Civil War.

By MISS CLARA SCHOLLMEYER. Awarded First Prize by the Nehalem School Officers' Association.

The close of the Revolutionary War left the country in a bad condition. It could plainly be seen that a strong government must be formed to unite the seperate independent states. The treasury was erapty, agriculture had been neglected, and there was no money with which to pay the enormous public debt which had been incurred by the war.

The people were divided in two parties. But after much deliberation and violent expectition an entirely new constitution.

opposition an entirely new constitution was organized and adopted in 1789. Unded this contitution the country developed and made great progress, and upon as an evil by the northern people.

For a long time there had been a great deal of misunderstanding between the north and south in regard to boundary lines, and the south made many threats of disunion.

Abraham Lincoln, who was candidate for president in 1860, had been misfor president in 1860, had been mis-represented to the southern people, and following his inauguration, accompanied by threats of his assassination, the southern states decided to withdraw from the Union, and such was the spirit that sent state after state out of the Union, until eleven of them were arrayed against the national govern-ment. President Lincoln, who was a man of calm wisdom and discreation, de-clared in his inaugural address that he did not intend to interfere with slavery. clared in his inaugural address that he did not intend to interfere with slavery, although he did not approve of it. He made it plainly understood that he would inforce the laws everywhere, and would recover the United States pro-perty which had been seized by the South.

The trouble had gone too far to be settled peaceably. The Southern States had determined not to come back into the Union on any terms, and they formed the "Confederate States of America."

On April 12th, 1861, the Confederates by express order of their war departments, fired first upon the "Star of the West" and upon Fort Sumpter, in Charleston harbor. The commander, Major Anderson, was summoned to surrender and refused, fire was opened upon him, and the bombardment continued until the exhausted garrison. tinued until the exhausted garrison hauled down the Stars and Stripes and surrendered prisoners of war. After the fall of Fort Sumpter, the Northerns de clared they would have peace at any price. They where now ready to march against the foe of their country. The against the roe of their country. The air rang with shouts of war, meetings where held by the hundreds, and one unshakeable resolve swayed and con-trolled the North from end to end. And it was the same in the South. There had been worriment, anxiety and argument, and amid the delirium that seized the leaders there were many who still loved the old Union, and this love could not be destroyed in a day. Their

> was very great on both sides, but in different ways. The Southern people wild with the joy of victory, thought that the war was over and consequently became careless, while in the north but they soon began to realize the mag nitude of the undertaking before them and knew that a greater eff-rt must be made. Following the battle of Bull Run were many struggle and bloody battles but the flercest engagement and the bloodiest contest of the whole war was the battle of Antietan. There was was the battle of Antietan. There was hardly a moment's secession from sunrise till sunset. There was suffering from hunger and thirst, and not a man could be spared to go to the rear for refreshments. They had to fight on gaining and giving ground, struggling doggedly and bravely, but weakened bodily as well as in spirit, by the craving for food and the almost intorable thirst. The effect of this battle was an enor.

The effect of this battle was an enor mous loss of lives on both sides, but as mous lose of lives on both sites, but as neither could drive the other from the field neither could claim the victory. All this time the feeling against slavery was rapidly growing in the north, for it was plainly seen that the slaves were a source of great strength to the Confederates, for they not only kept up the plantations, but also helped to build fortifications. The hour had now come for President Lincoln to express his opinion. He had considered the subject Under the operation of the new Pure Food Laws, baking powders now generally bear on the labels a statement of the ingredients. This is of utmost importance because of the harmful ingredients used in many cases.

Royal Baking Powder is known to be the only baking powder made of Royal Grape Crean of Tartar, and this no doubt explains its greatly increased sale here. Careful housekeepers are taking advantage of the continued and a carefully and a great benefit to the Union. Still struggles continued, and a Careful housekeepers are taking advantage of the protection which the Laws afford and are examining all the reading matter on the back of the label before adopting any brand for use in the home. When in place of the words Cream of Tartat the words "alum," "aluminum" or "phosphate of lime appear among the ingredients, they heed the warning and avoid baking powders containing these substitutes.

of President Lincoln. Happiness was turned to horror and mourning. The whole world was shocked by the ap-pauling crime. The embers of the Civil War still smoked and smouldered. There was fitful fighting here and there, and some of the humiliated leaders fled from the country, but the war was now over and soon blessed peace reigned every where.

The Modesty of Women

Jaturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treat-ments, which some physicians consider ments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which disputates with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly nonalcoholic, non - secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of pro-fessional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R.
