MEMORY OF THE PAST.

Unalloyed Joy That Came With the Little Red Scarf.

was wondering the other day one thing had given me the most re in the world," said the village n. "I had to go back a long —clear back into the blessed San-laus days—but I recalled it. It a scarf I found in my stocking right Christmas morning. I got one, and my brother got a blue I was a mighty proud boy that ng as I trudged downtown with red scarf around my neck. I it every day until the birds be-o sing in the springtime and the were hunting up their marbles. n't now remember who gave it to or what became of it, but I do that the memory of it still clings benediction.

nce the days of that little red I have had things of far more sic value. I have worn lodge ms of high degree; I have had a watch and chain; I once had a of shoes that cost $5 and a neck-at cost twice as much as the lit-scarf. Nay, more, I once tackled g hat. But among these things recall none that gave me such ne and unalloyed pleasure, such elled up feeling, as did that little carf way back in the days when wolf sat out in the road and ed. 'Tis the little red scarf days stir the memory with 'It might been.'"—Osborn (Kan.) Farmer.

PLAIN JOHN SMITH.

His Name Changes In Various Parts of the World.

n Smith—plain John Smith—is not high sounding; it does not sug-aristocracy; it is not the name of hero in die away novels, and yet good, strong and honest. Trans-d to other languages, it seems to the ladder of respectability. In Latin it is Johannes Smithus; talian smooths it off into Giovan-mithi; the Spaniards render it Smithus; the Dutchman adopts it ans Schmidt; the French flatten t into Jean Smeet, and the Rus-sneezes and barks Jonloff Smit-ki. When John Smith gets into tea trade in Canton he becomes n Shimmit; if he clambers about t Hecla, the Icelanders say he is e Smithson; if he trades among Tuscaroras he becomes Ton Qa ttia; in Poland he is known as Schmittiweiski; should he wan-among the Welsh mountains they of Jihon Schmidd; when he goes Mexico he is booked as Jontli itti; if of classic turn and he lin-among Greek ruins he turns to Smikton, and in Turkey he is ut-disguised as Yoe Seef.—Phreno-al Journal.

Mystery of a Cookbook.

mebody mentioned cookbooks. takes a good deal to make me der," said the publisher, "but I ved a jolt in the culinary line the day that set me thinking. In g over the manuscript of a cook-that had been submitted for our oval I was struck by this intro-ion to many of the recipes, 'Good boarding house table.'

ow, why that discrimination? anything that is good enough for arding house table good enough ny other table, and isn't anything is good enough for any other ta-ood enough for a boarding house ? Judging by the way those par-r recipes read, they may result me rather tasty dishes. Then limit them to boarding houses?" w York Globe.

His Successor.

ortly after the death of one of land's greatest poets a devoted ad-r of his visited the little West-land villages where the poet had and died to gaze reverently at house, the little church and at of his favorite haunts where e of his immortal poems were com-d.

eing an old man a native of the ge), the stranger entered into con-ation with him, remarking sadly he death of the poet, to which the man answered kindly and encour-gly:

ye, aye, still I mak' na doobt but t' 'll carry the bizness on."

Brief and Pithy.

American law journal has quot-he charge to a jury delivered by a ain Judge Donovan as the shortest ecord. The judge said:

entlemen of the jury, if you be-e the plaintiff find a verdict ntiff and fix the amount. If you ve the defendant find a verdict defendant. Follow the officer."

t an English periodical caps this charge by quoting a shorter one ered by Commissioner Kerr. He to a jury:

hat man says prisoner robbed him. prisoner says he didn't. You set-t."

A ROYAL FUNERAL.

Strange Ceremonies That Mark the Burial of a Spanish King.

Strange and almost weird is the ceremonial which accompanies the burial of Spanish kings. The pantheon, or royal tomb, is at the palace of the Escurial, situated 3,000 feet above the level of the sea and some distance from the capital. Only kings, queens and mothers of kings are buried there. the coffins of the kings lying on one side, those of the queens on the other. After lying in state for several days in the throne room in Madrid an enormous procession is formed, accompanying the body to the Escurial. A halt is made on the way, and the corpse rests there for one night.

In the morning the lord high chamberlain stands at the side of the coffin and says in loud tones, "Is your majesty pleased to proceed on your journey?" After a short silence the procession moves on and winds up to the grand portal of the palace. These doors are never opened except to admit a royal personage, dead or alive. When the casket containing the remains is at last placed in the vault the chamberlain unlocks it and, kneeling down, calls with a loud voice: "Senor! Senor! Senor!"

After a solemn pause he cries again: "His majesty does not reply! Then it is true, the king is dead!"

He then locks the coffin, gives the key to the prior and, taking his staff of office, breaks it in pieces and flings them at the casket. The booming of the guns and the tolling of bells announce to the nation that the king has gone to his final resting place.

QUEER TELEGRAPH POLES.

Made of Adobe In Bolivia—Growing Trees Used In Africa.

The most original telegraph line in the world once extended from the capital of Bolivia, La Paz, to the town of Oruro. In this part of Bolivia there are no growing trees, and wood is so difficult to find that even the ordinary household furniture of the natives is invariably made not of wood, but of dried mud or adobe.

So when the war broke out between Chile and Bolivia and a telegraph line became urgent it was adobe that was chosen for the queerest telegraph poles in existence. These pillars were built on stone foundations and measured about five feet square at the base, with a height of about fifteen feet.

They were placed at intervals of about 360 feet and thus held the wire at a height sufficient to clear the only animals of the country, the llama and the donkey. The total length of the line was 156 miles.

Among other curious telegraph lines is the growing pole line erected in Uganda by an English engineer, who could not find any dead wood which would withstand the white ants and hit upon the idea of transporting growing bark cloth trees to the side of the roads and using them as poles.

In the Dutch East Indies growing trees are turned to account also, but there a wire is stretched across the road between the trees on either side, and the insulator is suspended in its middle, and the line is thus over the road and clear from vegetation.—Chicago Tribune.

Watch Springs.

The watch carried by the average man is composed of ninety-eight pieces and its manufacture embraces more than 2,000 distinct and separate operations.

Hairspring wire weighs one-twentieth of a grain to the inch. One mile of wire weighs less than half a pound.

The balance gives five vibrations every second, 200 every minute, 18,000 every hour, 432,000 every day and 157,680,000 every year.

The value of springs when finished and placed in watches is enormous in proportion to the material from which they are made. A ton of steel made up into hairsprings when in watches is worth more than twelve and one-half times the value of the same weight in pure gold.

How He Managed It.

The bishop of Richmond told a good story about his father. "He was a farmer," said Dr. Pulleine, "and a nice old gentleman too. One year he took it into his head to grow flax, so he sowed the seed and, having a good crop, sent it away to be made into a tablecloth. Some time later when seated at dinner he remarked to a lady near him, 'Do you know, I grew this tablecloth myself!' 'Did you really?' she answered, with the greatest surprise. 'However did you manage it?' 'Well,' most mysteriously, 'if you'll promise not to tell any one I'll tell you. I—planted a napkin.'"—London Mail.

Her Assistant.

The authoress of whom Fliegende Blatter tells had said that she was very happy in her married life.

"I find my husband such a help!" she added fervently.

"Indeed!" said her friend. "Does he cook or write?"

Thought of Him.

Papa—Are you sure that you and mamma thought of me while you were away? Grace—Yes; we heard a man kicking up a great row about his breakfast at the hotel, and mamma said, "That's just like papa."

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.
