 A new creamery company was organized and incorporated on Monday, to be known as the Elwood Creamery Company, with the capital stock placed at $1,000, which has bought the Holden & Ziener factory at Fairview. Joe Donaldson is the president; Frank D. Bester, Ben Jacobs and J. Donaldson, directors; M. W. Harrison, treasurer; and Carl Haberlach, secretary. *
 A suit was filed in the circuit court by Albers Bros Milling Company, a corporation, against Lilah Snuffer and B. O. Snuffer, her husband, to recover $2000, and interest thereon, the action being brought to foreclose on certain property. Another suit has also been filed by the Albers Bros. Milling Company against B. O. Snuffer, being $1,000 balance due the milling company for goods furnished the defendant, which the company now sues to recover. *
 The fire drill at the public school on Monday showed that the pupils made their exodus in one minute and four seconds. Prof. Rutherford says the pupils can do better than that, as some of the younger pupils were a little slow in falling into line on Monday. The fire drill took everybody by surprise and one of the teachers thought they were up against the real thing. Although the building has large halls and wide stairs, the board is contemplating putting in fire escapes and re-modeling the door in the rear of the building. *
 Following are the names of the directors who have been elected by some of the creamery associations: *

 THREE RIVERS CREAMERY—Afel Nelson, N. P. Hanson. *
 ELWOOD CREAMERY CO.—Frank Bester, Ben Jacobs, Joe Donaldson. *
 Mr. Geo. A. Edmunds returned to the city this morning from Portland, where he had gone in the interest of the business men and dairymen in connection with the establishment of a new line of steamers between Tillamook and Portland. He reports that the money has been raised to buy the Anvil, and if that vessel is found suitable and comes up to the requirements and is found to be what she is represented to be, those who have become financially interested in the new line have promised to have her running in about two weeks. Captain Olson and others have gone to California to inspect the vessel, and should they close the deal they will bring her to Oregon. As to freight rates, $4.50 per ton will be the highest, with a lower rate for feed and other bulky goods. *
 Advertising the county. Well, didn't our distinguished friend, Rollie, give us all a lot of "hot air" about a mammoth special edition, which, evidently, honked itself to death. We do like to see people make good. *
 Advertising Tillamook county should not be done spasmodically, nor in the hot and cold style so characteristic in Tillamook. For the next few years it should be taken hold of in a strictly business manner, and stuck to with bulldog tenacity. Then watch Tillamook grow. *
 With the construction of a bridge at the Johnson ford across the Trask river, this will mean the establishment of the first rural mail delivery in Tillamook as soon as the usual preliminaries are gone through. Tillamook county has been slow in obtaining some of these modern advantages in rural delivery, but it will get them, some day. *
 Our contemporary is authority for the announcement that the Pacific Navigation Company is going to charge "17 1/2 cents per pound for cheese shipped from this point to Portland." It ought to know what it is talking about, for it has taken up the cause of the transportation company. But, Bro., isn't that going it some when cheese is only 13c. per pound f.o.b. Tillamook? *
 "What we need is rigid inspection of cheese factories and dairies and a first class cheese inspector," say Carl Haberlach. That is what Representative A. G. Beals thought when he introduced a bill in the last state legislature for a dairy inspector for Tillamook county, which Governor Geo. Chamberlain vetoed. So do not get too gay, Carl, in recommending something which is of importance to the dairy interests of Tillamook, for the governor gave the bill and the dairymen of this county a "black eye" when he vetoed it. And the dairymen have not forgotten it yet. *
 The postal authorities have given then country newspapers until the 1st April to arrange their subscriptions to comply with the new postal laws. We do not want to discontinue sending the paper to any of our subscribers, but will have to do so after that date if subscriptions are not paid up, for we are sure that none of our readers want to see the country editors hauled up in the federal court charged with the heinous crime of giving their subscribers a little credit and using the mail for that purpose. So it has come to this state of affairs that the newspaper men will have to say: "No 'dough' no newspaper." *
 We understand that all arrangements have been completed for putting on the new line of steamers between Tillamook and Portland, enough money having been subscribed in the latter city to purchase the Anvil should that vessel be found suitable, and if not another vessel will be secured. It is reported that parties have gone to California to inspect the Anvil at Antioch, and if she is found suitable she will be placed into commission and brought here at once. All of the business men in Tillamook and Bay City and the creamery associations have agreed to stay with the new boat, and it is reported that the services of two live obliging agents have been secured, one for Portland, and one for Tillamook, to drum up business. *
 Judge McBride handed down a decision in the circuit court in Clatsop county that is of particular interest to all county clerks are entitled to retain the fees which they receive for naturalizations. The decision concludes as follows: "The clerk of this court in naturalization proceedings acts as an officer of the United States and he is entitled to receive such judge, commissioners and road master bossed the road supervisors; and the judge, commissioners, road master and road supervisor all bossing the men who worked on the road. From an economic and business standpoint, we are firmly of the opinion that the county court should organize a road crew once a year, put it in charge of a competent person, and with this crew do all the road work of the county, or as long as the money lasted. We believe that to be the best and proper system. There is this objection to it, however. It would deprive a number of farmers from road work and a source of income in some sections of the county. We hope the farmers will pardon us, but probably they will agree with us if they would consider the matter fairly, that a well-organized road crew, kept steadily at work, would do more and better work than the farmers who do a few weeks road work occasionally. Another thing, under the present system, no road supervisor would care to tell his neighbor, who might be working on the road at a slow gait, to get a move on or he'd fire him. This is a subject which has its pros and cons, but we have long since made up our mind that before many years most every county in the county will see the wisdom of adopting it from an economic point of view. *

 To Boost Tillamook County. *
 A most enthusiastic meeting of a number of business men was held on Friday evening at the city hall to put the Tillamook Development League on its feet and to provide ways and means whereby the league could carry on the work of advertising the county, with a view of obtaining new settlers and new industries. The League was in debt to the extent of over $200, as a result of going behind that amount in last year's fair. The money was readily subscribed to clear this indebtedness off, and another subscription list was started to help boost Tillamook county, some of the business men agreeing to pay $20, $10, $5 and so on per month, and when the subscription list was circulated on Saturday, the business men of this city had agreed to pay $150 a month to carry on the Development League work. A large delegation waited on the County Court on Saturday morning with a view of getting some help from the county, when the situation was plainly put to the court by a number of business men, and after the court had privately considered the matter, agreed to appropriate $50 a month for several months. This will make about $200 a month the Development League will have towards helping boom the county. Ralph Ackley is to open a real estate office in Portland, and he made a proposition to the League on Friday that if it would do some advertising in the Portland newspapers he would use his office for a Tillamook information bureau and would induce people to come to Tillamook. The proposition was thought to be a good one and was agreed to. The editors of the two local newspapers were appointed a committee on advertising. *
 Perhaps it is a little premature in this neck of the woods for us to recommend a change in the system of road construction. It is well known that the Headlight was opposed to the road boss system, in which the county judge bossed the commissioners; the judge and commissioners bossed the road master; the

A COMPARISON !

Tillamook Dairymen Receive 5c. per lb. for Butter Fat Above the Average Price in Portland.

AND 12c. PER POUND MORE

During the Greatest Flow of Milk and the Largest Amount of Business in April, May and June.

We give below the price paid for butter fat in Portland for 1907 by Hazelwood Cream Company, which averaged 30.73c. per pound, and the price paid some of the Tillamook creameries, which averaged about 5c. per pound above the price paid in Portland. We have taken the figures from the annual reports of the Clover Leaf, Red Clover and Maple Leaf, three large Tillamook creameries, and draw a comparison from the figures published by the Hazelwood Cream Co., so all the figures are accurate.

The averages in the Tillamook prices are taken from the total amount of butter fat in each factory, and had Hazelwood figured their average in the same manner, Tillamook would have been 7c. or 8c. per lb. ahead of Portland prices. It will be noticed that during the largest flow of milk, Portland price went down to 21c. per lb. for butter fat, whereas Tillamook prices, during the greatest flow of milk in April, May and June were over 35c. per lb., the Clover Leaf factory going as high as 37.55c. per lb. So it is clearly seen that instead of Tillamook being 5c. in advance of Portland prices for butter fat last year, Tillamook was, when the greatest flow of milk was on and largest amount of business was done, receiving about 12c. per pound more for butter fat than was paid in Portland. Rah! Rah! Rah! For Tillamook!
