 If there were any names omitted in the annual record of births, marriages and deaths published in our last issue, it was because they were not filed with Dr. I. M. Smith, the county health officer and physician.
 In a letter received from Engineer Geo. L. Davis, of the P. R. & N. Co., he concludes by saying: "Wishing you the compliments of the season, and trusting in a year from this date Tillamook will be the terminus of the P. R. & N. from Portland to the sea."
 Attorney Ook Nolan has appealed from the judgment of Judge Burnett in the Herman Boelk vs Oak Nolan case, in which the latter buncoed the old German out of his homestead in a fraudulent and deceitful manner. The case will now go to the supreme court.
 A suit was filed in the circuit court by Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Co., a corporation, against E. E. Tyler and wife, F. R. Beals and wife, et al, in which plaintiff claims to have some interest in the Tyler building, and prays for a decree that the amount of $1,723.75 be decreed a lien upon the building.
 H. C. Hansen planted a third of an acre to Improved American Purple Top Ruta Bagas, planting about 18in. apart, and the roots grew most uniform, some weighing as much as 14lbs., but they averaged 10lbs., making over 30 tons of cow feed, not including the tops.
 Mrs. Chas. McKillip, while bringing in some wood to replenish the fire, fell on a board, breaking her left leg just above the ankle. Mrs. McKillip was alone at the time the accident occurred, and she lay for half an hour on the floor before Mr. McKillip came to the house and put her on the bed. Dr. Brown was called and soon reduced the fracture. While it is not complicated it was a painful accident. She is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances.—Clo. verdale Courier.

 A civil suit was tried today in Justice Sappington's court before a jury, in which R. H. Zachmann brought suit against W. G. Dwight to recover $11.60, the plaintiff claiming that the defendant promised to pay the costs of abstract, etc., in a real estate deal. The jury brought in a verdict for plaintiff and the case was appealed to the circuit court.
 The steamer Argo is tied up at Astoria on account of the Columbia river being frozen over, consequently she was unable to reach Portland. Good use is being made of the time the steamer is tied up putting in new bulk heads and making preparations to carry passengers. Part of the crew was paid off, as there is no difficulty in getting sailors wherever they are wanted.
 Married, at the residence of William Mackie, on the motor line at Rickreall, Polk County, Oregon, at noon on New Year's day, Mr. A. F. Mackie and Miss Blanche Goodwin. Rev. C. L. Hoover, of the Evangelical church, of Monmouth, officiated. A few hours later the happy couple left to spend a few days in Portland. The bride formerly resided in this county.
 The transportation committee came to a satisfactory agreement with the owners of the steamer Argo for carrying freight between Portland and Tillamook City, and most of the business men and co operative associations have signed up for two years. The freight rate will be reduced eventually to $4 per ton and the passenger rate will $4. Mr. A. D. Chase, who is part owner and one of the directors in the boat company, came in from Portland to make arrangements, which have been carried through satisfactorily to all concerned. Some few of the business men have failed to sign yet.
 Representative Hawley introduced a bill in the house appropriating $150,000 for operating the new dredge "Oregon," recently constructed for use in the harbors along the Oregon and Washington coast. The bill provides that the dredge shall first operate at Coos Bay, then go to Coquille, Tillamook harbor, Grays Harbor, Willapa Bay, and such other points as may be designated by the Secretary of War. He also introduced a bill providing that the unexpired balance of the appropriation for the jetty at Coos Bay, amounting to about $25,000, be expended in operating the dredge "Oregon," now at Coos Bay in widening and deepening the channel at that point.
 Tillamook County came in for some of the cold weather which swept over the Northwest, and about a foot of snow fell in the county, while at the summit of the Coast range two and a half feet of snow is reported to have fallen. For several days the glass was below freezing point in the morning, registering 13 below one morning. Sleighing became general all over the county, and all manner of contrivances were turned into sleighs, which afforded a good deal of enjoyment to the people, for it is seldom that snow of sufficient depth falls in Tillamook to allow of sleighing. Although the freeze extended over several days it did not freeze as hard as it did for several days two years since. The cold snap crippled business and put a stop to most all outdoor work. The weather turned warmer today and it commenced raining.
 An adjourned meeting of the city council was held on Monday evening, with Mayor Coates and Councilman F. W. Talbot and G. P. Wilt present, which placed the city council in the same predicament that prevailed at the previous meeting, viz., with not enough councilmen present to do business. To facilitate this, Mayor Coates had the votes for councilmen for the third and fifth wards recounted, with this result: 3rd ward, B. C. Lamb, 18; F. W. Christensen, 16. 5th ward, W. S. Hays, 20; G. Bennett, 20. As Mr. Hays, who was present, declined to serve, Mr. Bennett and Mr. Lamb were declared elected. Mayor Coates read a number of the ordinances for the information of the city marshal in regard to the enforcement of the law, and in the discussion of which the Press took an active part and told Marshal Kimball in plain words that if he failed to enforce the laws and did nothing to prevent the lawlessness that is now going on within the city he should resign and allow someone else to fill his place, in answer to which the marshal said he would try and do something as soon as the city council organized.

Fred Briody Fleeced by Confidence Men on Train and Wedding Stopped.

W. F. Quinlan and D. D. Burroughs have been arrested by city detectives and special railroad detectives from Kansas City on the charge of working a confidence game on a ranchman on a Union Pacific train.
 Fred Briody, a ranchman of Cloverdale, Oregon, was relieved of $95 by confidence men as an early morning U. P. train passed through Topeka. The men dropped off the train at the U. P. and Santa Fe junction in the east part of the city. Briody went through to Kansas City where he was met by F. W. Stevens, a U. P. detective, who had been wired by the conductor, Stevens immediately telegraphed the chief of police here to watch all trains, and taking the man doubled back to Topeka. All trains were carefully watched, but no one answering the description of the men was seen until last night when Stevens and Briody saw these men make for a train. Briody immediately recognized them as the men who got his money. Stevens and an officer detained the men and phoned for the patrol wagon.
 One of the men who worked Briody left his coat on the train. This coat contained a folder bearing much figuring, which figuring is remarkably like that on some paper found in the pockets of Quinlan. Quinlan did not have an overcoat when arrested and this one fits him very well. Burroughs, besides being held on investigation was tried this morning for carrying a revolver and fined $25 by Judge Umy. Burroughs says he is an elevator man at Grantville and carrying much negotiable paper needs a gun. He said he brought it to Topeka to be repaired; but he came up Saturday and had been here ever since and had not had it repaired, so the judge found that he carried it for other reasons than to be tinkered by a gunsmith. The gun is a big Colt, carried in a holster, and was found to be in splendid working order.
 Quinlan is a farmer living near New man. His people are well known and influential. A score of the men's friends and a priest were in conference with them this morning. It is expected a conviction will be difficult on account of any number of alibis. Last night both of the men showed return tickets to their stations, but the promptness with which they thought of this, leads the officers to believe they had them in reserve as they are 30 day tickets. One of the friends who had no reason to know that Quinlan was without an overcoat, volunteered positive information to an officer that he did not have.
 Conk Jones, the once famous king bee of the Kansas City confidence men had a farm and lived at Perry in the neighborhood of these men when not at his Kansas City headquarters. The special agents from here claims that Burroughs is an old friend of Jones.
 The game worked by these men on Briody is a feasible one provided somebody can be found that is green enough. Briody, living 35 miles from a railroad on a dairy ranch in Oregon, was a fit subject. He wears a series of gold nuggets linked together for a watch chain.

He says he saw one of these men in Denver and that is probably where they got an eye on him, or else were notified by some accomplice there. Fred was dreamily speeding on toward Russellville, Ky., to meet and marry a little girl he used to woo. Somewhere before reaching Topeka a man giving the name of Brooks came in and sat down beside him saying that he did not like to sit up ahead where the passengers were all foreigners. Conversation began and Brooks said he too, was from Kentucky. His sister's husband had just died in Idaho, he said, and he was shipping the goods to Oklahoma. Just then the other fellow entered and asked Briody if he was Brooks. Brooks spoke up that he was the man. Then the other with the air of an official, said there was some more money due on that shipment.

Brooks produced a draft for $1,200 and offered it to the man who could not cash it. Brooks then appealed to Briody for some money on the draft until they could cash it. He counted out $95, a reasonably fair price for a $1,200 draft, and turned it over to Brooks who made the payment to the official. Briody says he tried to keep tab on the men, but just as the train was leaving the city they dropped off, which was at the Santa Fe crossing.
 Briody is now held up until after the trial. Meanwhile there is much consternation among the people of Jefferson county and a little girl waits longingly in Russellville, Ky., for a tardy lover.—Topeka, Kan. paper.

Coast Counties to Impose Tax.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 12.—Senator W. C. Chase, of Coos and Curry counties has a bill of great importance to the coast counties of the state, providing that counties bordering on navigable bays or streams may tax themselves for improvement of the channels, in conjunction with aid extended by the national government.
 This measure will permit each county to act for itself in imposing a tax, the levy to be conditional on aid given by the United States. In Coos county there are two sections bordering on navigable waters, the Coos Bay section and the Coquille river section. The bill will enable the formation of separate corporations to provide for each of these districts, each district contributing only to the improvement that will give it direct benefit.
 Besides Coos Bay and the Coquille, the bill would enable the counties contiguous to the Siuslaw, Rogue river, Tillamook bay and Yaquina bay to impose a tax for the benefit of navigation.

Proposes Timber Lands Law.

Representative Beals, of Tillamook, will revive his bill calling for the assessment of timber lands on a cruised basis. This bill requires owners of timber lands to submit to the assessor the amount of timber per acre on their land. On the refusal of the timber owner to furnish this information, the law authorizes the assessor personally to cruise the land, the cost of which shall be assessed against the owner. The cruise shall constitute the basis on which a valuation shall be placed on the property. This bill was passed by the House two years ago and defeated in the Senate.

The Small Depositor is Welcome at This Bank

A hundred small accounts make a bank stronger than a dozen large ones. That is one of our reasons for urging the man of limited means to transact his business with us.

Large accounts are welcome too, for it is our purpose to serve all the people, whether their business be small or large.

Christian Church Notes.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Monk, January 13th, with good attendance. They decided to have an Easter sale, and are preparing for the same. After enjoying the afternoon, they adjourned to meet next week with Mrs. Allison.
 Electric lights are being put into the church this week. This has been a much hoped for improvement and will add materially to the convenience and utility of the house.
 Last Wednesday evening, a jolly company consisting of the two Bible school classes, taught by Mrs. Botts and Mrs. Buel, met at the home of Mr. Botts. The evening was spent in playing games, after which refreshments were served.
 Considering the weather, the minister spoke to good audiences last Lord's day both morning and evening. The subjects for next Lord's day will be, in the morning, "A Sane Estimate of Life," in the evening, "The First Gospel Sermon." Everybody is invited.
