L. A. Wilt, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Wilt, while on his way from California to spend Christmas with his parents in this city, was taken sick in Portland and taken to one of the hospitals, where he died. Mr. Wilt went to Portland upon hearing of the serious sickness of his son, and managed to get there before the young man died, who was 23 years of age. At first it was intended to bring the body in for burial, but owing to the stormy weather and the uncertainty as to when the steamer would leave, the body was embalmed and will be brought in later for burial. Mr. and Mrs. Wilt have the sympathy of a large number of citizens in their sad bereavement.

County Judge H. F. Goodspeed took up on Saturday the petition in regard to care of the family of C. E. Davis, who is in the county jail charged with rape upon his daughter, Bertha Davis, a girl 15 years of age. Mrs. Davis and the twelve children were brought to the city, and those needing clothing were provided with it at the county's expense. J. P. Stiehler was again put on the witness stand, also Mrs. Davis and her daughter, Bertha Davis, all of whom testified that Davis had failed to provide for the family and that it had no means of support. Judge Goodspeed took the matter under advisement to see how many homes in the county could be found for the children before he made an order for their care. Sheriff Crenshaw was appointed probator on Monday, finding homes for six of the children with families in the south part of the county, also for the second eldest daughter, who after being provided with new clothing, decided to stay with her mother.

Engineer Geo. L. Davis, of the Pacific Railway & Navigation Co., is expected in some time this month, and it is currently reported that work will start up again sometime in April. This, should it turn out correct, will be good news to the people of Tillamook County, for they are anxious to see operations renewed and the railroad completed. Taking the weather conditions into consideration for the past two months, with continuous rain and wind storms, but little construction work was possible. The shut down last fall will, however, delay the completion of the railroad until the fall of next year, nearly two years hence. Reports of an electric road being built down the Wilson river appears to have been revived, but we have failed to ascertain that there is any foundation for the report. It is generally thought, as money matters have righted themselves, prospects look decidedly bright for Tillamook county this year, with work to start up again in a few months on the railroad.

OFFICE SEEKERS NEED NOT APPLY.

How a Few Persons Elected Themselves to Office for Five Years.

As the Press was not invited to the meeting, we were unable to answer a number of questions which were asked us on Saturday by one of our subscribers about the Dairy & Commercial Association. It was news to us when he produced a circular, stating that the association was formed and that officers had been elected. Other dairymen came into the office later in the day and wanted to know what new thing was being hatched out, as they were not invited to participate until the association was formed and its officers elected for five years, which appeared to them a somewhat peculiar procedure.

For the information of the public we may state that a dairymen, a banker and two real estate agents made up the personal of the meeting, viz., Gus Kunze, James Walton, jr., Ralph Ackley and E. H. Whitner. There may be one or two more present, but if so, we can get no information to that effect, the particulars being refused the Press. All of the above named persons were elected to office, and James Williams was elected vice president, although he was not present. Since then a number of circulars have been sent out, graciously informing the dairymen what "a number of citizens representing the dairy and commercial interests of Tillamook County" intend doing if they can induce the dairymen to bite. There was no effort made to make it a representative meeting of the dairymen and business men of the city is shown by the fact that in the same building, within twenty feet of the place where the meeting was held, Representative A. G. Beals, a prominent dairymen, has an office. Within two hundred feet is the office of F. R. Beals, the owner of a cheese factory and the largest dairy in the north end of the county. Within one hundred feet is the office of Carl H. Erlach, secretary and salesman for several large cheese factories, who sells more cheese than any other man on the Pacific Coast. Within a short distance is the Tillamook County Bank, whose cashier, M. W. Harrison, is a dairymen of twenty six years' experience in Tillamook, with one of the largest dairy herds in the county. Neither were the business men of the city invited, who knew nothing of the meeting until a week after it was held.

The circular sent out by the officers is as follows:
At a meeting held in the office of Ralph Ackley on the 20th inst. a number of citizens representing the dairy and commercial interests of Tillamook County, formally organized an association to be known as the Dairy & Commercial Association of Tillamook County, Oregon. The following officers were regularly elected for a term of five years: Gus Kunze, President; James Williams, Vice President; E. H. Whitner, Solicitor; Ralph Ackley, Secretary; James Walton, Jr., Treasurer. The election of an executive committee to consist of the representative Dairymen of the county was postponed until the first regular meeting of the Association.

The purpose of the Association briefly expressed are: To bring together representative men from all parts of the County to discuss the interests of the County; to devise ways and means of advertising the resources of our County; to men and money may be induced to come among us to help the development of them; to be instrumental in bringing about the appointment of a cheese and dairy inspector to the end that the dairy products of our county receive the recognition that their merit deserves.

Believing that in numbers their strength is the desire of the Association that every man in the county that has the best interest of the county at heart become a member and to that end it was thought wise to address this letter to the citizens of the county at large, enclosing a printed card, that the Dairymen and all others interested in the progress of the county as a whole might be given an opportunity to become members. As there is some very important business to come before the Association at its first regular meeting, which meeting will be held not later than the middle of January '08, it is earnestly requested that those to whom these cards are sent will give this matter their most careful attention and sign and return to the secretary not later than the first week in January so that a program of the first meeting may be mailed to the entire membership.

It was thought best not to specify any stated sum as dues but that the Association at its regular meetings specify the particular work that it wishes to accomplish and at such times provide for the funds to carry it out.
Believing that in such Association as the above named working along the lines that at proposes the best good will come to the county as a whole, you are most earnestly requested to give this matter your most careful attention, sign the enclosed card and return to the Secretary at your earliest convenience.
Most respectfully submitted,
THE DAIRY & COMMERCIAL ASSOCIATION,
By RALPH ACKLEY, SECRETARY.

The Headlight does not consider the formation of the association seriously, for the reason: It is a slack time with real estate agents, with nothing doing. This gives them plenty of time to concoct some scheme to help their business. Consequently we do not expect to see the dairymen fall all over themselves with a desire to join the association, for the way in which the association was formed and the officers elected, and for five years, will not appeal very forcibly to the dairymen, neither to the business men of this city, who were not consulted in the matter.

The dairymen have shown that they have the ability and intelligence to run their own business without the aid or advice of business men or others in this city, and if they think that a dairy association is a good thing for this county they should be allowed to run it and fill the offices themselves. Whenever some interests but in and undertake to run the dairymen's business, immediately there is friction. It was so when the creamery stock monopoly tried to manipulate and control the output of the cheese factories, and at the same time organized the Tillamook Board of Trade, with most of the officers with the combine's ear marks.

Another thing, it would look much better, and better for the interest of the city and county, instead of starting up another association, if everybody would put their shoulder to the wheel and help out the Tillamook Development League.

NEWS JOTTINGS.

From the South Part of the County.

F. E. Norton raised a rutabaga weighing 31 pounds.

Miss Noyes, teacher of the Oretown school is visiting a couple of days with her aunt, Mrs. Norton.

Woods has plenty of room to expand, for it has a population of 26 persons. Mr. Wilchart lives on the banks of the Big Nestucca and raises things worth mentioning. He showed a turnip measuring 32 1/2 in. in diameter and 22 1/2 in. in depth and potatoes a foot long, yielding sixteen bushels to a space 75 ft. square.

Your correspondent heard of a little fistic exercise as the result of one young man kissing another fellow's girl in a dialogue.

Night perambulators are reported as entering several houses in the neighborhood where D. C. Collins lives, without stating their business, but have been frightened away without anyone being able to make their acquaintance.

People in this country are disposed to be nice, but there are conditions in which justice should be mixed with nicety.

This is the 27th and no mail at Woods from Portland since the 24th.

There were seven trees and one slide in the road between L. A. Hoyt's and Mr. Pinigan's, and the bridge between the latter's place and Roenic's is unsafe for horse or vehicles.

Fire broke out in the old cheese factory at Cloverdale on Christmas day about noon, which destroyed that building and came near setting fire to the drug store, Courier office and Chas. Nelson's residence. The Hushbeck family and Mrs. W. A. Gage and daughter lived in the building and it is said that the loss will be about $1,200.

Inquiring at Diamond & Webb's saw mill the way to Woods, the men pointed it out with the remark: "You'll see the road we have been kicking about, after which your correspondent was sitting on the porch of the Sandlake school house meditating upon the picturesqueness of this here, er, er, trail.

There was a meeting at the new Grange hall at Oretown on Saturday. The building is 26x60 feet, and nicely decorated with pictures and flowers. The program was interesting, they having dealt with the important subject of "Government Ownership" and kindred topics.

J. K. Craven, a resident of Tillamook county for 21 years, takes a lively interest in the breeding of better stock, and has a forceful way of expressing it. He has attained some success in the growing of clover.

C. A. Fletcher is preparing to build a new house.

J. M. Weiss and sons are operating their saw mill at Meda, which has a capacity of nine thousand a day.

H. A. Hess reports a very profitable season in the dairy line.

H. D. Beckwith is building a new porch across the entire front of his residence.

Your correspondent visited the Broontown springs and found it a prospective summer resort, and was taken into the coal mine, which is now 75 feet underground. The coal is showing a better quality to every foot advance. Had also the privilege of seeing it burn, hence ascertained something of its quality.

Had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Broontown's family, and if his boys and girls could be labeled, "Raised in Tillamook," it would be a good advertisement for the county.

Met Mrs. Gage and daughter on their farm and learned from them the story of the fire at Cloverdale, which left them almost destitute.

There was a candy pull at the home of U. S. Edwards, of Sandlake, on December 25th, in which relatives and friends took part. Besides the main features, dancing, music and good stories were enjoyed, with a generous spirit of hospitality.

J. J. Hudson, who contributed to the relief of the Davis family, is glad to know that he was able to give aid to innocent children, but is not the man to support the shiftless.

D. T. Werschkul is heart and sole in the desire to better the breeds of cattle and hogs in Tillamook County. Holstein is his favorite breed of cattle—being a large machine, and production in proportion.

Albert Kinnaman's daughter Cecil has gone to Bay City.

Dan Nichols is now on his place at Hemlock. This is leap year, and he has taken to the woods, at least, this is the impression we gather.

The literary at Hemlock is pronounced a success.

S. J. Redberg expressed his approval of the Headlight and its principles, with the statement that he was going to renew in a few days.

T. A. Porter informs us that vetch growing is a success in the vicinity of Oretown.

The good citizens of Meda reminded us that the time will come when taxpayers outside the city of Tillamook will refuse to sanction licenses in any form, for the personal aggrandisement of the few in the city, who make crime and get paid for it, while taxpayers in general foot the bills.

C. W. Goers and son are keeping forty-five cows at their farm on Slab Creek. They inform us they are not farming for beauty but for profit. Notwithstanding this fact the natural beauty with which they are surrounded is unsurpassed by anything we have seen in Oregon.

A. W. Fletcher and S. H. Rock, residents of this county for 27 and 30 years respectively, expressed their surprise at the action of the Governor in the Humbree case.
