A YEAR'S RECORD.

Of Hatched, Matched, Dis-Matched and Dispatched in Tillamook County.

We give below the records of Births, Marriages, Deaths and Divorces in Tillamook County for the year 1907, which show but little deviation in figures from the previous years, although there may be a few births and deaths which have not been recorded. There were 80 births, an increase of 15 over the previous year. The marriages numbered 28, a decrease of 7 from the previous year. Death claimed only 31 persons, being a decrease of 3. The divorce court separated 4 mismatched couples, while in 1906 there were 3. There would have been a large increase in divorces, but the governor's holiday proclamations prevented the holding of court, which stopped quite a few from getting on the matrimonial market again.

Of the 31 deaths, and the cause of the same, 6 are in the fatal class, viz., 3 persons were drowned, 1 committed suicide and died from gunshot wounds, 1 died from too much bad whiskey, and 1 from an overdose of wood alcohol. As to the causes of some of the other deaths, 2 dropped dead out of the 4 deaths from heart failure, 1 to surgical shock, 3 to paralysis, 1 to measles, 3 to typhoid fever, 1 to tuberculosis, 1 to pneumonia and 4 to senility, while a few others died from old age, complicated with other ailments.

There were only 6 deaths of children from the age of 1 year and under. One 7, one 8 and one 13. Then it went to: One 23, one 27, one 36 and one 38, and then jumped to two 50, one 51, one 53, four 57, one 59, one 61, one 72, one 83, one 85, one 87, and one 90 years, being the oldest.

Of the 80 births 44 were males and 36 females, and of the 31 deaths 20 were males and 11 females, one half being over the age of 50 years when they died.

Rank Foolishness.

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, of Empire, Ga. "I have used New Discovery seven years and I know it is the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at Chas. I. Clough's drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

The Pure Food Law.

Secretary Wilson says, "One of the objects of the law is to inform the consumer of the presence of certain harmful drugs in medicines." The law requires that the amount of chloroform, opium, morphine, and other habit forming drugs be stated on the label of each bottle. The manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have always claimed that their remedy did not contain any of these drugs, and the truth of this claim is now fully proven, as no mention of them is made on the label. This remedy is not only one of the safest, but one of the best in use for coughs and colds. Its value has been proven beyond question during the many years it has been in general use. For sale by all Druggists.

DOGS IN BAGDAD.

Why They Do Not Loot the Food Bazaars of the Town.

Bagdad is alive with more or less hungry dogs. How is it that such packs of furies do not loot the bazaars of the town? The explanation is as simple as it is interesting. The Bagdad shop fronts are absolutely open. The goat and mutton carcasses are hung where every dog that runs can reach them. But time out of mind the first glance of a dog's eye toward forbidden dainties has been visited with the swift descent on him of a cudgel or a hatchet.

On one of a series of marches parallel with the Euphrates I chanced to meet a desert horde whose greyhounds are in high repute. Buying a brace of saplings, I took them on with me, lodging them in the tent and doing everything that was possible to make them feel at home.

Surprising to relate, they obstinately refused both food and water. The remains of a venison pasty seemed at once to attract and repel them. A pan of water appealed to them even more strongly, but they would not go up to it.

After a time a Persian muleteer explained the mystery in a twinkling. No sooner did he upset the water and toss the viands on the ground before them than the silky eared ones ran in like Trojans and made up in a few moments for a day's fasting.

Accustomed to lap from the river, from irrigational channels and from sheets of surface water and reared among people who do not use tables, they had been taught by many a buffet to keep their noses out of cooking pots and vessels of every description.

In Bagdad man and beast alike drink of the great river, which also forms the arterial common sewer of the city, the place where clothes are washed and the "Stygian wave" into which is dragged every beast of burden when it is not left to lie where it has fallen.

The muddy bottom, with the water ever receding, the exposed surfaces thick with impurities and the tropical sun "sucking up all the infections," must be a regular hotbed of miasma and pestilence.

And yet, mirabile dictu, Bagdad is not, as eastern cities go, unhealthy. But let the reader imagine to himself what the Bagdad of the foregoing slight description would be like without the dogs that scavenge it. Refuse animal and vegetable matter is largely disposed of by the dogs, in situ.—Nineteenth Century.

ARCTIC COTTON PLANT.

The Climax of Nature's Irony in the Far North.

The climax of nature's irony in the arctic is the cotton plant, says the Circle. Wherever cotton blooms, declares the miner, ice is not far below. One may trudge for miles through fields of cotton, the white, silky tops swaying defiantly in the arctic breeze. The blossom is silky, dainty, blusive as the down of our own yellow dandelion. From the beginning of June on until August the tundra is white with the cotton plant. Unlike the cotton of the southern states, the fiber is short and soft, having more of the texture of silk than of cotton.

The cotton plant will in all probability some day be the means of developing an Alaskan industry giving employment to thousands. Today, however, the cotton fields are purely decorative—a splendid sweep of immaculate bloom in a bleak, timberless landscape guarded by hills ever hung in veils of deepest purple. In great bouquets it is occasionally met in a miner's shack, while not a few housewives gather the cotton for pillow filling.

Throughout the cotton fields flowers bloom in abnormal splendor, as becomes a country in which the sun shines continuously during summer's voluptuous reign. It is an intoxicating joy for the flower hunter to gather great armfuls of purple larkspur, bluebells, monk's head, primroses, sweet peas, beautiful purple and red asters large as the most cultivated, lilies of the valley, baby breath, yellow arrow, sage rose, pink and white arctic geranium, crimson rhododendrons and giant fireweed, all growing on the hill-sides. To enumerate further is to reproduce a florist's catalogue.

Concerning "Christian Names."

May one interject a gentle protest against the use of the phrase "Christian name" in this connection? The Romans said praenomen, the French say prenom, and we have used the word "forename" for the last 365 years. It is as incorrect to speak of the Christian name of a Jew, for example, as it would be hopeless to expect a Christmas card from a Jewish rabbi. Again, the middle name of a Roman was his gentile name—that of his gens. On the surface, what a pretty confusion of ideas it would have been to have spoken of the name as at once gentile and Christian!—London Notes and Queries.

Fiction Ready Made.

"Have you ever read any of Mrs. Galley's stories?"
 "Yes; they're awfully improbable, aren't they? I don't see how she imagines such things."
 "She doesn't imagine them. She just makes notes of the excuses her husband gives her when he gets home late at night."—Philadelphia Press.

Comfort.

Little Mary's mamma gave Uncle Ben, the coachman, directions to drown a lot of kittens, but not to let Mary know of it. She heard of the order in some way and said to Ben, with tears in her eyes: "Uncle Ben, please warm the water. It will be more comfortable."—St. Louis Republic.
