What Oregon Has at Stake.

Oregon has more at stake in the coming Presidential election than in any previous political contest since 1896. At no time in the history of the state have there been so many great enterprises in process of formation in this state and adjacent territory. At the head of the list naturally stands the large transportation projects which have been planned for Oregon. The Harriman projects alone include the long-needed railroad to Central Oregon, extension of the Snake River line to Huntington and into Clearwater country, the Tillamook line, the Natron cut-off around the Siskiyous, the Coos Bay line, and a number of smaller projects, involving in the aggregate expenditure of large sums of money.

The Hill lines are now almost into the city, with the new North Bank Road, but as feeders to this new road and to Portland's trade, branch lines are under consideration throughout a great part of Washington and into Central Oregon, with an extension of the line from Seaside to Tillamook almost a certainty. All of these lines are needed, and, if there is no disturbance in the money market, such as would perhaps follow election of Bryan, many of them will be rushed to completion within the next year. Meanwhile nothing whatever is being done beyond the preliminary surveys, and the expense is kept down to the minimum until it is known definitely that there will be some use for the surveys.

Enthusiastic Democrats, many of them having business interests at stake, say that election of Bryan would not interfere with the financing of these great undertakings; but their argument loses all force in the face of the plain every day transactions in the business world. Our foreign trade for the nine months ending September 30, left to our credit the largest balance of trade that has ever been piled up in the corresponding period, and as rapidly as our market will assimilate the offerings, the foreigners are wiping out that balance, by selling us our own railroad and industrial securities. Railroad men and financiers, knowing the intrinsic value of these shares, are taking them up as fast as they are offering, but the process requires so much of their reserves that it is an absolute necessity that they secure additional funds before they can carry out the large plans that are projected for Oregon and other Western states.

The foreigners take Mr. Bryan so seriously and place so much stress on his past promises, that they will not take any chances with him, and will invest no more money in this country until he, as the personal exponent of some of the most dangerous theories ever launched on the political sea, has been eliminated. For the same reason, American capital, which, in spite of the drain that is made on it to take up foreign holdings of our securities, is more plentiful than ever before, will not be available until it is definitely settled that this country has not committed itself to a free silver-anti-Philippine-anti expansion-bank-guaranty government-owned-railroads policy.—Oregonian.

Jack London's New Book.

Jack London has just written a book of 142,000 words entitled "Martin Eden." The Pacific Monthly has purchased for $7,000 the serial rights for this vivid story. It began in the September number of the Pacific Monthly and will run for twelve months.

"Martin Eden" is a character study—the story of a fighter—a fighter as a newsboy in the alleys of San Francisco; a fighter as a rowdy in slums; and finally, a fighter for education and culture, struggling against the odds of common birth and vulgar environment, with a desperation of courage that presents a powerful blending of brutality of strength with sublimity of purpose. His inspiration is a woman of the higher sphere of life, but his motive is the mighty impulse that animates a soul and brain born to expand until fettering ignorance is sundered and ignoble influence trampled under foot.

It is not too much to say of "Martin Eden" that it possesses more of fascination and virility, grips the imagination and the sympathies more keenly, and imparts more of courage, than any book produced in years.

Send 50 cents in stamps to The Pacific Monthly and they will mail you The Pacific Monthly for six months beginning with the September number, in which the first installment of London's story appears.

WILL SELL MANY ACRES.

May-Holland Company Plans Big Colonization on Grand Ronde Reservation.

To place on the market at one time 13,000 acres of Oregon farming lands is the ambitious plan of the May-Holland Company. The company has closed a deal for acerage in the Grand Ronde Indian reservation, a part of what the Indians referred to as the "big burn," by reason of a great forest fire that many years ago swept over that part of the state. The effect of the big burn is today turned to profit, in that the promoters of the colonization scheme which has developed, declare that the old-time forest fire covered the land with partly destroyed pine and fir remains, that in years since made the land very rich in loam.

The plan of the newly organized company is to cut up the tract in small farms, enter into a plan of interesting settlers, both in the Middle West and abroad, to whom will be sold tracts as small as 20 acres, if desired, and on up to 160 acres. The plan as outlined at present is to sell about 20 acres for cash to colonists of limited means, reserving along side as much more as they may be inclined to acquire in the ensuing three to five years. In this way, it is thought the whole tract will be taken up by men with families who will work raising crops, fruit or cattle, the latter of course on the larger tracts, and with this idea in view the colonization scheme is to be worked out through correspondence and personal conferences with intending purchasers.

The land is said to have been pronounced by experienced authorities as of the best in the state for agriculture and along its borders are hillsides that are also said to be excellent for grazing. The main body of the land acquired is rolling, and in addition to the acerage taken over from the Grande Ronde Land company, there is quite an additional amount on which options have been taken by the new owners.

The investment represents a consideration of something like $100,000 and is expected to develop into one of the most important small farm settlements so far undertaken in this state.

A townsite is to be established at a point about 12 miles from Sheridan and on the line of the Lytle road to Tillamook, also having the Government military road in its immediate vicinity. —Exchange.

Nothing Desperate, After All.

[TO THE EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT]

Well, it seems that the Tillamook Herald and some people are poking their noses in my affairs, and are wondering how much I am worth. That is none of their business. To those who say that I threatened to harm my children and to burn my house, I say it is a deliberate lie. It would seem funny that I should want to burn a house which cost me over $1,500 to build, with only $500 insurance on it, and if the fire insurance company wants to cancel the policy all they have to do is to notify me.

Some people seem to want to busy themselves about my troubles with my wife. We have had no trouble on account of the children, but have on account of my wife not attending to her household duties, which I can prove by friends here. Now as to her sanity, my wife was all right when she left about three weeks ago to see my daughter, who lives on the Miami, and who was soon to be ill. She did not go there to nurse her but for the purpose of bringing home our little boy, who was staying there. She left to stay a week or so, and at the end of that time she returned home, saying that she left my daughter's house at one o'clock in the morning and said that she had not slept for six nights and that she was weary and hungry. After dinner, about three o'clock, she left home to go back to my daughter's home, and from that time my wife became insane. On the 13th October I received a message from the Sheriff at three o'clock and asked me to go at once and get my wife, and said for me not to wait till tomorrow. This was impossible, so I asked them to telephone to Harry Crane to bring my wife home and I would pay him whatever it was worth. This was not done. Next morning my three boys left at six in the morning to bring my wife and the baby home, but when they reached there they were taking my wife to Tillamook. On the 14th October the Sheriff sent me a message to me to be down the next day. I did not receive the message until ten o'clock the next day. The stage was gone and the tide was coming in, so I told the deputy that it was impossible to go then, but would go next morning. The deputy said that the Sheriff would come the next day then. I told him that if the Sheriff could not wait until the next day all he had do was to come as fast as he could and that I had no wings and that he did not need any warrant or six shooter, as I was ready to go without them.

So, with this, I remain, the violent man of Nehalem.

I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c. at Chas. I. Clough's drug store.

ANDREW SCHENCK.

President of the Germania Fire Insurance Co, Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for over a year, and can say that it has never failed to cure the most stubborn cough or cold. I can recommend it to any family as a sure and safe children's cough remedy. —ANDREW SCHENCK, Ayton, Ont. This remedy is for sale by all Druggists.

Had a Close Call.

Mrs Ada L. Croom, the widely known proprietor of the Croom Hotel, Vaughn, Miss, says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough, and consumption seemed to have its grip on me, when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. I began taking it, and three bottles affected a complete cure." The fame of this life saving cough and cold remedy, and lung and throat healer is world wide. Sold at Chas. I. Clough's drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

For Chronic Diarrhoea.

"While in the army in 1863 I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says George M. Felton, of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief until Mr. A. W. Miles of this place persuaded me to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, one bottle of which stopped it at once." For sale by all Druggists.

Why Colds are Dangerous.

Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by a cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgment. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to cure a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade over a large part of the world. For sale by all Druggists.
