Editorial Snap Shots.

It would be a good thing if a number of other young men could be put under parole and kept out of pool rooms.

What a "pleasantly" wind up after calling Mr. Todd "your county hired men" and accusing him of not paying county warrants.

Our contemporary has got onto the "Honking Machine's" track, for it copied creamery reports from our last issue. Honk! Honk! Honk!

It is contempt of court to induce any of the young men who have been paroled to do anything which the Court has forbidden, and persons who do so can be put in jail without a trial. The young men are under the jurisdiction of the court and no one should put anything in their way.

When the government officials make an investigation into the matter of shipping into Tillamook liquor for beer and with peculiar consignment marks, so as to keep secret as to who it is consigned to, there may be some squealing by the blind pigs if they find themselves in the federal court.

As Judge Burnett decided to give the young men who had been committing crime in this city a chance to reform, we certainly hope that they will comply with the Court's instructions, for in prohibiting them from entering saloons, pool rooms, to abstain from intoxicating drinks and to get to work, Judge Burnett saw the influences which were dragging these young men down and what was needed in getting them started right.

The flattering reports we have been publishing of the cheese factories in Tillamook county show what a successful and profitable year it was to the dairymen, the best in the history of the county, with a large bevy of dairymen prideing themselves upon the fact that they made over $100 on each cow last year, some going as high as $110 and $113 per cow. Every Old Bossy in Tillamook is a little gold mine, a genuine money maker.

We do not know who will be the next county officials, but we want to impress this upon the voters and taxpayers of Tillamook county, they ought to be well pleased the way county affairs and business have been conducted, for every official has done his level best to conduct his office economically and well, with uniform courtesy and kindness to those who have had business with them. The county officials have given the public good service, and they are entitled to a word of praise from the taxpayers.

There are a few "special interest" individuals who have their "hammer" out continually for the snap shot man. But we notice this that the ex-lunacties and the other "knockers" lack moral backbone and do nothing to boost and advertise the county. The snap shot man is no doubt, a bad, wicked kind of a fellow in the eyes of some people, but give the devil his due, he does some good, effectual advertising for the county. However, let the "knockers" "beef" as much as they please about the snap shot man, for that is about all the thanks a person receives in this city, anyway, for doing something to advertise the county.

The constant violation of the local option law at Albany is no doubt responsible for a drastic ordinance governing the city. Physicians granting prescriptions, it is said, must sign their names and give the date of issuance. The ordinance gives the city officers authority to search without a warrant any place where they believe liquor is being sold. Prescriptions issued for the sale of liquor, by a physician, must be filed separat from other prescriptions and kept constantly ready for public inspection. It seems that this kind of an ordinance was put into effect in every town where the local option law is in effect it would go a long way toward removing the claim that local option shifts the selling of liquor from the saloon to drug stores.—North Yamhill Record.

If it is a good thing to keep boys and young men who have done wrong out of pool rooms, there certainly must be good reason and good logic in prohibiting boys and young men who have not done wrong from frequenting them. The pool room question is one of importance to every city, and their demoralizing influences are being pointed out by the Press of the State. For instance, in Portland, it has been found necessary to pass an ordinance to prohibit minors from entering pool rooms and to compel them to close at certain hours at night. This is what the Oregon Journal has to say about it:

This is considered one of the best ordinances yet drafted for the city's morals and is expected to act as a great preventive of crime among young boys. Many lads have been arrested in Portland in the past few months for petty thieving and robbery whose downfall could be directly traced to the pool rooms. The boys became so infatuated with the games and associations found in the pool rooms that they soon took to stealing in order to secure money with which to pay for their games. Some of them even went so far in their efforts to illegally gain money that they held up pedestrians and entered houses.

SHERIDAN TRAIN WRECK

Three Killed and Twenty-Three Injured.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Feb. 11—Three were killed and 23 were injured, one very seriously, by the derailment of the Sheridan local on a short trestle bridge about three-fourths of a mile west of this city at 6 o'clock tonight. The dead are: Mrs. Edward Bates and 5-months-old daughter, of Forest Grove.

J. A. McDonald, of McMinnville.

Mrs. J. H. Brown, aged 60, of Sheridan, was badly crushed, and may not recover.

The accident resulted from a broken rail, one 30 foot section at the west end of the trestle bridge being splintered into four pieces by the weight of the heavily loaded coaches. The defective rail apparently did not give way until after the engine, mail and baggage cars had crossed in safety.

The smoksr was the first to leave the track, carrying with it two day coaches. The smoker and the first day coach ran over the ties for a distance of 20 yards and pitched from the trestle to the ground, ten feet below, striking on their sides. The second day coach also left the track, and turned only partly over.

Miss Grace Harding, of Gaston, a passenger in the rear coach, was thrown through a window into less than two feet of water beneath the trestle, but escaped uninjured.

The news of the wreck, which could be seen from the depot, spread rapidly, and residents of this city hastened to assist the injured, who were removed from the overturned cars through the windows on the upper side of the coaches. The dead were found in the forward end of the first day coach, immediately behind the smoker. Their bodies were removed to a local undertaking establishment.

That a score were not killed outright and that any of the occupants of the two overturned day coaches were not seriously injured is considered miraculous. That the list of fatalities was not larger was due to the fact that the train had not attained much headway. As it was the coaches were not badly damaged.

None of the injured sustained any broken limbs, and with the exception of Mrs. Brown, who received serious internal injuries, few required the services or a physician, their injuries consisting principally of bruises and slight cuts from broken glass.

When the passengers had been assisted from their uncomfortable position, such of the injured as resided at points further west were placed in the baggage and mail cars and shortly after 9 o'clock that part of the train which remained intact proceeded to Carlton and McMinnville, where several of the injured live.

Walter Hembree, of McMinnville, was fastened beneath the roof of the smoker, which rested on his leg. It was necessary to chop away a portion of the car roof before Hembree could be extricated. He was not badly hurt.

Mrs. Bates and child, of this city, who were killed, were on their way to Gaston, to which place they were arranging to move. They were accompanied to the depot this afternoon by Mr. Bates, who remained here to attend to details incident to the removal of his family.

A special train, consisting of two coaches, arrived at the scene of the wreck at 9:40 o'clock, bringing General Manager J. P. O'Brien, Assistant Superintendent G. C. Morris, Major D. E Hall, claim agent; Dr. George F. Wilson, Dr. J. O. Wiley and Dr. Ross, of the Good Samaritan Hospital.

Coaches were abundantly equipped with stretchers and medicine supplies for the comfort of the injured. En route here a score of beds were made up in one of the tourist cars for reception of the injured, whose condition, as reported at first, suggested need for their immediate removal to a Portland hospital. At Hillsboro the relief party was joined by Dr. J. P. Famesis and Dr. D. W. Woods, but when the train reached Forest Grove it was found that the most severely injured had continued as passengers on their abbreviated train for McMinnville and Sheridan.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure not known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutionanl treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Topic of Increasing Interest.

The temperance question is becoming an issue of importance. So long as it was dependent on the efforts of high-minded but impracticable dreamers who could see only the moral status of the situation, progress was slow except in dead and buried communities, like those in sleepy old Maine, where prohibition established its first stronghold. But now the question has been taken up on a purely business basis and large employers of labor are insisting on total abstinence on the part of their employes. The spread of the temperance movement, thus traceable to strictly economic influences, has encouraged the old line prohibitionists to come in for some of the credit for bringing about the change, and they are now endeavoring to interest Congress in drastic legislation.

Temperance news in yesterday's Oregonian covered a wide range of country as well as varying phases of the question. At Washington the Anti-Saloon League was urging the adoption of the Littlefield bill, prohibiting shipments of liquor into prohibition territory, and a representative of the California wine-growers was opposing it. At New Orleans Cardinal Gibbons gave out an interview opposing prohibition and favoring local option. A. Charleston (W. Va.) dispatch brings a report that the liquor interests have raised $150,000 to be used in defeat of the pending prohibition amendment. Here in Oregon Conrad Krebs, who has been attempting to organize a Hopgrowers' Union, tells a Salem correspondent that he has abandoned the fight and give as one of the reasons for the unsatisfactory condition of the market the spread of prohibition.

Along with all of this news on the great topic comes a statement from a prominent Milwaukee brewer showing that the "brewers, maltsters and distillers" of the United States annually consume in their products corn, barley, rye, hops, sugar, fuel, lumber, advertising, transportation and other commodities to the amount of $354,851,097. He also says that they pay state and Government licenses to the amount of $68,875,465, and city licenses and other taxes to the amount of $70,000,000. This brewer asserts that "the continued spread of prohibition and the destruction of the brewing and distilling industries will result in the allied trades in all lines of manufacture being made to suffer great losses through the destroyed market for their product." The prohibitionists will, of course, take exception to some of these statements, and will tell the brewer that the business ought to be destroyed.

But neither brewer nor prohibitionist, cardinal or grafter, hopgrower or wine merchant, can do very much for or against the issue. It is at the mercy of hard-headed business interests that desire sober men for no other reason than that their is a saving to be effected as compared with the work of men with brains muddled by alcohol. Much was accomplished along these strictly economic lines while times were good in the country. Even more may be expected if the present dulness continues, for between the drinking man and the teetotaler the employer of labor will not hesitate long, when the labor market is as well supplied as it is now.—Oregonian.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

The Postmaster General has issued the following order, which went into effect January 1st. It applies to all newspapers which circulate through the mails:

A reasonable time will be allowed publishers to secure renewals of subscriptions, but unless subscriptions are expressly renewed after the term for which they are paid, within the following periods:

Dailies, within three months;

Weeklies, within one year;

they shall not be counted in the legitimate list of subscribers, and copies mailed on account thereof shall not be accepted for mailing at the second class postage rate of one cent a pound, but may be mailed at the transient second class postage rate of one cent for each four ounces or fraction thereof, prepaid by stamps affixed.

Consequently, all subscribers who are in arrears to the Headlight for one year or more must pay up as soon as possible, for the publishers will have to comply with this order, and subscribers will have to do the same.

Many Sleepless Nights, Owing to a Persistent Cough. Relief Fund at Last.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J Hayner, editor of the Burley, Colo., Bulletin. "Various remedies were tried each year, with little beneficial results. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was indeed marvelous. After three days the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since. This remedy is for sale by all Druggists.
