CAKE IS A SURE WINNER.

All Republicans are Uniting to Approve Administration of President Roosevelt.

A great many Republicans are beginning to soberly ask themselves, "Why should we elect Governor Chamberlain to the United States Senate?"

And to this echo is answering, "Why, indeed!"

There is an overwhelming majority of Republicans in this State. In the ordinary elections they have often, and The Telegram believes wisely, looked to the men without reference to the party brand which they wore. In this way they have disciplined party and at the same time raised the standard of the local public service.

But in the matter of the election of a United States Senator they have presented to them a different problem. There they come in touch with the party of the Nation, the party of Roosevelt, of which they so warmly approve, and the verdict which they render the general public must accept as very largely the judgment of the voters of Oregon upon that administration. Our elections occur at an odd season of the year. We here fire the first gun of the Presidential election. The verdict is made up in advance, so far as the rest of the country is concerned. The Nation knows that the State is overwhelmingly Republican. It likewise knows that the administration of President Roosevelt has here received enthusiastic approval. That administration, disguise it as we will, is now on trial before the country. By the general masses of the people it has been warmly approved; by the corporate and plutocratic interests it is bitterly reviled, and, while little is being done openly, there is deep down a smoulding fire of resentment that cannot be extinguished. For the very reason that the plutocratic forces of the country hate the President, the masses of the people admire and approve him.

If under such circumstances such as these it goes forth that the people of Oregon in June elect a Democrat for United States Senator, the administration receives a blow in the house of its may supposed friends that it is conceivable have a serious effect upon the plans of the friends of the administration and upon the great contest in November following. It must not be forgotten that much quiet work has been done in recent months against the administration. One may see the effect of it upon every hand in every community—the clacquers busily engaged in hamstringing Roosevelt, and insiduously undermining the platform of principles which he has been steadily putting forth in his message and speeches. If a well kown and supposedly safe administration State falls by the wayside in June, the prestige of the administration severely suffers, and no man honestly faces the question can see it otherwise.

From this standpoint, which is someting considerably more than a partisan standpoint, the matter appeals to The Telegram. It believes with heatiness and sincerity in the advanced platform of principles with the President is laying down, in the elimination of special privileges and the equality of opportunity for which the President stands, and to propagate and develop which he has done more than any other man of his generation. It considers this a matter of patriotism, rather than partisanship, and it proposes to do whatever lies within its power to uphold and sustain the man whose very name typifies these modern enlightened doctrines. In doing so, it believes it expresses the profound conviction of an enormous majority of the people of Oregon, irrepective of their party affiliations.

In the present campaign—and the coming election Statement No 1 is not on trial, because both candidates for the United States Senate stand square toed and flat footed upon that platform, Neither is Chamberlain nor Cake, as such, on trial before the people. The question is one not of these men, but a broad National import, leading to a victory which will mean a shout of ringing encouragement to the National adminstration or a vital blow delivered in the house of its friends. This is the real proposition before the people of the State, and it is one of the main reasons why The Telegram will throughout this campaign give H M. Cake its heartiest support and urge as strongly as it may the voters of the State to sustain the administration at a moment when it is more seriously on trial than at any other period of its whole history.—Portland Evening Telegram

RING RULE POLITICS.

Yamhill Politicans Want to Deprive Tillamook County of Representation.

Talk about ring rule politics, the recent convention at McMinnville which nominated a legislative ticket was ring rule politics of the Simon pure order. For instance, at the convention in that city, only three Yamhill precincts were represented and none from Tillamook county, yet the convention nominated Sam Laughlin, of North Yamhill, for Joint Representative for Yamhill and Tillamook Counties, in opposition to A. G. Beals, of Tillamook, who placed his name before the people of both counties to be voted on and thereby became the people's choice for candidate for Joint Representative. The democrats talk a great deal about ring rule and boss rule in polictics, and howl about the politicians putting up a slate, but they preach one thing and practice the opposite, for they would have availed themselves of the primary election law had they desired that the people should make the nominations. The whole thing is a slap in the face by the democrats at the primary election law and a slap in the face at Tillamook, for they are endeavoring to deprive this county of representation in the state legislature. Will the people of Tillamook county stand for that kind of business or will they reseat it in June?

The Oregon City Enterprise has this to say about the combination to defeat the republican legislative candidates:

In Yamhill and Washington Counties the Statement No. 1 people have executed a deal to nominate candidates for the legislature, in opposition to the regular Republican nominees In this Democrats and so called Republicans have joined hands, so as to insure the election of Chamberlain by a Republican legislature, in the event of his receiving the popular vote in June It is a poisonous kettle of fish that the Republicans of Oregon are having to swallow. The man who is pock-marked has most to say against freckles.

The McMinnville News-Reporter, discussing the motives which prompted and controlled those who made up the convention in that city, among other things had this to say:

Anything to beat the Republican party Anything to get office. Are those not the main principles the democrats and the large part of their leading allies are following at the present time? There always is a certain number of disgruntled or self seeking people in this world, and, of course, they are in evidence now. The opposition has recently held a convention. They have claimed the Republicans were not in favor of the people ruling; that the G.O.P. was against the direct primary as well as against Statement No. 1. Yet the Republicans have followed both the spirit and the letter of the direct primary, while the democrats and their Statement No. 1 allies have evaded it, over riden its provisions, and immensely contributed to bring it into ill repute. In fact, they could hardly have done more to ruin it in such a short time. Not only did many democrats register as republicans (certainly not an honorable thing to do), but with a couple of exceptions refused to make any nominations for the primary election, though that law was made for them as much as for the republicans. . . . Did these or the others [meaning Laughlin and others] who have been engineering the present move care aught for or favor the direct primary? "Not on your tin type." They say that there are no candidates satisfactory to them on the ticket. Who is to blame for that condition? No one but these same fellows who kept anyone of that persuasion off the ticket, thus going back to the old convention system in the very worst form of ring politics.

That is what the News Reporter says about the convention which nominated Sam Laughlin for Joint Representative, which shuts out and leaves Tillamook in the cold If Tillamook people are wise they will vote for Beals in June, not only to show their contempt for democratic ring rule politics, but to give Tillamook county representation in the state legislature.

At the fusion convention held at McMinnville on last Saturday the only nominations made were Sam Laughlin for joint representative and J. G. Eckmann and M. F. Corrigan for representatives. Senator Caldwell and John Larkin were there to represent Newberg democrats, while one other lone citizen from Newberg who voted the republican ticket at odd times when in a good humor, was present and took part in the cut and dried proceedings.—Newberg Graphic.

The Crawford Case.

This case has been stubbornly fought through the various courts of the state, Robert Crawford, a former resident of this county, having sold his place on the Nehalem river to F. R. Beals, moved to Los Angeles, Cal., with his wife and two of his daughters. Afterwards, about September 1st, 1904, Crawford died in Portland, Oregon, leaving money, notes and personal property amounting to $2714.

An objection was filed in the County Court by Robert A., Albert, William and John J. Crawford, and asking that the widow be barred from her share of the estate. This case came up before Judge W. W. Conder, who decided that the widow be declared to have no right to any part of her husband's property. Counsel for Mrs. Crawford appealed to the Circuit Court. When the case was called in the Circuit Court a motion was interposed asking that the appeal be dismissed for the reason that the appeal was taken by giving oval notice in Court and not in writing. The motion was sustained by Judge Burnett, when an appeal was taken from the ruling of the Circuit Court to the Supreme Court, when Judge Burnett was reversed and the cause remanded back to the Circuit Court to be tried on its merits. When the case was finally tried before the last regular term of the Circuit Court, wherein Judge Wm. Galloway reversed the judgment and decree of Judge Conder in the County Court.

This case is an example of what often happens and will always continue to happen so long as we continue to elect our county judges without regard to their legal qualifications, or men who, if they ever had any will, close their eyes and ears to every statute and law that does not happen to suit their own ideas of justice. While it does not often happen that we find a man who is so warped in his own opinions that he will override the plain language of the statute, and go so directly contrary to all elementary law as was done in this case, yet under this part of our constitution, where we elect men who may be first class in every other respect, but who have no knowledge of the law, heirs and other litigants, as in this case, will often be put to much vexatious delay, and unnecessary expence to obtain their rights.

The German Coach Horse.

The German Coach horse is today the all-purpose horse of Germany and is employed in draft work of all kinds as well as to till the soil. He is also fit to parade and draw the commodious carriages with strength and style at a jaunty cheerful road gait, The demand for this breed of horses has gradually increased from year to year, as a result of their merit, up to the present hour, and it is no uncommon thing to meet large numbers of buyers in the coach horse districts of Germany, from France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, England, Russia and North and South America, which are taken to these various counties to improve breeding stock. The German coach horse has been regularity and thoroughly bred in one line for so many ages that he is enabled to become a predominant and most impressive sire, wherever used, all kinds of mares; hence it is an easy matter to go into a community where a German coach stallion has been in stud and readily procure perfectly matched teams of a quality and size that always command large prices for carriage and coach service. The farmer who breeds this class of stock can rear and develop it without being compelled to incure any expense outside of feed and the ordinary care such as would be required in the rearing of the various draft breeds. They run in height from 16 to 16½ hands high and weighing from 1350 to 1650 pounds. They mature very young and are fit for work at two years old, and for breeding purposes they are horses that produce all about one size, all bark, deep color, No horse can stand for service in Germany unless he either belongs to the government or has a certificate of soundness, breeding and individual appearance issued by an examining government committee. The owner of a commissioned stallion is liable to prosecution if he has in the same stable a non commissioned stallion, although he may be simply used for farm work. When a horse has such a certificate he may stand for service anywhere in the empire. The German coach horse being so purely and strongly bred, reproduce themselves with wonderful certainty, and in the colt you see almost the image of his sire. This is not surprising when we know these horses have been so carefully bred in one line by the German government for several hundred years, and are probably the purest horses that live. The get of these horses is the horse that has long been wanted, and suits the eye of everyone, as he has the color, size, style, action and finish.—Rural Spirit. Mr. B. O. Snuffer has brought into Tillamook one of the finest German coach stallions in the west. Margo is 6 years old, height 16½ hands, weight 1580 pounds, color beautiful bay, block points. Margo will make the season at Snuffer's barn. Terms made known on application.
