

Editorial Snap Shots.

What a blessing, no east wind up to date. We hope Tillamook City has seen enough of carnival fakes. We don't want any more fakers' fairs in Tillamook City. But, then, it is "Outside Attractions" which graft the people.

It is reported, now that the A. & C. have come out in the suit brought by the P. R. & N. C. that suit will be flying on the Coast road within six months. Well, I'd fly, and the quicker the better for Tillamook County.

W. Alden's some of the depositors in the defunct and busted Oregon Trust & Savings Bank be glad if their savings had been deposited in a government savings bank. But, then, don't you know, the money power of this country don't want government savings banks.

It was really too bad, with so many prominent persons attending the fair that the county exhibits were so small. Visitors do not come to Tillamook to see a lot of fakers from the tenderloin districts of the large cities. This was a poor way to advertise the county, as all must now admit.

Editor Hill, of the Cherdale Courier, was in town Saturday, and from all appearance was feeling perfectly happy. It was, however, too bad that he should get so "wet" on a rainy day. Our visiting brother, no doubt, is dried out by this time, but we must apologise for him as he is not proof yet against a Tillamook "mist."

Congressman Hawley was anxious to know how he could help Tillamook. A 10 foot channel at low tide to Tillamook City and the improvement of Tillamook bar. That is Tillamook's slogan, and the Oregon delegation at Washington is invited to join in the chorus and in getting these long overdue and imperative improvements undertaken by the government.

Baker auto have a honk fit this week; so many automobiles came to Tillamook during the past few days—Herald. Well! What a rattletrap paragraph. But it is on a par with Rolfe's rattletrap brain and rattletrap howling machine. A trinity of genuine rattletraps, and we don't think there is much to choose between the rattletrap sheet, the rattletrap brain and the rattletrap machine.

There was one thing about Prof. Larsen's remarks at the opera house which is praise worthy, and, in brief, it is this: Not only obtain the best breeds of cattle for dairying purposes, but raise them to sell. Tillamook cheese has a reputation, and Tillamook stock would soon get the same kind of reputation if the dairymen would raise pure bred cattle with the idea of making that a part of their business.

The rain on Saturday caused some disappointment and stopped the amusement at the fair, but it was one of the many blessings which fall on Tillamook county and Tillamook people, for two days of steady growing rain at this season of the year is truly a blessing to any county, and Old Bossy can go down on her marrow bones and be thankful that green feed is going to be more plentiful this fall. Truly Tillamook is a great dairymen county, and fortunate are the dairymen who have located here, where the average income for each cow will be about $100 this year.

It is now up to the Astoria & Columbia Railroad, since it won out against the Pacific Railway & Navigation Company in the suit over the strategic point at Garibaldi, to commence building, for there is nothing now in the way to prevent it from doing so. Tillamook people will soon know whether the A. & C. was bluffing, for it will have to make good or shut up about extending its road into Tillamook county. We have had enough of railroad "hot air" in this county, and if the A. & C. means business the people of this county will hold out the glad hand, for the field is still open for that company to make good its repeated announcement that it would be the first to give Tillamook railroad connections. It is now up to the A. & C.

It is to be hoped that when another fair is held, more attention will be paid to the county exhibits and less to the carnival attractions, which take considerable money out of the city. This ought to go to the settlers in money and other valuable prizes, and no wonder that the county exhibits did not come up to last year's, for there is not much inducement for the settlers to exhibit their products when only a bit of ribbon is given in favor of any more carnival fakes, but we are strongly in favor of a good county fair every year, one in which the farming and industrial community can take a prominent part and in giving them an opportunity to have a good time together once a year, and without having to go down in their jeans to support a lot of carnival show fakers, who divert considerable money from the legitimate business channels and then take a percent in taxation or for the benefit of the county. We make these few remarks simply as a suggestion, not to find fault, and in doing so we believe that this is the general sentiment throughout the county with regard to a fair next year.

In listening to speakers who come to Tillamook, we notice that some of them undertake to give the dairymen considerable advice on things they already know about. Dairymen in this little kingdom of Tillamook have adapted themselves to local conditions, and in a new country, so it is the height of presumption for outsiders to come here and think they know all about it and are in a position to give free advice to those who know more than they do. We do not doubt for one moment but what many improvements can be made in this county by complying more strictly to scientific dairying and intensified farming, but those who are so ready with their advice and imagine that we are not quite up to date, must remember that the clearing of land was the first problem, which took years of steady labor and money, with lots of Western grit, to solve. Isolated and backporting for years, it is surprising to see the progress and success that is being made, and will continue to be made. It takes time to convert a new country into a strictly scientific dairying section, but Tillamook is getting there very fast.

TILLAMOOK FAIR AND CARNIVAL.

Large Crowd in Attendance—Falling Off in Exhibits.

The Tillamook County Fair and Street Carnival on Thursday, Friday and Saturday brought together a large crowd, although rain on Saturday caused some disappointment and put a damper on all outdoor amusements. Booths occupied the middle of the street for four business blocks, and festooned with hunting in orange and purple, and illuminated at night with electric lights, gave the business portion of the city a gay appearance, with the Queen's stand and two other band stands between the booths. Owing to the falling off in exhibits this year, only a little more than half of the booths were occupied, which was a great disappointment, for it was expected that a larger amount of county products would be exhibited.

The fair was formally opened Thursday by Mayor H. E. Botts, previous to which Mr. Frank Severance, who was marshal for the fair, had headed a procession composed of the Tillamook Concert Band, the Tillamook Guards, the K. P.'s in uniform and the McMinnville Marine Band. In a brief address of welcome, the Mayor stated that when they held their fair last year, it was not thought that a railroad would be constructed so soon, but he was glad to say that a railroad was now assured, with a locomotive, flat cars and a steam shovel at work, with half a mile of road already built. This will soon solve the transportation question, for it was the need of transportation which had kept Tillamook in the back ground. In a year or so the products of the farm and mills would find an outlet to the markets of the world, and in closing predicted a great future for Tillamook, inviting the visitors to inspect the lumber and other resources of the county. A ball game in the afternoon between Tillamook and Nehalem attracted a large crowd, which was won by the former. Band concerts and the usual carnival attractions kept the crowd amused for the rest of the day, the Tillamook band giving a dance each evening in their pavilion.

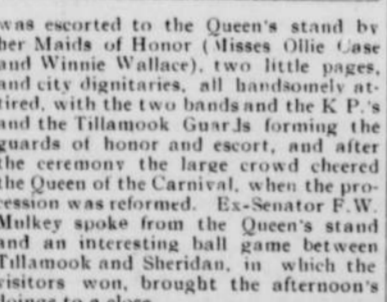

Friday was the gala day of the fair. Tom Richardson was down for a speech in the morning, but failed to put in an appearance. The parade of stock was a big improvement over last year in horses and colts, which greatly pleased the crowd, for there were some splendid animals in the procession. Mr. M. R. Haanenkrat had gone to a good deal of trouble in getting the farmers to display their stock, and he succeeded admirably, although he did not get all the animals in the procession. The clam bake did not prove such a monstrous affair as it might have had it been possible to get a bigger supply of clams, for there was a big demand for baked clams. Crowning of the Queen of the Carnival (Miss Hattie Marolf) was the event of the day. She was escorted to the Queen's stand by her Maids of Honor (Misses Ollie Case and Winnie Wallace), two little pages, and city dignitaries, all handsomely attired, with the two bands and the K. P.'s and the Tillamook Guards forming the guards of honor and escort, and after the ceremony the large crowd cheered the Queen of the Carnival, when the procession was reformed. Ex-Senator F. W. Mulkey spoke from the Queen's stand and an interesting ball game between Tillamook and Sheridan, in which the visitors won, brought in the afternoon's doings to a close.

Tillamook mist on Saturday put a damper on the fair, giving the booths a sorry looking appearance, yet for all that a large crowd remained in the city with the expectation that the weather would clear up. Owing to the rain, Mr. J. W. Bailey, State Dairy and Food Commissioner, Prof. Jensen, of the Utah Agricultural College, and Congressman W. C. Hawley, spoke in the opera house in the afternoon.

Stock Awards. The parade of stock on Friday morning, thanks to Mr. M. H. Haanenkrat, who did considerable hustling in getting the farmers to exhibit their stock, brought out quite a number of fine horses and colts, especially the latter, there being a lot of pretty animals amongst the bunch.
