tillamook.

The contract for three steel bridges, each 150 feet long, has been let by the Pacific Railway & Navigation Company to the American Bridge Company, which will build them and deliver them here by August 1. Robert Wakefield will then erect the structures. They will cross the Kilches, Wilson and Miami Rivers on the main line to Tillamook. The three structures represent a cost of about $60,000.

President Lytle is awaiting the filing of bids by contractors for the construction of ten miles additional of the main line from Milepost, 20 miles west on Salmonberry Creek. The contract is all ready to be let and constructors are now looking over the work. The ten miles of the road to be built on this contract is reasonably heavy work with some trestling. A long tunnel will be dug on this section of the work, but the contract for the tunnel has already been let.

Directors of the Pacific Railway & Navigation Company have adopted the maps providing for the permanent location of 60 miles of the branch of the P. R. & N. Co. to Astoria from the main line to Tillamook. Maps were adopted by the directors at a recent meeting.
