

THE ENVIRONMENTS OF TILLAMOOK CITY.

Responsible for the Young Men and the Young Girls Doing Wrong.

What does the Headlight think of so many young men being arrested in this city on so serious charges? We are not surprised in the least. The environments and the long and repeated violation of law in Tillamook City by those who should have shown the boys and girls better example are responsible in a large degree. Tillamook City has been a hard place to raise young men and young girls, as most every parent can testify to, and some to their heart's sorrow and grief. When men, and even business men, who probably pride themselves on their respectability, persist in violating law, and to avoid being arrested themselves, use young men to boot-leg for them, selling whiskey to boys; and certain women, who, having lost their chastity, associate with young girls, it is no wonder to us that some of the young men are headed for the penitentiary and some of the young girls destined to become prostitutes. It is a shocking thing for parents to contemplate and a shocking thing for the Press to chronicle. It is the truth, however. Another thing which is a pernicious evil to the young people of the city, and that is the pool rooms and the dance hall. Boys and young men are allowed in the pool rooms, loitering away their time, playing cards and pool, remaining out late at night, and young girls, some of whom are school girls, are allowed to attend the dance hall and who also remain out at all hours of the night, and falling into bad company, have become intoxicated. But, then, these are some of the environments and the atmosphere in which so many of our citizens have been content to raise their children, and whenever a moral question is raised, a number of fathers line up and vote with the law breakers who are ruining their children for life. True it is that parents have not taken care of their boys and girls, for in allowing them to roam the streets, frequenting the pool rooms, the dance hall, and getting into bad company concealing crime, we must say they deserve some censure, for when 30 young men can start out, as they did on Thursday night, to commit premeditated crime, it is a wonder that some of them were not killed, for the citizens are tired of their deprecations. On the other hand, Tillamook City has excellent public and high schools and academy which are doing splendid work for the rising generation, fitting and preparing them to become useful, industrious, respectable citizens, but even before some of them have graduated, they have become contaminated with the lowering, degrading influences in the city. The Headlight wishes to impress this upon the citizens. It is impossible to have a moral atmosphere in which to raise the young generation as long as we have individuals here who violate law, or get young men to do so for them. They care nothing for the safety and tranquility of the city nor for the future welfare of the young men and young girls as long as they add to their pecuniary wealth. It was a serious and grave mistake to run out of town a man who was sent here to detect the law breakers, which soon produced its results in the young men becoming more daring, thinking, no doubt, that if anyone squealed they would be run out of town as well. Although the time is past in which any leniency should be shown the young burglars, our sympathy is with the parents who have to raise children in such an atmosphere, with the hope that in future that those who are morally guilty of pulling down and ruining the young men and young girls will be the next to be rounded up, jailed or told to leave town.

The Headlight will discuss the moral condition of the city from time to time, with the object of raising it to a much higher standard, and if we bring business or professional men and business places under the limelight, we shall do so without fear or favor, for it is time that the citizens of Tillamook City had more moral backbone and stood together for the purity of the home and the upbuilding of the city.

Editorial Snap Shots.

The chicken house burglars. Next, please, Mr. Sheriff.

It is a good thing for some of the boys who live out of town that they were not in the city last Thursday.

"It is a good thing!" was the general remark by the citizens when they heard that Sheriff Crenshaw had rounded up the youthful burglars.

Since Jimmy, the Sailor, has turned newspaper man and molder of public opinion, he will be eligible for the presidency of the Connor Club.

If the pool and card rooms had been closed up on Sundays, as they should be, a disgraceful fight would have been avoided in one of these places on Sunday last.

It is predicted that all manner of bad characters will drift into Tillamook as soon as the railroad is completed. It seems to us that the last few weeks the home production have become most desperate and daring.

Never mind, Prof. Rutherford, better luck next time. It was a good beginning for the high school pupils, and after all, perhaps, it is the best thing that could happen, for it will put the pupils on their metal, with a determination to win out next time. Grit your teeth, boys, and go for it again.

We would suggest to the young men who have nothing to do but loiter away their time in the pool rooms that they go to the high school or academy and learn book keeping, short hand, type writing, etc. We are sure that Prof. Rutherford or the Sisters would be pleased to have them learning something that would be of benefit to them through life, instead of so much card and pool playing.

The High School Banquet.

Following the Tillamook-Astoria high school debate on Friday evening, a banquet, with plates laid for 60 guests, was given by the High School in honor of the participants, and proved by no means the least pleasant feature of evening. The tables and hall were tastefully decorated with evergreens, and the supper, served by Mrs. Frank Wheeler, was all that the most fastidious could desire. Besides the debating teams and the members of the High School, there were present: Mayor S. S. Johnson, ex-Mayor and Mrs. H. T. Botts, Prof. and Mrs. W. R. Rutherford, Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Hare, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Whitney, Mrs. Jeffries, chaperon, and Supt. Clarke, of Astoria, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. King, Miss Davis, Miss Mildred Lister, Miss Birdie Wheeler, Miss Edna Garfield and Miss Margaret Heris.

Mr. Botts, who acted as toastmaster, amongst other things, said: "This evening has been an occasion of pleasure and of pain. I presume for some it has been an occasion of pleasure all the way through, and for all of us a pleasure to a certain extent, but for some of us there have been some painful things, though we are not going to let that disturb us very much. We were all very much pleased to know that these young people from Astoria and our own young people debate the question of the government owning and operating railroads. We were pleased to see them acquit themselves in the manner they did all the way through, but, of course, it could not but be a great disappointment to a great many of us to hear the result announced as it was. Defeat has always seemed painful to me, even though we are expecting it, but it comes when we are not expecting it, it is doubly hard."

Responses were made by the Rev. D. H. Hare, on "The Winners"; by Mayor Johnson, on "The Losers"; by Supt. Clark, of Astoria, on "Things Worth While"; by Miss Birdie Wise, of the Astoria team, on "What it means to prepare for a Debate"; by John Aschm, on "The Astoria Team"; and general remarks by Prof. Rutherford.

Much effort was exerted by the juniors, seniors and teachers of the High School to make the event a success, aside from the hard work put in by the team itself, and the losing the decision; yet, altogether they did well and deserve much praise and credit.

Several visitors called at the lifesaving station Sunday.

Captain Howard Emery, of the Revenue cutter service and superintendent of constructions of lifesaving stations on the Pacific Coast, came in on the Elmore. He inspected the life station Thursday and found the same completed except a few minor particulars, which is a great credit to Mr. Temperley. He also inspected the locations for a new boat house, and a look-out, near the green hill, about four thousand feet north of the station. He left on the Elmore Saturday to inspect the other stations along the coast. While here Captain Emery was the guest of Ass't. Superintendent Temperley and family.

Chas. Temperley has been kept quite busy since the arrival of his typewriter.

Mrs. Frank Hobson is getting along quite well. She is able to do her work now days. John is looking more pleasant since he has quit cooking for himself.
