Real Cause of the Stringency.

(From The Astorian.)

Just why this country, at a time when everything seemed prosperous, when business was never better in all lines of industry, should in the short space of a week, be entirely turned around so far as the money matters are concerned, is a question which we have all tried to reason out, and the varied opinions that have been offered by every one differ very materially; so much so, that one cannot come any nearer to the solution than when it first started. However, an Astorian reporter met a prominent New Yorker, who was at one time a member of the Consolidated and Petroleum Exchange, on Wall street, and well versed in Wall street affairs, who, while not expressing an opinion as to the real causes, on account of his absence from the storm center, kindly showed a letter he had just received from his brother, who is at the head of one of the most prominent brokerage houses in New York, giving his opinion as to the cause, and what happened.

Being facts from the inside of the ring, it will doubtless throw some light on the question, and being also from a prominent man in financial matters who comes in daily contact with the "powers that be," its authenticity cannot be questioned. We quote in part:

"I have your letter asking about the trouble in the (Wall) street. This is what happened: We had quite a decline due to Roosevelt's calling the public's attention to the frauds the corporations have been prepetrating for years; at about the bottom C. W. Morse unloaded his United Copper (pool holdings) and Otto Heinze & Co. tried to make him buy back in the open market. He sold United Copper to 37; Heinze put it up to 60, Gross and Kleeburg did the business on the curb and Heinze & Co. could not take the stock. Both assigned. F. Agustus Heinze, brother of the other one, was president of the Mercantile Nat'l Bank and borrowed their money on United Copper around 50 to protect himself. United went to 7½ which it still is. The Clearing House Committee forced him to resign, also C. W. Morse to get out of all the banks he was interested in, and a week had forced every bank president or director who was known to have promoted any wild cat enterprises. Runs started on nearly every Bank and Trust Company. The Knickerbocker Trust Co. was allowed to bust; the Trust Company stood (with outside help) a run that lasted 12 days. It is said they paid out $70,000,000. Quite a number of small banks and trust companies were forced to close. Most of them are solvent but could not raise ready money or sell their holdings. Money loaned at 150 per cent and for days was at 70 per cent. Cash is still at a premium and so is gold (naturally).

"The examiners came down (both State and National), and went through all the institutions. Every one who had broken the law and borrowed their own institutions money for speculation or promoting purposes was sold out and forced to resign. There was nearly 100 of the Napoleons disposed of. It was the liquidation of these loans that made the low prices. It was distinctly a rich man's panic. I do not think the public suffered much, but they hallowed a good deal and hoarded money which makes things bad.

"You can size things up from what I have written and can understand how things are. It is a general cleaning up and shake down.

"J. P. Morgan is in control of every National bank in New York and he has forbidden any short selling, and all margin business and everybody obeys. If they should not, they could not borrow any money at any rate. They keep tab on how much everybody borrows and you could not borrow a dollar outside of the Exchange to save your soul. However I think the worst is over now. I hope I have answered all of your questions and made things clear. One trouble brought on another and the liquidation was enormous, and everybody who did not have strong backing was in trouble."

A Significant Prayer.

"May the Lord help you make Bucklen's Arnica Salve known to all," writes J. G. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. It quickly took the pain out of a felon for me and cured it in a wonderfully short time." Best on earth for sores, burns and wounds. 25c. at Chas. I. Clough, drug store.

Small Family False Idea.

That it is possible to raise a large family with quality equal to that of a small one was declared by Rev. Father J. M. Cleary, of Minneapolis, who vehemently assailed divorce and the "quality not quantity" race suicide argument at a recent session of the National Purity Congress in Battle Creek, Mich.

"The assumption that one or two children will be reared to be better men and women than ten to a dozen in a Christian home is wholly false," he said, "and can not be supported by the test of experience."

On the topic of divorce Father Cleary said:

"The honor of woman is insecure in human society when the dread specter of divorce casts a dark shadow on the Christian home. Under every conceivable pretext that depraved desire can suggest, the wife and mother, who should be the most tender object chivalrous devotion, is set aside and degraded by the one individual, her husband, who should value his life but a beggarly price to pay in defense of her dignity and honor.

"The married state is the natural one for the majority of mankind. The church has never faltered in faithful defense of the holiness and inviolability of the marriage bond. But the church has praised virginity, for her divine founder exalted it by living a virginal live. The celebate states is neither impossible nor repugnant to human nature."

Oklahoma deserved a better send-off than a gubernatorial snarl, and will be apt to indicate its feeling on this point at next year's election.

It will take 6,500,000 pounds of provisions to feed the 13,700 men on the American fleet during the voyage from the Atlantic to the Pacific. As the same amount will be required if the ships remain inactive, the item, like many others mentioned in this connection, is not as formidable as the arithmetic men make out.

It is now fourteen years since an appropriation of $10,000 was made for experiments with the project of rural free delivery. As recently as ten years ago the appropriation for this new service amounted to only $40,000. Last year it was more than $25 000,000, while this year rural free delivery will cost $37,000,000.

Of all the interesting uses to which incubators have been put, that of hatching alligator eggs is probably the most striking. An Englishman at Hot Springs, Ark., is engaged in raising alligators for the market. The demand for the hides to use for manufacturing purposes is constantly increasing, while parks and zoos buy the live reptiles for exhibition.

"A Policy; not a Project."

The National Rivers and Harbors Congress, to convene at the New Willard, Washington, on December 4, 5 and 6 will be of the utmost importance. The second session since the reorganization of the Congress, it will be memorable from the fact that it will give official stamp to the fact that it was brought into existence for the purpose of advocating a broad national policy with reference to inland waterway and harbor improvment but committed to no special project.

That platform, the justice of the demand for adequate annual appropriations for the great work of inland waterway and harbor improvment, and the imperative necessity for increased facilities for transportation have drawn the attention of all classes of trade and commercial interests to the coming session of the Congress. Opposition to the improvement of the inland waterway and the harbor has disappeared. The country has come to recognition of the fact that there is no possible hostility between the inland waterway and the railway, but that between the two there is nothing but healthy competition. That fact was given strong public recognition in the report of the special committee of the French Chamber of Deputies in 1903 in the statement that "where transportation by water and by rail are both available, they complement and complete each other, the one transporting the heavy materials, the low cost of which is an indispensable condition to the vitality of industries which, in their turn, aliment the traffic of the railways."

To that wise conclusion the American people have come as well as the French government, with France expending on the improvement of her rivers and harbors $1,120,000.00, up to 1906 and with the government of the United States expending for like purposes only $470,000,000 up to and including the same year, and with France now engaged in the construction of a canal between the river Rhone and the city of Arles, only fifty miles in length yet at a cost of $13,703,000.

The wonderful success of the French system, is due to the fact that France has stood for a project, with the French merchant, manufacturer and consumer reaping the benefits. Standing for a policy and for no project, insisting on adequate appropriations for the great work, annually made, the coming session of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress cannot fail in commanding the attention of the entire country and in impressing the strength and the justice of the demands of trade and commerce on the Congress of the United States.

A Methodist Minister Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for seven years, and it has always proved to be a reliable remedy. We have found that it would do more than the manufacturers claim for it. It is especially good for croup and whooping cough.

REV. JAMES A. LEWIS,
Pastor Milaca, Minn., M. E. Church.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is sold Clough's Drug Store.

A Reliable Remedy for Croup.

With the dry cold weather of the early winter months, parents of croupy children should be on the alert for ominous symptoms. There is no cause for anxiety, however, when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is kept in the house. If this medicine is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the croupy cough has appeared, the attack may be warded off. Mrs. S. Rosinthal, of Turner, Michigan, says: "We have used Chamberlain's Cough medicine for ourselves and children for several years and like it very much. I think it is the only remedy for croup and can highly recommend it." For sale by Clough's Drug Store.

LINGERING COLD.
Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zedhyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One small bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I ever used." This remedy is for sale by Clough's Drug Store.

Appendicitis

Is due in a large measure to abuse of the bowels, by employing drastic purgatives. To avoid all danger, use only Dr. King's New Life Pills, the safe, gentle cleansers and invigorators. Guaranteed for headache, biliousness, malaria and jaundic, at Chas. I. Clough, Drug store, 25c.

A Good Liniment.

When you need a good reliable liniment try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It has no superior for sprains and swellings. A piece of flannel slightly dampened with Pain Balm is superior to a plaster for lame back or pains in the side or chest. It also relieves rheumatic pains and makes sleep and rest possible. For sale by Clough's Drug Store.
