Closing out our line of House Hardware at cost.—Sappington & Co.

A surprise party was given on Friday to Mr. S. D. Lynch, when a most pleasant social evening was enjoyed by all. Those present were Mayor S. S. Johnson and wife, T. H. Goynes, Misses Ida, Mable and Stella Goynes, Mrs. Diehl, Mrs. Billings and Rev. I. V. Parker and wife.
 In a civil suit before Justice Sappington on Saturday, in which Carl P. Fuchs sued Herman Gessner for $35.00 and costs for a box of cigars, the justice gave a verdict in favor of plaintiff and $18.90 costs. As the interest was not allowed the plaintiff has filed a writ of review.
 I. W. Kelley and wife and son Robert, passed through here Tuesday on their way to Ocean Park. Mr. Kelley is here in the interests of the Portland Fish Co., as he was last year and will stay here till the season closes. He will ship out fresh fish and will salt down 50 to 100 tons for shipment. The boys will do well to patronize him as long as he pays as much as the cannery, as it will give more men and teams work.—Cloverdale Courier.
 A good chance to get a piano is now here. "That man Ward" from Eilers Piano House of Portland, has some samples of their best makes that he will sell cheap, if sold quickly. He also has an unusual offer to make to a few interested parties on a piano Eilers are making for themselves and are just introducing. The sample instruments are at Mercier's Bakery. Easy terms if wanted at cash prices, but don't wait as time is short.
 The past two weeks was ideal weather for haying, and most of the hay, with the exception of oat hay, will be harvested this week. For about two weeks the heavy fogs at night made the curing somewhat slow, and other than that the weather was beautiful for hay making throughout the season, with only a few small showers, which caused only a little delay at those times. It is another big hay crop which is harvested in Tillamook county, giving an abundance of feed for the dairy herds next winter.
 Attorney H. T. Botts returned to the city on Saturday from Salem, where he argued a case before the supreme court. While in Portland he saw some of the electric road people, who assured him that the electric roads would be built into Tillamook, but owing to so much building to be done in other places it will be a year or eighteen months before they will commence building into Tillamook. He could not find out when work on the Pacific Railway & Navigation Company's railroad would start up, for no one appears to know anything about it in Portland.

Cheese on the Jump.

The expected advance of half a cent in cheese came today, when the leading dealers quoted twins, triplets and daisies at 14 1/2 cents a pound, and Young Americas at 15 1/2c. At these prices the market was reported in good shape this morning and advices from Tillamook were that conditions there fully justified the advance.
 Late last week there was doubt in some quarters of the advisability of raising cheese prices at this time, some dealers holding that in the event of an advance the markets north and south would be loaded with Eastern products, narrowing seriously the field for the disposition of Oregon cheese. But the general sentiment today was that there was nothing to fear just now from Eastern competition. Eastern prices are still a few cents under local quotations, and it is expected that some Wisconsin cheese will be brought to the coast, but with production in this state falling away as it has been doing for several weeks dealers say there is sure to be a market for the surplus in this state and that there is no danger of any serious accumulation on account of the difference between Oregon and Wisconsin prices at this time.
 "Even if Wisconsin cheese can be laid down here for a trifle over 13 cents, we have no fear of this market going to the bad," said a dealer today. "While it is disputed in some quarters our experience has shown that the coast consumers generally are willing to pay a slight premium over Wisconsin prices for Oregon cheese, for the simple reason that it is a little better. Instead of a basket in the near future, the chances are that cheese prices will from this time on go slowly but steadily upward."—Telegram.
 The Remedy that Does.
 "Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. SERIOUS ACCIDENTS.

W. A. Wheeler Crushed Between Logs at Nehalem—Vosburg had Narrow Escape on the Bar.

A most serious accident happened to W. A. Wheeler, a brother to C. H. Wheeler, of the Nehalem Lumber Company, at Nehalem, on Tuesday afternoon. Large spruce logs were being loaded on a barge at the saw mill at Nehalem, by a special rigging fitted up for that purpose. The barge was about half loaded, and there was room left in the tier of logs for one more. It was swung into place ready to be lowered. Unseen, Wheeler jumped down to wedge one of the logs back, and just as he straightened up the large log was lowered, catching him at the hips, crushed him in a frightful manner. His hip bone was broken, the lower part of the abdomen crushed and Wheeler was otherwise badly bruised and injured.
 Dr. Boals was telephoned for and made a quick trip, Eugene Jenkins taking him to Nehalem in his automobile in a little over two hours, where a boat was in waiting for him to take him down the river to the saw mill. Dr. Boals did what he could for the unfortunate man, but as his injuries were of such a serious nature it was decided to take him to the hospital at Portland and as the Geo. R. Vosburg was in the river, Wheeler was taken on board of her on Tuesday morning, and Dr. Boals and his brother, C. H. Wheeler had decided to accompany him.
 Captain Loll did not wait for the tide, and in attempting to cross out over the Nehalem bar the Vosburg began bumping, and the sea being rough at the time, the steam connections became damaged, allowing the steam to escape from the boilers, and in a few minutes the steam was reduced to below 40 lbs. In this crippled condition the Vosburg succeeded in getting back into the river, but none too soon, for the steam gave out. She had a close call of meeting with a much more serious accident.
 Under the circumstances it was decided not to send Wheeler to Portland. Dr. Boals thinks he has a fair show of pulling through and making rapid recovery. Although badly injured, and painfully so, the broken bones grating one against the other when he was being moved, Wheeler is gritty under the painful and trying ordeal. He does not appear to be injured above the hips.

STATUS OF HEMBREE CASE

Probably a New Trial will be Granted in Allowing Larsen to Testify in Case.

Upon the night the jury returned its verdict of murder in the first degree against A. J. Hembree, the Sandlake murderer, counsel were given 30 days in which to file motion for a new trial. This time expired on June 24, at which time defendant's counsel appeared in court with three motions, one motion was for a new trial and another motion was to set aside the verdict on the ground that the Polk circuit court had no jurisdiction for the reason that the county was not the closest to Tillamook (contending that the closest county should be defined as the county whose county seat is located nearest to Tillamook), and another motion to postpone the sentence of the defendant until they could make an affidavit to the Circuit Court of Tillamook County at its November term to have the record changed to show that the defendant had not entered a plea to the indictment. At that time District Attorney McNary had no warning that these motions would be made and was not prepared to take them up, for he considered that he should file contrary affidavits showing that he did enter a plea. In order to secure these affidavits the District Attorney asked for two weeks time. The court then adjourned until July 9, at which time it heard arguments on the motion to postpone the sentence until the application to change the record could be made in Tillamook County. This motion was overruled at that time by Judge Burnett. The motion to set aside the verdict on the ground of want of jurisdiction in the Polk circuit court was then argued and the same was overruled. These two arguments occupied the entire day and as the Marion County term was to commence the following Monday, the Court continued the matter upon the hearing of the motion for a new trial until July 23. On July 23 the counsel for the defendant and the District Attorney argued the motion for a new trial. After the argument the Court stated its desire to take the matter under advisement, and fixed September 21, 1908, as the time to pass upon the motion. The main reason urged for a new trial is the alleged error of the court in admitting M. H. Larsen's testimony, and from the authorities it may be the court will be compelled to grant the motion for a new trial. When this matter came up at the trial the defence objected to Larsen's testimony, but after Judge Burnett had taken it under advisement over night, he allowed Larsen to testify. In case Judge Burnett should grant Hembree a new trial it would come up at the next December term of court at Dallas.

KELTON LOST AND SAVED.

Drifts From Moorings on Ebb Tide. Turns Turtle on Smith's Point.

ASTORIA, Ore., July 27.—The steam schooner Minnie E. Kelton, which has had such a frightful experience during the last few months, is now hard aground on the jetty sands below No. 8 buoy, and she will probably bleach her bones on the sands there.
 Yesterday Captain Genereaux, underwriters' salvor, succeeded in raising the Kelton from the flats below Smith's Point until she swung clear of the bottom, and telegraphed for tugs to tow the craft to the St. John drydock. The Kelton was held up by cables running under her and fastened to two barges moored alongside. A smaller barge belonging to the diver was moored to one of the larger ones. There were four men on board the large barges and one on the smaller one.
 On the ebb tide last night, the Kelton and the barges carried away the dolphins to which they were fastened, and dragging their anchors, drifted down to the mouth of the river, where the Kelton grounded on the jetty sands and capsized, and now lies bottom up, with her stern fast and her bow swinging with the tide.
 The Point Adams life saving crew rescued the men and succeeded in anchoring the smaller barge, but the two larger ones drifted out and were picked up this morning by the tug Tatoosh, fully five miles beyond the lights.
 There is now no hope of saving the Kelton and some believe she will be swept out to sea by the tide, while others say she will soon bury herself in the sands, where she lies. The Minnie E. Kelton, in command of Captain McKenna, was enroute down the coast with a cargo of lumber and encountered a severe gale, during which the vessel's house was carried away and she became waterlogged. When off Yaquina Head several members of her crew were drowned while trying to reach the land. Later Captain McKenna dropped his anchors and with the balance of his crew went ashore. Shortly afterward the steamer Washington picked up the waterlogged craft, towed her to this port and dropped her on the flats below Smith's Point, where she soon made a hole in the sands and where several thousand dollars have been expended in an attempt to float her. The Kelton was brought out from the Great Lakes by Captain McKenna for the Miami Lumber Company, to go on the Tillamook run, and the trip on which the accident occurred was her first on the Pacific Coast.

ASTORIA, Ore., July 28.—Late to night Captain Bailey of the tug Tatoosh placed the derelict Kelton alongside the wharf at Flavel, where she will be left until morning and then brought up to this city.
 After the tug had towed on the Kelton for about six hours this afternoon, the derelict suddenly turned over until she is now practically on an even keel. Her bow is stove in four inches which were on her decks are gone, her forecastle head has been carried away and a portion of her bulwarks smashed. The boilers are gone, but the engines are said to be intact.
 As the Kelton had been abandoned by the underwriters she will probably now be claimed by the O.R. & N. Company, lessee of the tug Tatoosh.
