Wonder whether it was any of the show people who left small pox germs behind them.

The Oregonian predicts that Taft will carry Oregon with about 20,000 votes to spare. It ought to be 40,000, and would be, if the people really knew how important it is to the whole country that Taft should be elected.

Social purity is something that everybody, who have the interest of the city or county at heart, should take a lively interest in, but it is a delicate subject for a newspaper to take up and expose the parties who have been ruining young women and girls of this city, and if all the reports are true about several young men it is about time that the girls' parents should get busy and take the law in their own hands.

Sleep over this before you cast your vote next month. Land in Tillamook County, which, under the last democratic administration, was worth $25 to $50 per acre, is worth, under the present republican administration, from $200 to $300 per acre. No one can deny this if they want to draw a true comparison. Now look at it from another standpoint. How much will it drop in valuation if Bryan is elected?

We feel sorry for the democrats who cannot deny the fact that the dairymen of Tillamook County received but 12c a pound under Cleveland's administration, whereas the average price last year was about 35c per lb. Another thing, the enhanced valuation of dairy farms in this county is something which should not be lost sight of, for it was under the republican administration which caused farms worth $2,000 ten years ago to be worth three times that amount today. It is no wonder, then, that dairymen vote the republican ticket when that party has made them comfortably well off.

The parties who run and control the Herald must think that the dairymen are a lot of idiots in trying to make them believe that they lose $50,000 a year in the marketing of the output of cheese from this county. It is the same gag. So many newcomers are so "wise" directly they get here, who know little or nothing about local conditions, soils and markets, that they show their ignorance when they undertake to tell a lot of experienced and successful dairymen what they should or should not do. The dairymen of this county are not ignoramuses, who have the brains to size up such articles as a lot of newspaper rot.

It looks as if the special interests want to butt into the creamery business again, for the dairymen will notice that their organ is trying to create a strife by making a fool assertion that the dairymen of this county are losing $50,000 a year on account of the system by which the cheese is marketed. To our way of thinking this looks like a slam at directors and others, who, for years, have had to dispose of the cheese output. When the creameries and cheese factories some few years ago were doing well, the special interests butted in to control them, and this caused such a commotion amongst the dairymen that they eventually succeeded in throwing off the yoke. Since then things have been going along most smoothly. It looks as if another attempt is to be made to butt in and upset the present satisfactory condition of affairs, but it will fail, for the dairymen will soon see the trick that is now being put up to hoodwink them. But we do not think that the dairymen are "green" enough to believe that the cheese output of Tillamook could have been sold for $50,000 more this year or any other year. Hats! What is the special interests trying to cram into the dairymen, anyway?

THE FALSE STATEMENTS ABOUT CHEESE PRICES.

Call Board System not Practical—Would Mean More Middlemen to Make a Profit.

The last issue of the Tillamook Herald devoted two columns trying to tell the dairymen of this county that they are losing as much as $1500.00 on the cheese shipped each trip of the Elmore, although they are putting the loss at as low as $50,000.00 for the season in another place. And all because the dairymen do not see fit to sell their cheese on call boards, as they do in the east. This matter has been talked over by the farmers at different times. They are coming to the conclusion it is not practicable in this county. They have thought of establishing a meeting place where the boards or the president of each creamery, could meet weekly and agree on a price to be asked for the week ensuing after each meeting, but on account of several factories holding off this also was abandoned. The chances are that in another season or two the latter plan will be adapted. The proposition of call boards was not practicable, they thought, on account of the lack of transportation between this county and the outside. It would cost the buyers too much to send a man in here to buy cheese. There is no question as to that, and the consequence would be that if they did sell on call boards, the buyers would be several speculators who would do the buying. Now what the farmers can not see is this, how could the speculators get any better prices than they are getting at present? Would not the speculators have to sell to the same houses we are selling now? It would simply mean that several men would be paid for the work they did in buying and selling. Further, these men would not look after the dairymen's interests, for they will find it to their advantage to manipulate the market. That they would do this is shown by the actions of speculators in every line of their endeavor. Further the farmers of Tillamook have seen several of these men go broke in this country, and to the detriment of the producer each time.

Taking up the proposition of determining prices. It is to some extent true that the Eastern market determines prices here, but this is more true in theory than in practice. Supply and demand in the West, largely makes the market here, as well as elsewhere. When ever cheese advances in price to a figure stopping its ready consumption, or when as in the present season, many people are out of employment, the Eastern market does not have much to do with it. The main thing is the demand for cheese in the west and California. It would be impossible to get 15 cents for cheese in Tillamook at this time, what certain newspaper men and their backers say to the contrary notwithstanding, unless, indeed, Eastern prices would advance to an equal figure. In this connection it would be well to add that Portland takes but a small part of the output of cheese from this county, so we are informed. Considerable quantities go to as far off as Los Angeles, Cal. and Lewiston, Idaho. To the latter point the freight rate is $1.50 per 100 lbs. gross weight, or 1 1/2c. per lb. cheese counting package. To get into this market with the surplus cheese is the problem the farmers are up against.

The proposition the dairymen are working on, or rather who are in the so-called association, so we are informed, is to make some central association or to get the several manufacturers of cheese in this county to agree to make a uniform price for their product on first class cheese. Then when the Portland and other regular markets are overstocked with cheese, to sell the surplus in markets that do not regularly use Tillamook cheese, selling it for a little less money, the small loss to be adjusted between all the factories. These losses would be many times made up by the consequent gains in prices in our regular markets, and would also keep the market in a healthy state. To illustrate: One of the creamery men here is offered 12 1/2 cents for cheese to be shipped to Idaho. On account of high freight rate, and because the people there have been using Eastern cheese largely, they feel that they cannot pay more money than this. On account of the competition, all trying to get into the Portland market, he can not sell this car of cheese, and instead of being able to help the Portland market, this cheese will be thrown out to help make it worse.

Now how could a call board help it out? The people who bought the cheese would be looking for their own advantage, which is only natural. But the farmers would then have several people put between them and the wholesaler, to whom they sell direct now. The statement that the farmers are getting $50,000.00 per year less than they would be getting, is of course, not true. When the market is active, the difference or margin between Tillamook and Eastern prices is considerable more in favor of Tillamook prices than at present, and at times it with producers here altogether.

The dairymen know that the present system is not perfect, nor does anyone claim perfection for it, yet it is far better for this country than call boards, which are impracticable altogether on account of the lack of transportation. We repeat the farmers would have to stand the cost of keeping the buyers, as they would make enough of the business to get a good living. A few years ago every factory had some one to sell their cheese for them and when the market was slow as during the last part of the present season, price cutting was indulged in by many to sell their product, as no one wanted to be left with their cheese. Now the market is covered in a much better manner, with most of the competition cut out. That it will be eliminated altogether, either by getting all the product under one management controlled directly by the producer through some association, or getting the several heads to agree on prices as herein mentioned is certain. Then the farmers will get the highest prices possible and middlemen will be cut out altogether.

Why Colds are Dangerous.

Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, you do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by a cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgment. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to cure a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade over a large part of the world. For sale by all Druggists.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, in cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. BOULDER CREEK.

We understand that Miss Ida Nicklaus has come home from Tillamook to keep house for her brothers, Fred and John, who are running the Wm. Patrick ranch.

Billy Yarnell stayed all night with H. A. Chopard one night last week.

Some nice salmon came up the river last week during the rain. They were beauties, straight from the bay and as bright as silver.

Jacob Nicklaus and wife went to the county seat last week.

Word comes from Centralia, Washington, of the death of Miss Ora Brady, who is well known in this county, having lived here for many years. The family have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends here, in this sad bereavement. We are not certain as to her age, but think she was about fifteen years old and a very lovable child. We are happy to think of her as not lost to us, but as only transplanted to bloom with richer beauty in the gardens of Heaven, beneath the sunshine of our Saviour's smile.

O. W. Kinnaman tells us he contemplates joining the ranks of the patrons of the Pacific Telephone Company some time in the near future. We are pleased to hear this, the more merrier you know. And then too, we have access to the Mutual. We can talk any day to the Mutual people and enjoy in the evenings the fine music they have on their line, with organ, harps, phonographs and graphophones, and sometimes vocal music also.

We regret to state that Mr. Nicklaus lost a valuable mare last week. We hear that a sore foot brought on lockjaw, causing her death.

Several men have been engaged for a few days in repairing the Brown school house a little, and getting it ready for opening the fall term, as soon as the teacher reaches here.

Grandpa Sears started for Baliston last Friday to spend the winter. He went out with his grandson who had been visiting him for a few days and with whom he will stay.

Jim Borba, Sr., went to Tillamook Saturday, and being storm bound, remained over there until Tuesday.

Ruth Gladwell visited with Mrs. Chopard Saturday and Sunday.

While on their trip to the Valley, Mr. Bays and family attended the wedding of Mr. Bays' niece, Miss Fleta Bays and Mr. Roy Brady (both former Tillamook young people), which took place at Dallas, October 1st. Their many Tillamook friends wish this young couple all the joy which can fall to mortal's lot and as few sorrows as may be.

H. A. Chopard and family and Mrs. John Borba spent last Sunday with O. W. Kinnaman and family, who have moved home after spending most of the past summer at Beaver.

Mr. Bowers, of Woods, who has been very sick and is yet was on the lake Sunday walking around for his health.

The Sandlake Sunday School is being well attended and it reminds the old settlers of the good times we used to have when they see the crowd gathering. On account of rheumatism, Charles Atkinson left Sandlake and will go to a dryer climate.

Mr. Galloway and wife visited with Mr. and Mrs. Diamond and family Sunday.

Mrs. Spaulding and daughter Ella, are suffering with lagrip this week. Better send for Dr. Hagey, Ella.

Mrs. James Atkinson has taken a little boy and girl from the orphan's home to raise.

Will Roenicke was on the lake Sunday hunting. He had to fix a dyke on his mother's place, which broke through last week.

Joel Atkinson will attend college at McMinville this winter. We all wish him success.

Mrs. Berg, Miss Elma and Hazel Carr visited the school Friday afternoon. Salmon are quite plentiful on the lake now.

A few ducks and geese made their appearance on the Lake during the fore part of the week, but have all disappeared at the present writing.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up the treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better. The cause of the wrong treatment, but probably worse, a proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshment, sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

THE "LAST SUPPER"

Singular Story of the Master's Leonardo da Vinci.

Moldering away on the walls of a monastery in Milan, Italy, is the famous "Last Supper" of Leonardo da Vinci. Like every masterpiece painting required many years of patient labor, and as a result of labor it is perfect in its execution of expression and sublime in its beauty of love. In addition to this it has an incident in its history which contributes not a little toward making it the great teacher that it is.

It is said that the artist, in the faces of the apostles, stamped countenances of good men whom he knew. When, however, he was to paint the face of Jesus in the picture he could find none that would satisfy his conception. The Christ would serve as a model for the Christ must be dignified in its simplicity and majestic in its bearing. After several years of careful study the painter happened to see Pietro Bandinelli, a choir boy of exquisite voice, belonging to the cathedral. Being struck by the features and tender manner, he sketched an angelic smile, which induced the boy to be the study for painting of the face of Jesus.

All was done most carefully and reverently, but the picture was incomplete, for the face of Jesus was absent. Again the painter, with zeal of a true lover of his art, went in search of a countenance that would serve for the face of the teacher. Years passed before his search was rewarded and the picture finally completed. As the artist was about to miss the miserable and dejected wretch who had been his study, the man looked up at him and said: "You have painted me before," replied and dumb with amazement the painter learned that the man was Pietro Bandinelli. During those long years Pietro had been a student of studying music, had met his companions, had given himself to drinking and gambling, had fallen into shameful dissipation and crime, and the face of Jesus had once been the face for the face of Christ.—Eagle.

A LOST JOKE.

Would Be Imitator of a Wife Made a Ludicrous Finish.

Congressman Quarles used to say: "I was a guest of a banker at dinner, one of your York giants of finance, who had vitrol nearly a score of us to drink a bit and swap notions. The waiter was lovely until the fifth course appeared on the menu as 'luscious aux episards,' what we common roustabouts call smoked beef with spinach—and my favorite. He tripped at the door and slipped tongue and greens on the carpet. host, equal to the occasion, raised all, especially the waiter, by a jovially: 'There's no harm done, gentlemen.' 'Tis merely a lapsus linguae. It was the cleverest joke words I ever heard.

"Among the guests was a Boston merchant, up from the gutter, worth about $3,000,000 and proud of his cabulary, which was not unlike Malaprop's," continued Quarles, shook with merriment at the wit. The happy effect induced me to give a dinner the following week about the same guests, and as I opened to learn afterward, he directed his servant to lay a roast beef on the floor. The waiter faithfully performed his part. He went a splendid first cut, worth about fifteen pounds, the guests' felices spattering everywhere. He felt hurt at the accident. Some groaned. "Be not uneasy, my friend," chirped the waiter, he will be with 'tis only a lapsus linguae."

Snagging Salmon in Alaska.

I saw Indians on the Chukot fishing day and night. The fisherman walked along the bank carrying a steel hook.

Tossing the hook end of the pole into the stream, he turned it so that the elbow rested on the bottom. The fish gently drew the pole back and when he felt a fish strike, he knew that a salmon was already crossing over the pole, so he pulled it a quick jerk, drove the hook into the fish's side and hauled it up to the bank.

This is called snagging salmon, the best and truest.
