Boycotts Declared Unlawful.

A decision applying to the entire country in that rendered December 17 by Justice Gould in the Supreme Court of the declaring boycotts to be illegal is binding upon all persons comprised in its terms, including individual members of the American Federation of Labor wherever they reside, and all other persons acting in concert with them. In the suit referred to the Buck Stove and Range Company of St. Louis asked an injunction against the American Federation of Labor, alleging unlawful combination and conspiracy on the part of the defendants and others associated with them to destroy the plaintiff's business by means of a boycott. In granting the injunction the court defined a boycott to be "a combination of many to cause a loss to one person by coercing others against their will to withdraw from him their beneficial business intercourse through threats that, unless others do so the many will cause serious loss to them."

It is important for all citizens to realize that it is a criminal offense under the statutes of the United States, punishable by imprisonment in the Penitentiary, for not more than three years, for any two or more persons anywhere in this country to conspire together to evade or defeat this decision by committing any of the acts prohibited by it, and that they are liable to prosecution therefor by the federal authorities, whose duty it is to protect the United States Courts against all attempts to defeat the course of justice as pointed out in their decisions. In a word, a boycott anywhere in the United States is a violation of the law, subject to prosecution in any United States Court. The idea that the decision applies only to the District of Columbia is a mistake. It essentially touches every citizen in every state, and prosecutions under it can occur in any part of the country.

Study of Mine Calamities.

At a time when the subject is of peculiar importance the United States Geological Survey has issued a bulletin, long in preparation, on "Coal Mine Accidents, Their Cause and Prevention." It is shown by the facts furnished that the ratio of mining fatalities is much larger in the United States than in other countries. In seventeen years the number of miners killed in the United States has been 22,840. The list of killed was 1057 in the year 1891 and 2061 in 1906. This year's total will be much larger, three coal mining catastrophes having occurred in the present month. In the United States the mining fatalities last year were 3.40 per 1000 employed, in Great Britain, 1.29; Russia, 1.60; Belgium, .94, and France, .84. This is an alarming disparity, and, moreover, the ratio, which increases with us, has declined abroad during the last ten years.

The experts of the Geological Survey says that the natural conditions in the United States for extracting coal are the best found anywhere, but the regulations are far less stringent. Many miners in this country speak only a foreign language and are inclined to be reckless in trying to increase production. In British mines, where dangerous gas is found, all explosives are in charge of a "shot firer," who works only when the miners have left for the day. The expert opinion, and it was written before the latest calamitous warnings, is that explosives in this country are not handled with sufficient care in the presence of gas or dust, or their combination. Deadly risks are taken in these particulars and in the proper support of coal roofs, the fall of which causes many fatalities. Dynamite and electricity are used freely in American mines in the presence of gas and explosive dust. The hundred of lives just sacrificed are a weighty admonition to legislatures, as well as to all engaged in mining.

Dr. N. M. Owensby, of Baltimore, has created something of a stir in medical circles by asserting that dementia precox, or precocious insanity, had been cured in recent cases by the use of the knife to relieve the thyroid gland of an excess of certain chemicals in the blood or the secretions. Out of five cases so treated, all but one are said to have recovered, whereas the disease has generally been regarded as incurable. Dr. Spitzka, of the Jefferson Medical College, however, says that the theory on which Owensby operated has not been proved.

The California Fruit Canners' Association has just given the largest contract for cans on record to the American Can Company of Pittsburg, calling for 300,000,000 cans to be delivered at the rate of 60,000,000 a year for five years. It is made known that terms on this order were forced upon the Steel Trust by the threat of building can works in California by the fruit growers.

A solar engine exhibited by a Philadelphia inventor looks like a garden hotbed, 18 by 60 feet, and consists of two layers of glass beneath which are coiled iron pipes filled with ether. It is said to work fairly well. Long before the coal supply is exhausted the need of it is likely to be overcome.

It is pointed out that if each inhabitant of the United States will save 5 cents a day for one year the total will be $1,551,250,000. As somebody would have to pay for the children it might be necessary to call on old bachelors to make up the deficit at the end of the year.

The United States Life Saving Service, after a careful test, has demonstrated the efficiency of the power lifeboat in rescuing persons from wrecked vessels, and has arranged for the addition of several of these boats to the equipment of the life-saving service along the New England coast.

A man at Richland, State of Washington, claims to be making an average of $4.15 a day from less than 500 hens. It takes good generalship to manage so large a flock, but the strictly fresh egg is advancing all the time in the estimation of consumers.

Elaborate plans are being made by the farmers of Missouri, Kansas and Arkansas for the regular January wolf hunts. It must be very exasperating to the president to have these festivities going on at a time when it is impossible for him to get away from the capital.

It has been decided that the width of the Panama Canal shall remain at 100 feet, which is greater than that of any existing ship. If the sea is to be filled with bigger leviathans, Uncle Sam will agree to enlarge the canal.

Congress will see that no more currency famines occur, and at the same time will take care that the money in circulation is all kept as good as gold and free from anything in the nature of wild inflation.

Alliances of American fortunes with impetuous princes, counts and earls have always proved disastrous. The money might better be devoted to hospitals, libraries and the good roads movement.

That one-tenth of all the deaths of the year in Pennsylvania were due to tuberculosis is shown by the records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, the total of victims of this disease being 10,780.

A new precedent has been established by the Idaho courts, viz.: that nobody can be convicted upon the testimony of Harry Orchard.

The financial situation is rapidly clearing, with a prospect that it will shortly be better than ever. It is hard to keep a good country down.

The biggest January dividends on record go with the alleged panic. But just the same, leave out the groundless flurry next year.

[TO EDITOR OF TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.]
DEAR SIR,—Mr. Chase made the statement in the city council meeting that I had tried to get into office here several times and could not be elected on my own merits. I wish to state that I have never tried to get office. I permitted the law abiding citizens to run me for city marshal four years ago. Now I wish to say to Mr. Chase that I never paid a fine of $100 for making a gambling joint out of my own residence. If Mr. Chase thinks these are the merits required for election I am glad that I am not eligible for election. And I wish also to say that it was improper for the mayor-elect to jump onto an officer for doing his duty, telling him that he would not be marshal only a short time longer. Later Mr. Johnson came to me and said that I was the man for night watchman; that they elected Zimmerman for spite and that he did not have any backbone. Mr. Johnson shook hands with me the next day after I was appointed night watchman, saying he hoped we would get along all right; that he would treat me right and he hoped I would do the same. I told him that I did not take spite out on anyone, but just tried to do my duty, but the next Mr. Johnson informed me he would not sign the warrants for my salary until the supreme court of Oregon compelled him to do so. I did not seek the office of night watchman. A number of business men wanted me for the position was the reason I consented to serve, and while I was special policeman I did my duty, no matter who did wrong, first advising those who were in the habit of drinking too much to go home. Another thing, I was not found in Stephen's pool room, playing pool at night, as Zimmerman was when he was night watchman, but was out doing my duty as special policeman and night watchman. I will let the people judge as to the merits in the case.

The Pure Food Law.

Secretary Wilson says, "One of the objects of the law is to inform the consumer of the presence of certain harmful drugs in medicines." The law requires that the amount of chloroform, opium, morphine, and other habit forming drugs be stated on the label of each bottle. The manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have always claimed that their remedy did not contain any of these drugs, and the truth of this claim is now fully proven, as no mention of them is made on the label. This remedy is not only one of the safest, but one of the best in use for coughs and colds. Its value has been proven beyond question during the many years it has been in general use. For sale by all Druggists.

A Cure for Misery.

"I have found a cure for the misery malaria poison produces," says R. M. James, of Louellen, S.C. "It's called Electric Bitters, and comes in 50 cent bottles. This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of lame back. Sold under guarantee at Chas. I. Clough's drug store.
