

Editorial Snap Shots.

It is surprising how skittish some of the old plugs are when they see an auto.

There are manufacturers who want to see Bryan elected because they want to cheap labor.

It will be noticed that the Tillamook Water Works still hangs on to the city teat. Don't it ever intend to let go?

Bro. Tyler must be on Bro. Wingart's tracks by this time. We wonder what the Brothers think of them, anyway?

Tillamook City appears to be having a little sensational news every week. Next, please, to make a bee line for some other country.

The snap shot man tried to locate on Friday a lady who was minus one shoe and two hose, for those articles of wearing apparel were found on the sidewalk outside of the Headlight office that afternoon.

If the parties cannot settle the disputed ownership of the street opposite John Harter's residence, that the city allow it to be fenced in and used as a cemetery—a most fitting monument of the civic pride of Tillamook City.

W. C. Wolfe was one of the men who advocated lynch law upon Hembree, the Sandlake murderer. Well, what about it? Nothing. Only that a number of men have expressed themselves in about the same way in regard to Wolfe.

Everybody be a booster for a macadamized road from the Yamhill County line at Dolph to Clatsop County line. Wouldn't we all swell up if Tillamook had a boulevard of that description right through the county? And why not?

The person who is trying to take all the praise, but who has only been in the county a few months, for advertising Tillamook, is, surely, assuming a position which he is not entitled to. Self-praise appears to be the special feature of the special interest sheet these days.

It is just as well to take a prospective view of the situation as to whether Tillamook City will become a manufacturing center or not. It has some advantages as well as disadvantages, which can be overcome. That depends somewhat, at least, upon the citizens themselves as to whether they make united efforts to accomplish something. The first thing to take hold of is the improvement of the water front and the straightening of Hoquarton slough. Then encourage and give a glad hand to every industry that will create a pay roll, for the city will never amount to a great deal without it.

"Knocking!" That is what the special interests newspaper is doing when it continues its pinheaded criticism of Carl Haberlach. The same class of knockers last fall, boasted that they would do up the Tillamook County Bank when they obtained control of the newspaper, and, as is well known, malicious falsehoods were circulated. It was a mean, despicable thing to do and depositors in that institution soon saw through it and the purpose for which it was done. The rule or ruse spirit worked successfully when a few special interests controlled the city. That is a thing of the past now. But every once in a while the same rule or ruse tactics are resorted to. It was so in the case of the Tillamook County Bank and now in the case of Mr. Haberlach, representing, as he does, a large number of cheese factories.

The snap shot man wrote the longest paragraph in the good roads article in last week's Herald. It appeared in one of the Portland newspapers first and was then copied into the special interest sheet. Here it is:

There was a strong sentiment in favor of making a good wagon road from the Yamhill county line at Dolph to Clatsop county, provided the other counties will cooperate. The County Court has already taken up the matter of opening up the road between Tillamook and Clatsop counties, and at its present meeting has a bid to construct three miles of road around Necanic mountain which overlooks the Pacific Ocean. The road from this city to Nehalem is in fine shape, and as soon as the roads between Tillamook and Clatsop are complete it will make one of the most beautiful driveways in the State of Oregon and will have enormous summer travel. The disposition of the County Court is to put the road from Dolph in good shape as soon as possible, but as there are several bad pieces of road, especially through what is known as the Indian reservation in Yamhill county, it is necessary to get the cooperation of other counties before a good automobile road from Portland, through Washington, Yamhill and part of Polk, by way of McMinville and Sheridan, into Tillamook county and thence to Astoria, can be made.

"SKIDOED!"

E. E. Tyler Forges the Name of His Father-in-Law on Three Notes.

Some surprise was caused the first of the week when it became known that E. E. Tyler and wife had "skidoed,"—and for parts unknown—following the plan, somewhat of the Rev. A. E. Wingart when that gentleman did the scooting act, to the great surprise of those who had loaned the rev. gentleman some hard earned cash. And, like Wingart Tyler is a fugitive from justice, having forged his father-in-law's (S. A. Saling) name on a note given to S. A. Brodhead and to two others in possession of the Tillamook County Bank.

Wednesday last week Mr. Fisher, representing the Mitchell Company, came in to have a settlement with Tyler, who was owing the company a large sum of money for wagons, etc., when Tyler said that he would go out to W. A. Saling, his father-in-law, and get the money. Next day, about six o'clock, on Thursday evening, Tyler and his wife left here in a rig procured from Easter's barn. Previous to doing so they had gathered together their clothes and silver ware, Mrs. Tyler obtaining possession of a dress which was being made by a dressmaker on the excuse that she wanted to show it to a friend. The things were put in a trunk and taken away with them. It is said that when Tyler left he was loaded up and had a bottle of whiskey. They drove all that night and arrived at Sheridan in time to catch the train in the morning. Tyler left the team in a private barn and it was several days before it was located.

As Tyler did not return it created some uneasiness, and when it was ascertained that they had not gone to Mr. Saling's, it suddenly dawned upon those who were interested in his whereabouts that he had "skidoed!"

On Monday morning Mr. and Mrs. Saling came to the city, for they had stood good for what Tyler owed the implement house, about $1,600. It was then ascertained that the note held by Mr. Brodhead and two by the bank were forged. Tyler had asked his father-in-law to sign several notes, but he declined, saying that he had gone security as much as he could stand and would not sign any more notes.

In buying a residence and erecting a large store building without much cash, he became embarrassed and used money in this way which should have been sent to Mitchell Company, and when pressed for money or security, instead of making a clean breast of it, he resorted to forgery in signing his father-in-law's name to a number of notes.

Tyler is owing Mr. Brodhead $1,600 on the building, which is protected by a mechanic's lien, also for the painting.

Death of Mrs. W. R. Rutherford.

A telephone message on Wednesday from Portland brought the sad news of the death of Mrs. Rutherford, wife of Prof. W. R. Rutherford, the cause of death being appendicitis. It was not known that Mrs. Rutherford was sick and it was quite a shock to her many friends in Tillamook, and the pupils of the public school, when apprised of the sad news, for Mrs. Rutherford, while teaching school here with her husband, was one of the best liked ladies in this city, and it was with much regret that the people of this city heard of her early demise. Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford had left Tillamook with the intention of going to Eugene, where Mr. Rutherford was going to take a course in the State University. The sympathy of the people of Tillamook City and that of the pupils of the public school is extended to Mr. Rutherford in his bereavement.

A Retort.

TO EDITOR OF TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT. In calling attention to the fact that W. C. Wolfe was a socialist, you have betrayed the fact that you cannot refute the doctrine of socialism, except by appealing to party prejudice when one of our number goes wrong and furnishes you the opportunity.

If your reasoning is correct that socialism is responsible for Wolfe's action, then by analogy R-publicanism and reading the Headlight and Oregonian is responsible for Alderman's act, that Democracy is to blame for the Hembree case, or that the doctrine of Christ is responsible for the wrong doings of Bible readers. Socialism is coming regardless of any one in divided. When the dairymen bought or built the cheese factories here, socialism came nearer to them. When the wage slaves in the cities move for the possession of labor saving machinery and transportation to whom it rightfully belongs, either by purchase or confiscation, our greatest concern is that they may have the protection of law when the conflict occurs, it will then be either socialism or anarchy.

We prefer socialism, which means to raise the condition of the working and training class above the condition of public charity and abolish the conditions that breed paupers and tramps.
